

NEW KILLER SMOG THREAT IN BRITAIN

LONDON (UPI)—A British scientist warned today that the peacock fog that has blanketed Britain for 25 days is turning into a killer smog.

The scientist was Dr. B. T. Cummings of the London's Bartholomew's Hospital, which treated hundreds of victims in 1952 when a killer smog took the lives of 4,000 persons.

The disastrous smog followed the same pattern. London and the surrounding counties were blanketed for weeks by a crippling fog until coal and other fumes turned it into a death blanket.

Today the heavy blanket covered an area of 28,000 square miles. London area enjoyed a break today as the fog eased.

SCANT MENTION OF SOMMERS

Local Issues Dominating By-Election

By PETE LOUDON, Times Political Reporter

TRAIL—A bridge, an underpass and a stretch of railway seem to eclipse the Sommers scandal and the Briggs charges in the Rossland-Trail Dec. 15 by-election campaign.

Social Credit has promised a spring start on the bridge, tenders were to be called today for construction of the underpass and there is an indication something will be done about the railway issue.

The people of B.C. may be looking on the by-election as a stern test of the embattled Social Credit administration, but judging from political meetings here, his riding is mainly concerned with local issues.

Conservative candidate Alex Brokenshire Thursday night announced: "On Dec. 23, Christmas is coming to Warfield, in the form of a new underpass."

Tenders for the underpass must be filed by Dec. 23.

The underpass, on the highway between Trail and Rossland, has been a political vote-getter for years.

He said the plan had been announced last August and added, "in the spring of the year I'll start definite soundings for foundations. They should be poured in the fall of the year."

He estimated the cost very roughly between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000.

He made reference also to rerouting of a road which now parallels the railway track, at an early date.

Strike Holds Up Washington Paper

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A strike by members of the AFL-CIO American Newspaper Guild prevented the Washington Evening Star from publishing early editions today.

Police charged Harris Monroe, administrative officer of the Washington Newspaper Guild, with simple assault after he scuffled with Star steno-typist Eugene Tanner.

... BUT NO FREE SAMPLES

CUSTER, Wash. (AP)—A tractor-trailer carrying $50,000 worth of whisky from Canada collided with another truck near here late Thursday, spilling $5,000 worth of the liquor over U.S. Highway 99. U.S. customs officers stood by so "no one would get any free samples."

Super-Shot Wound Up For Moon

NEW YORK (AP)—A huge U.S. moon rocket—short, on brains but long on brawn—may blast into space this week-end on a trip that could take just 34 hours, but might last millions of years.

It is the U.S. Army's first shot at the moon—and the army hasn't spared the horses.

This is perhaps the greatest difference between the planned army probe and the last three shots by the U.S. Air Force, one of which reached 79,000 miles.

The air force satellite weighed about 85 pounds. It was aimed at an orbit or at least a single trip around the moon. In its final stage it carried the electronic brains and manoeuvring rocket to do the job.

MAY APPROACH SUN

The 30-pound army shot also is aimed at the moon but if all works well it may be destined for greater glory. The army has "packed" its rocket with enough power and speed to overcome the pull of the earth's gravity and escape into the gravity domain of the sun.

Dr. Wernher von Braun, chief architect of the army shot, says it has a one-in-two chance of building up escape velocity—and so blasting away from the earth into a possible orbit around the sun.

Such an orbit might last some millions of years—perhaps even longer.

This assumes first that all of the moon rocket's engines will fire and that it will shoot past the moon.

'Progress' On Columbia Agreement

OTTAWA (UPI)—Acting Prime Minister Howard Green said today that steps were being taken to sign an agreement with the United States for the co-operative development of the Columbia River.

Green said the basis of the agreement would be the stipulation that Canada retain control and ownership of projects on the Canadian portion of the river.

In a prepared statement, Green said the Canadian and American sections of the International Joint Commission should be instructed by their respective governments to work out plans for apportioning the benefits of the river.

"Preliminary discussions along this line have already been held by the commission and progress has been made toward reaching a solution to this problem," he said.

Full Liquor Rights Asked By Indians

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—The 26th annual convention of the Native Brotherhood of B.C. voted Thursday in favor of asking the provincial government for full liquor privileges.

'MILK FOR HUNGRY CHILDREN'

$10-a-Month to Keep Family of 5

The spectre of hungry children is still haunting the conscience of the world's more fortunate peoples.

In Korea, for example, a family earns from $5 to $10 a month, and the average family numbers five.

The south is hard-put to feed its own population, without taking care of the innumerable thousands who have streamed down from the north to avoid communism.

As always, it is the children who suffer the most from the upheaval of war.

Dr. Lottia Hitchensmanova, director of the Unitarian Service Committee, is being assisted by the Times to help these needy children.

It is nourishment that's needed. The USC is endeavoring to raise $200,000 in Canada before Christmas to ship

PRINCESS IN A HUFF

Exit Cinderella With Bruised Toe

NEW YORK (AP)—Princess Grace of Monaco gave high society a surprise sample of royal displeasure Thursday night—with abrupt flight from the dance floor.

Caught in a milling crush of spectators, guards and photographers at a ball in her honor, the former movie star made her sudden exit with lips set, chin high, and trailing a slightly bewildered escort, her husband, Prince Rainier, III of Monaco.

A spokesman at the royal box explained that the princess had found the throng just too much when someone stepped on her white satin slipper.

The royal wrath subsided swiftly, however, and the girl from Philadelphia remained for the midnight "beauty and the beasts" tableaux, and presided at the drawing of grand prizes for lucky ticket-holders.

Reds Step Up West Berlin Air Threats

BERLIN (AP)—The threat of Communist interference mounted today against American, British and French airliners shuttling in and out of isolated West Berlin.

One of East Germany's leading Communists, politburo member Hermann Matern, told a West Berlin election rally Thursday night that the airlines—Pan American, Air France and British European Airways—have no legal right to fly over East German territory.

"This situation must be brought in order," he said. He did not say what action the Communists have in mind.

BERLIN (AP)—East German police have taken into custody a U.S. Army pilot whose plane made a forced landing, an East German official disclosed today.

The pilot presumably is Lieut. Richard Mackin of Washington, D.C., who disappeared Wednesday while flying a courier plane near the border between East and West Germany.

City Earmarked For $5 Million

British Columbia Electric Co. announced today it will spend $95,800,000 on expansion in 1959, more than 80 per cent of it for new electrical facilities.

More than $5,000,000 of this sum will be spent by the company in the Victoria area.

SUBSTATION

Bulk of the local expenditure will be on the Horsey substation—in the Topaz district, destined to replace the veteran Bay Street substation as the heart of the Greater Victoria system.

This station, with transmission and distribution lines, will cost $3,200,000.

MORE BUSES

Additional sums will be spent on both electricity and gas service extensions, and on the purchase of a number of additional buses.

One of the major transmission projects will be a new power line running parallel to the present line from Stratford near Duncan to Victoria, to carry increased power made available by the expanded submarine cable system crossing Georgia Strait.

AT BRIDGE RIVER

A. E. Grauer, company president, said the biggest single development next year will be $22,400,000 for further work on second-stage development of the company's Bridge River hydro-electric project.

This will benefit Vancouver Island directly through the submarine cable link. By 1961 $56,500,000 will have been spent, and 345,000 additional horsepower will be made available to southern Vancouver Island and the lower mainland.

Another $18,100,000 will go towards an 800,000-horsepower steam plant at nearby Iloco, on Burrard Inlet, scheduled for completion before 1965.

Plans call for completion next year of the world's largest gas turbine electric generating plant at suburban Port Mann—a 134,000-horsepower project on which $2,100,000 will be spent in 1959.

New mainland transmission lines will cost $11,700,000, another $5,000,000 will go for mainland substations and $5,700,000 for local distribution lines.

A City Mourns Its Children

CHICAGO (UPI)—This was the funeral day.

Today Chicago, itself grown on the ashes of the great fire of 1871, attended to the solemn last rites for most of 87 children who died Monday with three non-teachers in the pyre which once was Our Lady of the Angels School.

There were scores of funerals—the processions of mourners criss-crossing areas from Holy Name Cathedral on the north side to suburban Melrose Park on the west.

The main sorrow lay over the Northwest Armory, where Archbishop Albert G. Meyer intoned the Roman Catholic requiem mass for 27 of the victims.

Services for the other 60 children were to be held separately. The three nuns were buried Thursday.

The hearses lined up in front of the armory one by one, two or three limousines with mourners behind each hearse and a priest with each family.

Six national guardsmen, wearing white gloves and white caps, stepped up to the rear of each hearse, set portable wheels in place and wheeled the casket through the armory door and down the broad aisle to its place.

Barricades manned by police held back a crowd that grew hourly outside the armory despite an icy wet wind and 15-degree temperatures. Women stood red-eyed. Some wept openly.

A large fire department ambulance stood in front of the armory ready for possible emergencies. Behind the

Careless Driving Suspended

B.C. Law Faces Full-Scale Review

British Columbia police forces today were advised against laying careless driving charges against motorists under section 131 of the B.C. Motor Vehicles Act.

But they may still be charged under the Criminal Code of Canada with driving offences.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner today advised police not to lay charges under the provincial act and asked prosecutors not to proceed with charges already laid under the act.

Five careless driving cases were accordingly remanded by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court until Dec. 12.

Mr. Bonner said he had taken this step pending clarification of a constitutional issue raised by the decision of the Supreme Court of Ontario affecting the careless driving section of that province's highway traffic act.

Mr. Bonner said it may have application in British Columbia.

VALIDITY QUESTIONED

The action was prompted by an Ontario Supreme Court ruling that has cast doubt on the validity of the careless driving law.

The Ontario court decision said the careless driving section of the Ontario highway traffic act infringed on the federal parliament's sole right to legislate on criminal matters.

B.C.'s careless driving section uses almost identical wording as the Ontario section.

building, at least 60 auto loads of flowers waited.

There were no flowers, only a few green palms, inside the armory.

Meanwhile, scores of doctors worked to save the living victims. Seventy of the injured remained in hospitals, 13 in critical condition.

A POSY IN SUBWAY

'Dear Daddy I Miss You Very Much'

LONDON (AP)—A little girl walked out of the swirling fog on the station at suburban Lewisham Thursday. She strolled along the platform which one year ago was a mess of tangled wreckage when three crowded trains piled up in dense fog.

The little girl wandered into the cold, deserted waiting room. A year before that room had been used as a morgue for some of the 90 people killed in the crash.

The tiny figure stood there for a few moments in silence. Then she turned, walked out of the station and disappeared into the fog. The ticket collector said he never saw her before.

But at 6.20 p.m., the time of the crash the year before, the station staff found a small posy of purple forget-me-nots on the bare wood table of the deserted waiting room.

A black-bordered card said simply: "Dear Daddy, I miss you very much. Love, Wendy."

Seems now an' then t' be some careless law-makin' along with th' careless drivin'.

Rossland, fer some candidates, could become a wasteland—politically, that is.

M' Uncle Zeke sez th' cost o' livin' is killin' him, but th' cost o' leavin' is keepin' him here.

OCEAN BALLOON FLIGHT CREW INCLUDES WOMAN

SANTA CRUZE de TENERIFE, Canary Islands (AP)—Four intrepid Britons, one of them a woman, hope to set off from the Canary Islands Saturday night on a flight across the Atlantic in a balloon.

The four hope to gather information on weather conditions and wind currents during a 3,000-mile attempt to reach Barbados, in the British West Indies. The voyage is under the patronage of Prince Philip.

The balloonists are Arnold Beaupre Elloart, 51-year-old businessman, and the expedition leader; his son, Timothy, 21, a chemical engineering student at Cambridge University; Colin Mudie, 32, a Scottish marine engineer, and his wife, Rosemary, 30.

WALTER P. JEUNE Dies at 74

Christ Church Funeral Saturday For Well-Known Art Restorer

Funeral service for well-known Victorian and internationally-known picture restorer Walter P. Jeune will be held Saturday at Christ Church Cathedral.

Mr. Jeune, a former school trustee, businessman, and war veteran, died Thursday in St. Joseph's Hospital after a short illness. He was 74.

Rev. Thomas Bailey, of St. Barnabas Church, will officiate, at the 3 p.m. funeral service. Burial will follow in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Mr. Jeune served as a school trustee for 19 years including a period as board chairman. He represented Saanich on Greater Victoria school board for 10 years, retiring last December. Previously, he served nine years on the old Saanich school board.

Born in Swansea, South Wales, he served a seven-year apprenticeship in the art of restoring old paintings before emigrating to Victoria in 1907. He joined Victoria Steam Laundry on Yates, became a route superintendent in four and a half years and eventually rose to assistant manager before joining the Canadian Army in the First World War.

He served as a sergeant-major during the Second World War and was given a life membership in the Canadian Legion.

Mr. Jeune worked 22 years with another laundry, the Pantorium, including 11 years as manager of the firm.

In 1950 he became the only carver, gilder and picture restorer in Victoria. In his workshop above the Treasure House on Fort, he renovated pictures which sold as high as $150,000.

In 1953 he restored a 200-year-old painting of Bonnie Prince Charlie and the following year a collection of 23 portraits, some of which dated back to 1540.

His work was known internationally and he received commissions from various parts of the world.

UN at Dead End In Cyprus Hassle

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—United Nations efforts to bring about a settlement in the embattled British Mediterranean island of Cyprus came to a dead end Thursday night after more than a week of debate and compromise attempts in the General Assembly's political committee.

A proposal for a three-power conference of the principals in the dispute—Britain, Greece and Turkey—won formal approval in the committee at the end of a long night session, but the narrow margin indicated that the General Assembly itself would have to turn down the proposal because of the two-thirds majority rule prevailing there.

The political committee vote on the three-power conference was 31 to 22, with 28 countries abstaining. If all 81 members vote in a General Assembly ballot, a motion needs 54 votes for passage.

Britain rather reluctantly went along with the three-power conference idea. London's contention has been that a long-term plan being worked out by Britain would best suit the interests of the Greek majority and Turkish minority and at the same time preserve Cyprus as a British and NATO defence post.

The United States, which had hung off during most of the debate, went along with Britain in voting for the proposal put forward by a neutralist group led by Iran. Canada did not participate in the debate.

Three Found Dead In Murder-Suicide

TORONTO (CP)—Three persons were found shot to death in a west-end Toronto home early today and police said it was a case of a double slaying and suicide.

The victims were Howard Hutchinson, 42, his daughter, Mrs. Ann Manning, 21, and Ronald Haslett, 26.

Officers gave this version of the deaths: Haslett went to the home of Mrs. Manning, a former girl friend, and Mr. Hutchinson, her father, refused to let him in, saying his daughter did not want to see him. Haslett fired a rifle through the door, killing Hutchinson, and then went inside and shot Mrs. Manning.

Haslett then telephoned his mother what he had done and shot himself, police said.

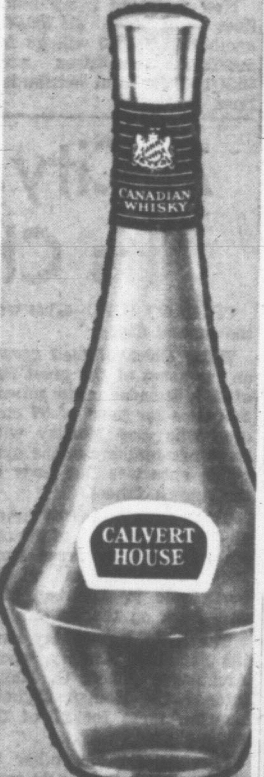

Package Freight Rates Trimmed

OTTAWA (CP)—A minor reduction of 1 per cent has been ordered by the board of transport commissioners for some rates on package freight carried on rail-and-water routes between eastern and western Canada.

But the board, in findings made public today, rejected a claim by the Winnipeg Chamber of Commerce that the just discrimination against rate structure contains un-the-city and Manitoba province and is unduly preferential in favor of points farther west.

Wheat, flour and other "bulk" shipments are not involved in the case. Package freight refers to packaged goods which readily can be handled by the water lines.

These issues, and the calling of tenders last week for road work on the nearby Salmo-Creston highway, and promise of early attention to the Blueberry-Paulson road, are platform issues.
Politicians are making few references to the recent conviction of former Rossland-Trail MLA Robert Sommers on bribery charges.
Off the record, various speakers opposing the government say nobody wants to be first. If they make it appear the rest of B.C. is critical of this riding for three times electing Mr. Sommers, they feel the local voters may take the attitude they are kicking a man who is down. As an act of defiance, they might unite behind Social Credit again.

DR. DESMOND KIDD

On the Briggs charges that the government is undermining the B.C. Power Commission, that power agency does not serve this area and neither does the B.C. Electric, so it isn't a big issue.
Dr. Desmond F. Kidd, speaking on a Conservative platform at Rossland Thursday, supported Mr. Briggs in his stop-Wenner-Gren drive, and so did Mr. Laing, but nowhere else has he been much mentioned. His allegations of debt juggling haven't been mentioned at all.
CCF Leader Robert Strachan, who has been voluble on both questions in Victoria, may change the pace when he arrives Tuesday for a four-party forum.
Mr. Laing, only party leader to speak here Thursday, made vague reference to the Sommers case: "I'm not going to disinter anyone or heap abuse on anyone that's gone."

Then he said newspaper editorials written in Montreal, Windsor, Toronto and Ottawa all had mentioned Rossland-Trail recently.
"The eyes of all Canada are upon this by-election. It will have the greatest effect on how they regard us in B.C."
TENTH OF B.C.
He then went into the background of forest management licensing by which "the people's timber is granted in perpetuity." He criticized the diversion to Wenner-Gren interests of "one-tenth of the province."
"One day Mr. Bennett says this means hundreds of millions in investment and new jobs and the next day Mr. Williston (Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston) says that's silly, they haven't even got a water licence yet."

Addressing himself to the trade unionists in his audience, Mr. Laing noted there have been criticisms of some labor leaders for making demands which force up export prices.
But he credited trade unions with maintaining the purchasing power of the province.
"It's what keeps us all going."
On the question of debt, Mr. Laing said the province is in "indifferent financial health."
He said school districts' money is not getting through to them and the government is advising the municipalities to engage in short-term borrowings while they are waiting. Another illustration of a hard-pressed treasury, he said, was the fact the government "owes several millions to contractors and some debts are a year old."

The northern extension of the PGE was to cost $35,000,000 and cost $67,000,000. The southern extension was to cost $16,000,000 and actually cost $25,000,000.
He said Premier Bennett will be able to make the power commission look bad when a royal commission investigation of Upper Campbell Dam spending is probed.
"Money was spent there as in all these other projects, and there was waste."

R. H. REEVE

Four Greater Victoria school trustees were re-elected for two-year terms by acclamation when nominations closed this week.
Thursday, Victoria, representatives on the board Mrs. E. M. Maunsell and Walter Thomson were declared trustees for their fourth and second terms respectively.
R. H. Reeve was returned for his fifth term as Esquimalt representative Monday, along with W. R. Freethy who won his first full term as Oak Bay representative, after serving one year to fill out an unexpired term.
APPOINTMENT
A fifth seat, vacated by board chairman Mrs. W. W. McGill, of Saanich, will be filled by a department of education appointment because no one was nominated.
Unlike the school board election, contests have shaped up for all council seats at stake Dec. 11 in Greater Victoria.

Swimmer Goes 27 Miles But the Ice Made It Bumpy

(From CP Dispatches)
PRINCE GEORGE — Louis Lourmais, 38-year-old French immigrant, staggered from the Fraser River at Stone Creek, Thursday, after swimming 27 miles southward from Prince George. It was 8 degrees above zero.
Lourmais, accompanied by a friend, Len Van Egmond, in a small boat, had covered the 27 miles in four hours.
He hopes to swim the entire 400-mile distance from Prince George to the sea. Today he proposes to make it to Quesnel, 50 miles south of Stone Creek.
He is attempting the swim to the sea "just to show it can be done". He swims in a suit of foam rubber.
When he reached Stone Creek he had a badly swollen lip. "I kept hitting my head on ice floes," he said.

VANCOUVER — An unidentified man saving a wounded man's life by holding his punctured jugular vein together during a taxi ride to hospital, police court was told Thursday.
A doctor at Vancouver General Hospital said that without the second man's help, Mikolas Redel "would undoubtedly have died". Redel's assailant was charged.

TRAINS CHANGED
VANCOUVER — Canadian National Railways officials announced Thursday the following changes in passenger train schedules, effective Sunday, Dec. 7.
The west-bound Super Continental will arrive here at 11:30 a.m., instead of 11:50 a.m., and the eastbound Super Continental will leave Vancouver at 4:10 p.m., as at present.
The west-bound Continental will arrive here at 7:30 a.m., instead of 7 a.m., and the east-bound Continental will leave Vancouver at 8 p.m., instead of 7:30 p.m., as under the present schedule.
FAMILIES FLEE FIRE
KEREMEOS — Five families fled their homes when fire roared through a nearby service station and cafe here on Thursday.
The families were kept from their homes for four hours until firemen brought the blaze under control. Damage to the building was set at $15,000.
BODY FOUND
SQUAMISH — The body of

Gary Price, 17, of Squamish, was recovered from Howe Sound Thursday by divers.
The youth was one of two drowned when a car crashed off the government wharf here Monday. The body of John McDonald, 23, of Bralorne, was recovered Tuesday. Vernon Tanner, 22, of Nanaimo, escaped.
IWA SEEKS HELP
VANCOUVER — The International Woodworkers of America are seeking the services of the provincial department of labor in an effort to settle their dispute with the northern interior lumber industry.
The move follows the recent IWA strike vote in which union members voted 59 per cent in favor of a walkout. The employers claimed a victory, however, because the union got a strike majority in only 15 plants. Unionists in 17 others voted against a walkout.

CAMPAIGN SIDELIGHTS

TRAIL — There is a battle under way for the sizeable Italian vote in the Rossland-Trail riding.
Highways Minister Gagliardi was accompanied by Penitton winery owner P. Capozzi when he arrived Thursday. Mr. Gagliardi spoke in the predominantly Italian section.
CCF candidate Buddy DeVito is counting on his Italian lineage to assist him, and there is an Italian-speaking doctor in town who is popular with the group and is closely associated with Liberal candidate Dr. M. E. Krause.
Full-time Conservative public relations man here is Robert Anderson who recently gave up management of a life insurance agency in Victoria to take the post.
The CCF is looking for an anti-government, pro-CCF vote from the growing ranks of the unemployed.
Mr. DeVito's office reports "there are 500 less on the Hill now than a year ago."
On the Hill is the Trail expression for working at the Cominco plant.
Since last Tuesday there have been an additional 30 to 40 layoffs and the Mine-Mill Union reports the company has said 225 more jobs will be reduced over the winter. The plant is down to 3,000 workers for the first time in years.
All four parties are represented by poster campaigns in Rossland-Trail, but only the Social Credit candidate, Don Brothers, is supported by repeated one-minute TV announcements.
Reception from Spokane is excellent.
A Conservative said the price is $100 a minute.
A platform quote from Mr. Laing: "The Toll Authority — in charge of that is a man named Gunderson. And strangely, the company which supplied the sand and gravel for Deas Island Tunnel has a director by the name of Gunderson — and he is the same man."
Progressive Conservative candidate Alex Brokenshire: "There's a more important issue than the former member's delinquencies. Now we are voting over an attitude of government. And it is this attitude of government that has deprived this riding of representation completely for the past two years and has given us very little representation in the four before that."

U.S. Fears Iraq May Quit Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has evidence that the revolutionary government of Iraq intends to pull that country out of the anti-Communist Baghdad Pact.
State department authorities are deeply concerned over the possibility that Iraq, formerly a keystone of anti-Communist defenses in the Middle East, may be made into a virtual Moscow satellite.
More than half the population of Guatemala, most northerly state of Central America, is of pure Indian blood.

HERALDRY

As leadership and pedigree are symbolized in heraldry, so Grant's Stand Fast is epitomized in the triangular bottle.

The coat of arms of the Clan Grant is the honoured trade mark of this family of distillers, now in their fifth generation. Imprinted on every label, it stands for the twin qualities of leadership and pedigree in their chosen field, that of distilling and blending Scotland's most famous export.

The Vital Witness

ON MARCH 26, 1954, JAMES D. W. Blyth was appointed a member of the B.C. Power Commission. Some five weeks later, Mr. Blyth resigned. Why should an eminent accountant and economist leave an important position in the east and then almost immediately quit his new post?

Mr. Blyth's public statement at the time is a most interesting document in the light of recent events in the Power Commission. He said:

"I am all for public power. All I can say about my resignation is that I could not accept the job under the conditions which exist. I quit because of my serious concern for the future of public power in British Columbia."

In that statement Mr. Blyth obviously did not feel able to explain his views on the affairs of the Power Commission. No doubt his reticence does him honor. But subsequent developments, culminating in the dismissal of Mr. Briggs, indicate that Mr. Blyth did not resign because of some passing whim or because he could earn more money elsewhere.

He resigned, as he says, "because of my serious concern for the future of public power." There must have been good reason for that concern in the case of Mr. Blyth, as in that of Mr. Briggs.

What had happened in the Power Commission as early as the spring of 1954, what conditions had Mr. Blyth found there, what prospects had he foreseen for public power, and how far do his views agree with those of Mr. Briggs? When and why did the present collapse of the Power Commission begin?

The royal commission headed by Professor Shrum should certainly seek an answer to those questions and can get it promptly by inviting Mr. Blyth to testify. While he is believed to be in the East, his testimony before the royal commission could easily be arranged. He is a vital witness in this inquiry. The questions raised but not answered by his resignation should be fully investigated.

The Struggle Continues

WHILE WORLD ATTENTION shifts from one major trouble spot to another, from Suez to Formosa, from Formosa to Berlin, it should be remembered that many less noticeable struggles are taking place in less advertised theatres of the cold war.

Such a struggle is now posing problems for Finland, where a parliamentary crisis has forced the Prime Minister to resign. Mr. August Fagerholm had left Communist representatives out of his government and hence earned the opposition of Moscow.

The Russians applied economic pressure to Finland in an effort to aid the left wing group, which has assumed large proportions in Finnish politics. The pressure was easily applied by Finland's huge neighbor.

Much of the northern nation's industry had been converted to supply Russian needs so that the huge war reparations could be paid.

This has left Finnish industry poorly adapted to cater to Western markets—a lack which in the present situation is severely felt. The Soviets have reduced their imports from Finland in an effort to enforce Moscow's wishes. The immediate result has been to create a serious unemployment problem in the smaller country.

Such tactics are less spectacular than the posturings at Berlin, but they are directed towards the same goal of Soviet domination and they should meet with the same opposition from the West. Finland, ever since the war in which it amazed the world by bravely whipping the first Russian forces sent against it, has shown what a small non-Communist country can do to preserve its integrity and freedom even though menaced by the Soviet giant.

Such an example should not be overlooked by the West, nor left to languish if the democracies can extend encouragement and aid.

The Public Needs Protection

THE CANADIAN COUNCIL OF the Blind is seeking legislation to prevent unauthorized appeals to the public in campaigns to assist the blind and to prevent blindness.

The reason for the request is easily understood. Certain appeals are being made which have no justification, says the council. In consequence the legitimate campaigns lose strength and the possibility exists that some of the approaches to the public may be made by unscrupulous people more intent on lining their own pockets than in providing funds for worthwhile work.

The Canadian Council of the Blind is taking action primarily on behalf of those who are sightless. The principle involved in seeking legislation to control appeals is not, however, applicable only to those who suffer from this affliction. It could apply equally as well to other collections.

The council has suggested that British Columbia follow the lead of Alberta, where "An Act to Provide for the Regulation of Organizations that Raise Funds for Health Services by Voluntary Public Contribution" is law.

Coming Soon—City Centenary

THIS WEEK THE GOVERNMENT paid its tribute to the general British Columbia centennial committee, thanking the various sub-committee chairmen for the excellent job they had done.

In turn the committee members extended the tribute to countless British Columbians whose co-operation had made the year's 100th birthday celebrations an outstanding success.

Given the opportunity, British Columbians in general would doubtless have voiced thanks to all concerned.

In this atmosphere, the year of our special festivities is drawing to a close, although the final centennial report may not be completed before February.

It seems appropriate, at this time, to draw attention to another centennial not far distant. On August 2, 1962, the City of Victoria will celebrate the 100th anniversary of incorporation. It is not too early to start planning for that occasion.

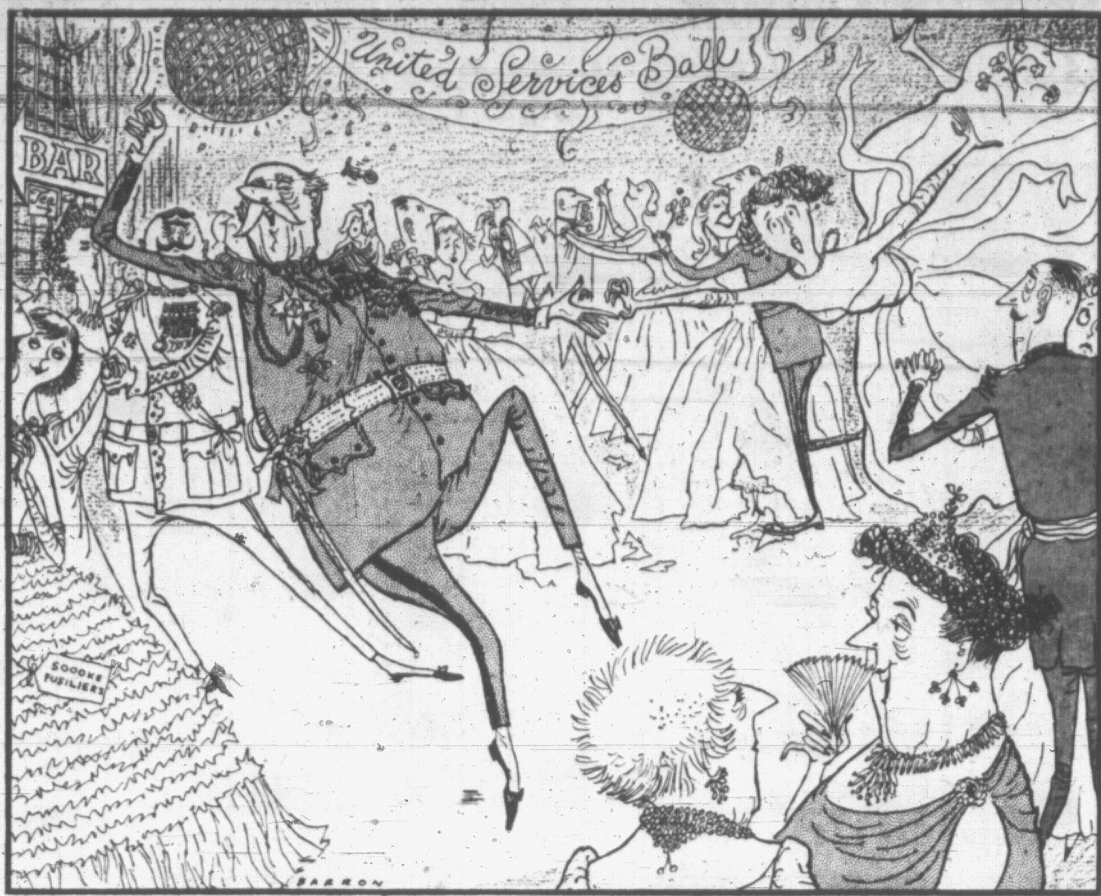

And in the planning, Victoria could profit greatly from the experience of the provincial committee. Should the city set up a preliminary centennial committee in the new year, its members could meet at least local members of the British Columbia celebration group for discussions. From those discussions could come advice on difficulties to be avoided and features on which organizers might concentrate.

Victoria, focal point of the earliest white settlement in this part of what is now Canada, was the second city incorporated in the region. As the capital it is expected to produce a program of fitting proportions for its centenary. The celebration of the 75th anniversary was good. That of the 100th should be better.

Whatever assistance it can secure in making arrangements for its big party should be welcomed, and the B.C. Centennial organization is the one group which could provide unmatched counsel for the occasion. The events of 1958 are fresh in the minds of members. Their experience is invaluable.

As one of them noted, there is no reason why Victoria should not profit from the "blood, sweat and tears" which went into the staging of B.C.'s birthday events.

"Wellington does look forward to it so ... he really digs that crazy jive ..."

ALAS FOR OUR PRESTIGE

By B. A. TOBIN

The Canadian Label Is de Luxe No More

JUST when I thought we were making some progress in getting Americans to be more aware of us Canadians, just when we were getting them to look up to fellows like Mike Pearson and Wayne and Schuster and recognize them when they saw their pictures in the paper, along comes this dash of cold water.

Tobin

Our own Canadian Government tourist representative in New York comes home to tell us that down there, even among the stenographic set, we don't rate very high.

It's important, he says, to have a name that carries some prestige. When the girls get together at lunch to tell of their plans to spend next summer's vacation in Bermuda, Acapulco or Palm Springs, they bring out these destinations with pride and a full consciousness of their effect on the listeners.

It's called "name dropping" and it's quite an important part of the whole business of going on a vacation. You drop a name that has prestige, something with class, and then bask in the envy and admiration of your friends who won't be going there.

Advance Planning

"I'm planning to go to the Caribbean," says somebody's young secretary. "Oooh, aah," gush her friends. But "I'm going up to Toronto," says another, and the response is just "Uh-huh." Or if she tells a Canadian, it may be just a simple "Ugh."

Going to Canada? So what, honey, everybody goes to Canada. But everybody:

Somewhere along the line we've lost out somehow. We have no class, no oomph, no glamor as far as our American cousins are concerned. We aren't the sturdy nation of Mounties, trappers, French woodcarvers, warriors, frost-endurers and woodsmen that we thought we were. We're just another bunch of people, like crossing over into New Jersey, and who cares?

It's like boasting about your shack at Whiffen Spit when the fellow you're talking to has a split-level ranch house at Quilicum. It's a weekend at Nanossee compared with a week at Sun Valley.

Now all this is pretty damaging to our morale as Canadians. It isn't very flattering to be classed with Hoboken or Kansas City when glamor is being discussed. As our tourist expert puts it, "Canada" is somewhat less than de luxe as a vacation label.

He says it can be remedied by advertising in the proper magazines, getting our message across in the posh publications that are bought by the wealthy and influential, and read in the local library reading room by the rest of the citizenry. That way, apparently, we'll be associated with the classier joints and win back a place in the sun.

Domestic Problem

So much for the job outside. But how about us, right here at home? How are we going to get back our confidence? For don't forget that the place the American stenographers are turning up their noses at as a vacationland is our place. This second-class, mediocre, unfashionable, back-street country is our home. We're here all the time, and have to endure it.

Some of us, of course, haven't heard how lacklustre the country is, so we can still enjoy it. But the rest of us need help. We are looking about us with new eyes and a new realization of our situation.

I've felt it pretty keenly myself. I check the view off Dallas Road, the oaks around Uplands, the white-ringed islands sparkling in the blue waterways off Sidney, the rose gardens in Beacon Hill Park, the bordered lawns at Butchart's, the vista from the Malahat, the sunset over the Sooke Hills and all the other local scenes and I think,

"How dull, how shoddy, what would those New York secretaries think?"

I recall in memory Hollyburn Ridge and the Lions on a sparkling morning, the Fraser boiling through its gorge, the Rockies peaks, the sweep of the Cariboo plateau, the infinity of the prairie wheat fields, the thunder of Niagara, the snowy roofs of Montreal from Mount Royal, the lights of Quebec, the bobbing boats in Peggy's Cove—poor, poor, poor!

No prestige, no standing at all, fit only for American share-croppers to come and see, fit only for Canadian peasants to live among.

Classified Class

What we've got to do, not only for our prospective visitors but for ourselves, is to sharpen all this up. We've got to add a veneer of class to the whole thing and then try to live up to it.

We've got to polish it until an American visitor can go back to Omaha and boast, "Guess where I was! MOOSE JAW! Yes sir, right in Moose Jaw!" We've got to achieve a national level where a New York secretary can gush, "Guess where I'm going next summer, girls! WEYBURN! I mean I really am! Right up in Canada!"

We've got to attain a standing that will inspire the tired lady with the 19-room suite on Fifth Avenue to breathe, "Yes, we'd thought of Monte Carlo or Juan les Pins for next year. But we felt that we owed it to ourselves to go to Lethbridge. The Van Bilkingtons were there last year, you know—stayed for the whole season."

We must build ourselves up so that names like Maple Bay, Bowser, Otter Point, Royston fall familiarly from the lips of magnates lounging in their Manhattan clubs, ladies having their hair done in Fifth Avenue beauty salons, tycoons meeting in Wall Street mahogany board rooms. Only then will we have arrived, and only then will the word filter down to the secretarial circles where it really counts.

As Our Readers See It

'Say, Can You See ...'

We who listen to the local radio stations are being constantly reminded that they are always trying to give us the type of broadcast we want. If this be true, why don't they follow our requests?

For example, I, and I am sure many others, have written them urging them to cease commencing every other announcement with "Say ..." (Very corny and unimaginative.)

Equally unimpressive is the insistence of a certain announcer to explain that we have just heard Mr. or Miss so-and-so. Surely our ears can tell us that Perry Como is male.

This supposedly cultural medium also throttles us with abominable pronunciations and grammatical errors, e.g., "demilitarize."

If they are sincere in their desire to give us what we want why don't they, then we won't turn in increasing numbers to American stations.

Deserve Better Government

It is lucky for Mr. Bennett that he got off with only a "show of bad manners" at the Victoria College.

I do not propose to offer in this letter my opinion on what is proper treatment of political leaders when they get into hot water. I do propose to explain how we could eliminate many of our current provincial and national troubles such as the one which now stares us in the face and the one which recently ended in an expensive legal battle.

The answer is the recall vote. The sooner it comes the better, and it will come. The reason why we do not have it now is because few of the people in this country know about it and that it is an important part in the democratic system of government.

Good roads and hospital insurance are good things but there are many others which need efficient, honest handling before I'll accept the one we have now.

A few years back a famous political leader said, "the people get the type of government they deserve." In this case he is wrong. We deserve a better kind of government than we are getting. Why don't we go after it?

The Stevenson Series

The Times is to be congratulated for printing in full Adlai Stevenson's report on Russia.

Some phrases in this report should shock Canadian citizens into action.

Mr. Stevenson says: "I came away from the Soviet Union more convinced than ever that the battle of the future is economic and political." Yet Canadians are taxing themselves ever more fiercely to build huge, outmoded armaments.

Our number one problem, Mr. Stevenson asserts, is China. What kind of insane follow-the-leader policy prevents Canada from recognizing this great nation?

Are we a satellite country, that we so slavishly follow the feeble and bankrupt policies of the present American government in defiance of all common sense?

Where to Spend Pensions

I have noted with considerable interest the daily press reference to the proposed introduction of legislation into the Federal House relative to the releasing of the present "strings" attached to the administration of the Old Age Pension Act, in regard to the area in which the pension may be spent. I sincerely trust that our good members (McPhillips and Pearkes) will enjoy the utmost in support when this matter comes before the House.

Berlin Manoeuvres

By WALTER LIPPMANN
From Washington

THE most likely explanation of what the Soviet government is up to in Berlin is, it seems to me, to make the West Germans more willing to deal with the East Germans. The fact of the matter is, of course, that the two sets of Germans are already negotiating at what is called the technical level, as the trade agreement recently announced reminds us. The Soviet government's policy calls for a broadening of these negotiations with a view, eventually, to a political agreement for a limited reunification of the two German states.

Lippmann

When I was in Moscow in October I had a talk with the Foreign Minister, Mr. Gromyko, and when we got to the German question, I asked him what was the Soviet view of how the Germans could be reunited. Without hesitation he replied that this could be done only by a "confederation"—he was speaking English—in which each of the two German states could retain its own social institutions.

Like Mr. Khrushchev, whom I had seen the day before, Mr. Gromyko maintained that German reunification by confederation would have to be brought about by negotiation between the two Germans.

The advocacy in Moscow of a German confederation seemed to me very significant in view of the fact that last March, when I was in Bonn, I had heard the same thing in so many and in such high quarters.

Official Formula

The U.S. State Department, to be sure, continues to repeat the old official formula that Germany should be reunited by free elections in which, of course, the Communist regime would be demolished and East Germany would be absorbed into the West German state. But I doubt whether there are many responsible men in West Germany who would want Germany to be reunited in this way.

For the two Germans have developed very differently and the attempt to integrate them would now be enormously difficult. It would be a heavy burden for the West Germans and very probably there would be considerable resistance to it in East Germany.

There are other reasons why few responsible West Germans wish to have integration in a unified state. For integration would change radically the balance of religious forces and of the political parties.

Seen realistically, and not through the fumes of the official formula, the alternatives are, on the one hand, the formation of some kind of dual state and, on the other hand, the continuing partition of the German nation.

I read the news of the Berlin manoeuvres against this background. Mr. Khrushchev, who is nobody's fool, is certainly aware that there is a strong and growing sentiment in West Germany in favor of expanded negotiations with East Germany. There is already a lot more talk among the two sets of Germans than the official policy of non-recognition contemplates, and there is no doubt at all that there would be still more talking, were it not for the respect and the fear in which Dr. Adenauer is held.

Soviet Idea

So, the Soviet idea of negotiations leading to confederation is one to which the West Germans are by no means unresponsive. When Dr. Adenauer leaves the scene, the idea has an excellent chance to become a live issue. Mr. Khrushchev is one who likes to ride the waves of the future.

There is, of course, no way of telling what will be the immediate course of the manoeuvre in Berlin. But it would be surprising indeed if the Soviet government, though it withdrew its own forces, did not keep the East German government under strict control.

For it is committed to defend the East German government if it is attacked, and that makes it reasonably certain that Moscow will restrain the East Germans from doing things which might provoke an attack. There is no reason at all to suppose that Moscow thinks that on the German question the United States is a "paper tiger."

Wine Trial

LONDON—Champagne, said a witness at the Old Bailey the other day, is a wine for a grand occasion. Whatever the rival claims of the robust burgundies and Rhone wines, connoisseurs of wine (and the law) would probably agree that if a Spanish champagne is to be put on trial there can be no grander or more awesome place for its ordeal than the famous No. 1 Court.

For five days the full solemnity and pageantry of British justice had been brought to bear on the grapes of Spain and the Champagne district of France, and on Monday a firm was acquitted of applying a false trade description by calling its wine Spanish champagne.

It had been contended that champagne could only be made in France. Grey-wigged counsel with flapping gowns have explored forensic viticulture, lovingly savored every subtle terminological distinction of the wine list, and have even tried to capture the precise meaning of "Canadian Cheddar cheese."

The red-robed judge has looked down on the table of neatly ticketed exhibits—gleaming green shapes, topped with golden tinfoil and blazoned with ornate labels. On the floor stood a jeroboam and beside it three cardboard grocery boxes of smaller bottles.

On Friday the public gallery was almost as full as when Christie or Dr. Adams was on trial. Perhaps the people had come hoping that glasses would be produced by the clerk and a magnum ceremoniously uncorked by an usher. If so, they were disappointed.

The judge ruled that the jury should not be allowed to taste the exhibits. He thought they should decide the case "on the evidence they hear." The public had to be content with listening to the recipe for a champagne cocktail.

Bennett Told Falsehood on Gas Cost-Briggs

By HAL MALONE

Ousted B.C. Power Commission manager H. Lee Briggs charged Thursday night that Premier Bennett told a falsehood about a proposal to buy natural gas for generation of electricity from Frank McMahon's Inland Gas Co.

Mr. Briggs told an audience of 400 at a public meeting at Victoria High School, Mr. Bennett twisted the facts when he said in an address at Sidney on Nov. 17 the Power Commission wanted to buy natural gas from the Inland company for 29 cents, and then said he told McMahon, "No, I won't go for that; I want it for 22 cents."

"That's a falsehood" said Briggs.

Premier Asked Me

"When the question of buying natural gas came up, I asked the Power Commission commissioners to go to the premier's office and ask his support to buy it for 22 cents. The premier asked me to put the case to McMahon."

"We did, right in McMahon's office, with Lloyd Turner (McMahon's public relations man) there, and McMahon said he would go for 22 cents."

"But that's not what the premier told the people at Sidney."

Loud applause greeted his statement.

The cheers were the rule rather than the exception every time Mr. Briggs pursued his attack on the premier.

Mr. Briggs appeared weary and wan. Earlier Thursday he spent four and a half gruelling hours telling his side of the public-private power controversy to a reporter for a national magazine.

Again Tonight

His bloodshot eyes revealed the toll of making six speeches in five nights. Today, he is scheduled to make his seventh and final talk in Chilliwack.

Thursday night he spoke to the people—for the first time—at a meeting arranged by the people. Sponsors of the meeting was a citizens' committee. It consisted of two doctors, a lawyer, architect, builder, school principal, trade unionist and others.

For the first time in his crusade Mr. Briggs was heckled. But only mildly. And like his adversary, Premier Bennett, he neatly disposed of his antagonist. An elderly man shouted "rubbish" when Briggs charged that the premier's refinancing of Power Commission bonds to present a debt-free picture would increase, not lessen, the burden on the people.

"The interest on the old bond issue was 3.1 per cent," Briggs countered. "On the refinancing plan it was 5.1 per cent. A 2 per cent increase in interest on $32 millions is $640,000 a year you are voluntarily paying over what you need to pay."

"That is not rubbish. In this day and age, it's not chicken feed either."

"That's what is happening in B.C. and they call it getting rid of the debt," he snapped. (Loud cheers.)

If Mr. Briggs was as exhausted as he appeared, it wasn't reflected in his attack on the premier or on Wenner-Gren interests.

Time and again he flailed them, using examples and dates as his arrows.

Tell His Story

His attack began moments after chairman M. P. B. Wrixon stressed "this is not a political meeting—it was arranged so that Mr. Briggs could tell the people his story."

Mr. Briggs promptly stood up and said: "I'm going to give a political talk dealing with vital political matters which affect every one of you. But it will be a non-partisan political talk."

He even stole an opening line used frequently and successfully by the premier when he said: "I'm glad to see so many ladies present."

He indicated that the events leading up to his barrage on the premier, the B.C. Electric, Elmer Gunderson and Wenner-Gren were fermenting in his mind four months ago.

"On a trip to eastern Canada, I stopped to see my (oldest) son, Bob, in Hamilton. I told him things are not well on the coast; something is going to break. 'Don't be surprised if I'm down here looking for a job,'"

He retraced his talks with government financial adviser Dr. J. V. Fisher on Power Commission refinancing, their impasse and Dr. Fisher writing a letter than "the scheme wouldn't cost so much and other things not in accord with the facts."

When he saw he couldn't get together with Dr. Fisher, Mr. Briggs said he asked BCPC commissioners to go on record that they wouldn't accede to the plan.

I Was Alone

"We debated for three and a half weeks and then something happened which made it clear that I was alone and had very few days to take decisive action."

Then came November 12 and Mr. Briggs' first release. After his second statement, the commissioners asked him to withdraw his remarks and resign, "but I told them I couldn't admit I'm wrong by resigning. Then the blow came." (He was fired.)

"The firing was fortunate. It made me a private citizen, able to tell the people about this thing."

Going back to the Premier's refinancing scheme, he said it was an "insult to my intelligence—to yours, too" for the Premier and Dr. Fisher to tell the people the different interest rates would not mean higher costs.

"They said we could do it and I say that's fixing the books."

"They said it was no business of the Power Commission how the financing was arranged. That constitutes an insult to the Power Commission, to the accounting profession and to the people of British Columbia."

In 1957, when the BCPC issued $30 millions of bonds "we got a bill for $110,000 for the distribution of $10 millions of bonds to the Workmen's Compensation Board trust and another bill for $230,000 for $20 millions of bonds distributed to other investors."

"That's either gross ineptness or planned design in the province."

He flung back at the premier his charge that Arthur Laing, B.C. Liberal leader had a copy of his (Briggs) press release but no copy had been sent to the premier's office.

"Mr. Laing brought the matter out in the open when he said he had never received a copy of my release," Briggs said.

"I issued copies only to legislative reporters. I also left two copies in the legislative library. Ten days later the librarian told me there had been no request for the release."

Bitter Words

He had bitter words for the "Wenner-Gren give-away."

If the people of B.C. permit the handing over of the rich Peace River resources to one man it will be to their eternal detriment."

North America is running out of hydro power. "Ontario has almost completely used up its hydro potential."

"I seriously doubt that Wenner-Gren will develop Peace River power for several years. There's no industry up there to use it and it will be too costly to send it down to the lower mainland."

"I believe they know the value of it and they just want to get their hands on it now."

Mr. Briggs cited clause 4G of the agreement between the province and Wenner-Gren to dispute the premier's claim that no agreement exists between the two.

"... power shall be made available to public utilities, the B.C. Power Commission or others."

"In other words if Wenner-Gren has any surplus power you may get it. We don't want it that way. If Wenner-Gren decided he needed his surplus power and withdrew it, you would have lights one day and not the next."

He took off his glasses, abandoned his notes and asked the people what steps they were going to take "to prevent this situation for the sake of their children and their children's children."

Without waiting, he continued: "Get rid of the leaders of the Social Credit party—that is fundamental to the conduct of the future political life of our province."

Blacklisted

"This tremendous Wenner-Gren giveaway must be stopped. Axel Wenner-Gren has been blacklisted by this country and by other countries."

Briggs closed his direct address with:

"To thine ownself be true; Then it follows as night to day."

"Thou canst not be false To any man."

In the question period, chairman Wrixon held up a sheaf of written questions and told the audience it would be impossible for Mr. Briggs to answer all of them "or we will be here until after midnight."

But Mr. Briggs' methodically tackled the queries and won a large laugh when he answered the question, "Is the B.C. Electric too big to be taken over by the province?" with, "I don't think I'll answer that."

Cross the Floor

Some of the questions and answers:

Q—"What must we do to stop Wenner-Gren?"

Mr. Briggs: "Go after the Social Credit members and get them to cross the floor of the House." (Wild cheers.)

Q—"What province has the cheapest hydro power?"

Mr. Briggs: "There are variations in the cost of power in Ontario and Manitoba but they are by far the provinces with the least costly power... they produce power at cost and give commerce and industry an opportunity to build a solid base."

Q—"Mr. Kiernan says the provincial government is not committed to Wenner-Gren. What do you say?"

Mr. Briggs: "Clause seven of the agreement between the province and Wenner-Gren answers that. It says that the province undertakes to create a reservation on the Peace for power purposes; and, if power is found, Wenner-Gren will receive first priority on its application to develop it."

SIU Man Fined $250 For Ferry Assault

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Sea-farers' International Union patrolman was fined $250 on Thursday for assaulting a CPR policeman in a waterfront dispute more than two months ago.

Roderick Heinekey, 27, was found guilty by Magistrate Gordon Scott of assaulting Sgt. Harold J. Ives.

Magistrate Scott said he felt a fine would be sufficient because it was Heinekey's first offence and "there was considerable excitement at the time."

The magistrate said he found that Heinekey went aboard the ferry Princess Patricia and talked to some off-duty seamen, who were joined by some who should have been on duty.

He said Heinekey, whether he intended to or not, interfered with the sailing of the ship and was asked to leave. He left and many of the crewmen walked off after him.

Magistrate Scott said a company official revoked Heinekey's pass and asked him to leave company property—the sidewalk in front of the waiting room, where he was holding a meeting with the men.

He said the CPR policemen did everything required of them in asking Heinekey to leave, before arresting him when he refused to leave.

The magistrate said he did not know if Heinekey struck Ives deliberately or threw out his hands to throw off the restraint of the policemen who went to take his arms.

"But it was an assault," he said. "He wasn't doing it for exercise."

Evidence was given that Sgt. Ives required four stitches to close a cut on his face and that he suffered other face and rib injuries.

Gerry James announces plans for winter

Versatile Winnipeg Blue Bomber Gerry James has disclosed his plans for the winter season. "No change," said Gerry, "I'm relying on 'Prestone' Brand Anti-Freeze, just as I did last year. I know I can depend on 'Prestone' Anti-Freeze to protect me from freeze-ups, rust, clogging and corrosion in my car's cooling system."

You can depend on "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze, too. Its magnetic film coats every rubber and metal part of your car's cooling system—protects against the worst that winter can do! 'Open and Integrate' Order Sent to Little Rock Schools

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—A mandate to the Little Rock school board to "take such affirmative steps as the court may hereafter direct to facilitate and accomplish integration" has arrived from the U.S. Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis.

The long-awaited mandate, mistakenly sent to the U.S. district court clerk in Texarkana, Ark., arrived at the federal district clerk's office here Thursday.

The order now will go to federal Judge John E. Miller at Fort Smith, Ark., for action. Judge Miller said he would hold hearings in Little Rock "before the Christmas holidays" on the order to open and integrate the city's high schools, but withheld further comment until he receives the mandate.

The mandate confirms an order of the court issued Nov. 10, prohibiting the Little Rock school board from leasing property to any organization or persons for carrying on segregated schools.

Gov. Orval Faubus kept the city's four high schools closed this fall rather than let them be integrated, in accordance with the court order.

Industrials Lose Headway at Toronto

Industrials lost headway and joined other sections of the Toronto stock market today as they slipped lower in late afternoon trading.

Industrials, ahead more than a point at noon, had their gain slowly dwindle before profit-taking. Western oils were irregularly higher in fairly active trading today.

AT LONDON selective demand continued in light stock exchange transactions today and the tone was generally firm. Gilt-edged securities held steady. Dollar stocks were mainly lower, oils eased fractions and South African golds again were selectively better.

AT TORONTO banks were strong among industrials with 1-point gains going to Nova Scotia, at 73 1/2, and Commerce, at 61 1/2. Moore Corp. and Abitibi each added 1/2.

Trans-Canada Pipe Line dipped 1/2 at 26 1/2 and Ogilvie was off 1/2 at 45. Aluminium and Canada Cement each lost 1/2.

Senior oils were the big losers in Western oils. Down 1/2 were Calgary and Edmonton, at 24 1/2, and Home A, at 17 1/2. Home B dipped 1/2 at 17 1/2 and Central Del Rio lost 15 cents at $7.85.

Noranda slipped off 1/2 at 50 and 1/2 losses went to Hudson Bay, at 56 1/2 and Steep Rock, at 11 1/2.

Changes among golds were few and small. Dome added 1/2 at 17 1/2 but Kerr-Addison lost 1/2 at 19 1/2.

AT NEW YORK International Nickel and Granby Mining were higher in the Canadian section. Losses were taken by Aluminium Ltd. and Canadian Pacific.

On the American stock exchange, Shawinigan dropped half a point and Brazilian Traction, Jupiter Oils and Richwell were also lower. Preston East Dome and Canadian Marconi advanced.

AT MONTREAL prices were few and small. Dome added 1/2 at 17 1/2 but Kerr-Addison lost 1/2 at 19 1/2.

Banker Gloomy on British Trade

EASTBOURNE, England (CP) — A leading British banker says a study of the basic economic situation in the United States, the United Kingdom and Western Europe "reveals a situation hardly conducive to the expansion of Britain's foreign trade."

In a pessimistic report Thursday to the Dollars Export Council conference, Sir George Bolton, chairman of the Bank of London and South America Limited, said he could see "little hope of world trade recovery until there was a solid measure of domestic recovery in heavily industrialized countries."

He told more than 400 leaders of British industry attending a three-day gathering that recovery depends also on "more consistent and larger volume of capital investment in primary producing countries and greater demand of commodities in international use."

Sir George was one of 27 speakers addressing the conference, which winds up tonight with a black-tie dinner at which Prime Minister Macmillan is speaking.

The British banker suggested that some reports were overly optimistic about the extent of the United States recession recovery. The level of employment remained poor compared with the previous two years.

The recovery that had taken place was selective and confined substantially to consumer goods. Exports still were diminishing and heavy industry had a large idle capacity.

"Insofar as Canada is concerned great hopes are placed in the United States for stimulating demand for Canada's natural products," he said. "But this has not yet occurred. Capital development is still running down and unemployment in many industries is becoming chronic."

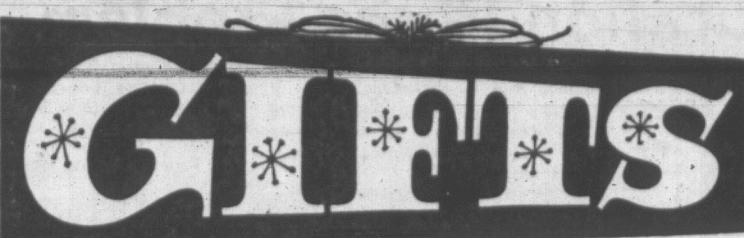

CREDIT RESPONSIBLE

Sir George said the recovery of consumer demand in the U.S. appeared associated with a deliberate monetary policy of credit and increased government expenditure resulting in an enormous budget deficit.

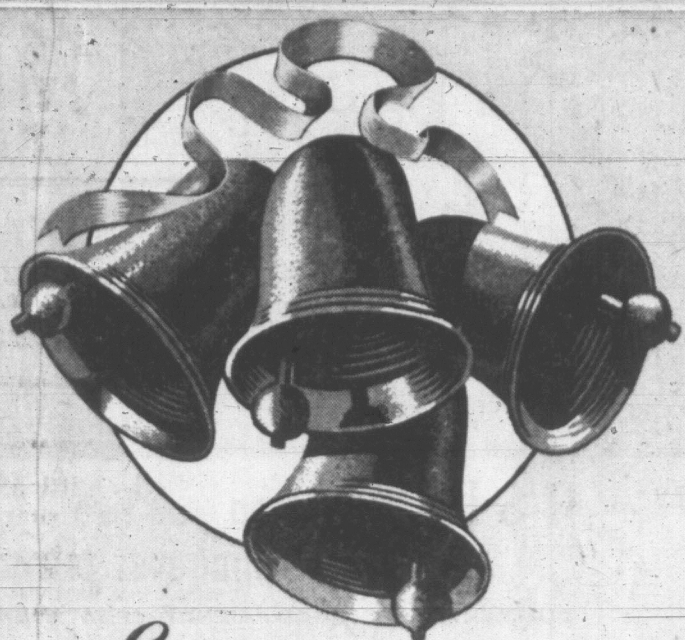

"The few reliable economic indicators suggest that the inflationary tendency has not been halted by the industrial recession. Prices of consumer goods have continued to increase and so have personal earnings in the United States and the United Kingdom."

He also said the tendency of export prices of industrial products in the U.S. and the United Kingdom to remain high while prices of primary products remain at the present low levels, "precludes any growth of international trade on the basis of cash payment."

The village of Les Ecureuils, near Quebec City, was so named by early navigators who found squirrels common in the district.

OUR BALANCE SHEET CAN'T SHOW...

Big family — the B of M staff... more than thirteen thousand men and women serving two-and-a-half million customers in every walk of life from coast to coast.

These are the people who make the B of M — they are our "greatest asset" which no balance sheet can show.

TRIBUTE

"The financial results for the year are largely the reflection, in dollars, of the hard work and training, the diligence and the personality of our staff throughout the year," Arnold Hart, B of M general manager, told the Bank's shareholders at their 141st annual meeting.

"I welcome the opportunity to pay tribute to all of them because I continue to receive abundant evidence of the high degree of efficiency and the cheerful, friendly manner in which our men and women discharge their daily duties at our far-flung branches, at the divisional administrative offices, and here at Head Office.

"To all my fellow workers may I say very simply a most sincere 'thank you' for a job well done.

"I know I speak for all of them in saying that we shall not fail to uphold and build upon the traditions of those who have gone before us as we apply ourselves vigorously to maintaining the highest standard of service to the public."

Future Education Poses Problem

(Second of Two Dispatches)
By TOM A. CULLEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
LONDON (NEA)—A battle is brewing over the future education of Prince Charles, just turned 10 and destined one day to be Britain's monarch.
Although the public catches only an occasional hint of it, the fight behind the scenes between Prince Philip and the old-line Palace courtiers is real.
The fight resolves itself into the question: Shall Prince Charles continue the promising start he has made at Cheam boarding school by going on to serve as secretary to the Kaiser's chancellor?

What of the truth of these charges? Is Gordonstoun heavily influenced by German ideas?
For its inspiration, Gordonstoun, founded in the 1930's, goes back much further than the Germans, all the way back to Plato.
Hahn, a refugee from Hitler's Germany who founded the school, believes that education should be concerned not merely with learning, but with training for citizenship and leadership.
Just as Plato called the ruling caste of his ideal republic "Guardians," so the head boy at Gordonstoun is addressed as "The Guardian." He is assisted by "Helpers," who correspond to Plato's "Auxiliaries."

Ahead on Points

To date, the Duke of Edinburgh, in his efforts to give his son a democratic education, has won all the skirmishes. The Palace old guard bowed to the Kensington day school, which got Prince Charles out of his Buckingham Palace nursery. They swallowed with as much grace as they could muster Cheam boarding school, which again was his father's idea.
But when it comes to Gordonstoun, the school on which the Duke of Edinburgh has his heart set for his son, the Victorian-minded courtiers have balked.

What are their objections to Gordonstoun, the progressive school on the Scottish Moray coast, whose most illustrious product is the Duke of Edinburgh himself?
Academic? No, Gordonstoun's academic standing is high enough.
Social? Again no, Gordonstoun is perfectly acceptable for the sons of English gentlemen.

Too Germanic?

Gordonstoun is seldom attacked directly, but by innuendo. It's called "a little bit of Germany transplanted in the British Isles." Wasn't its founder Dr. Kurt Hahn, a German? And didn't he once changed their former colonial status for free association in the Commonwealth of Nations. Nigeria, the Central African Federation and the West Indian Federation are about to do so.

"It is the golden circle of the Crown which alone embraces the loyalties of so many states and races all over the world," Sir Winston Churchill once wrote.
But as the Commonwealth evolves, it becomes apparent that the real bond of unity is allegiance not to the Crown, which is an abstract concept, but to the very real person of the Queen.
The question remains whether this allegiance will be transferred to her son when it comes his turn to mount the Throne.

Macmillan Opens First Expressway

PRESTON, England (Reuters)—Britain's first expressway, an eight-mile stretch by-passing the Preston industrial bottleneck north to Scotland, was officially opened today by Prime Minister Macmillan.

GUINEA NEXT UN MEMBER?

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—A new independent African state which emerged from France's political turmoil this year may become the next member of the United Nations.
Already backed by the African-Asian group in the UN, Guinea picked up further support on Thursday from neutral countries led by Sweden in its bid to join the world federation.

Democracy Growing

The Commonwealth of Nations is an evolving entity whose final form none can foresee. At home, the demand is for more and more social and economic opportunity and equality.

One by one the bastions of privilege are falling.
When Prince Charles finally is called upon to succeed his mother, he will have less privacy than any other monarch in history. His every movement will be televised, not only in the United Kingdom but in the Commonwealth nations overseas.

He probably will also be the most-travelled monarch in history.

As the older dominions grow in international stature, they are expected to demand that the sovereign spend more and more time in residence on their soil. As the new Commonwealth nations mature, there will be increasing demand for the sovereign to participate in ceremonial occasions.

Since Prince Charles was born, 507 million people, formerly British colonial subjects, have been given their independence. India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Ghana and Malaya, all have

DRIVER HAD COMPLAINED

Truck 'Healthy' In Comox Death

COURTENAY—The truck from which driver Hugh Morrison was thrown and killed Nov. 19 was in good condition at the time of the accident, according to a Department of Railways report.

J. C. McGREGOR
... lifetime in Nanaimo.

The accident occurred when the gravel truck stalled on a slippery road near Comox Lake, then skidded, and turned over. Morrison was crushed beneath it.

At the inquest into the death a witness said Morrison had complained two weeks before the accident that the truck transmission was "haywire."

Mike Poje, general superintendent of Comox Logging and Railway Co. Ltd., that employed Morrison and owned the truck, said the report from provincial railway department inspector J. W. Kirkland indicated the general mechanical condition of the truck was good.

Referring to the accident, the report stated:

"The main factors would seem to be that the driver made no attempt to steer the truck into the bank on the high side of the road, and furthermore opened the door while backing up which resulted in his being thrown from the cab."

Mr. Poje said government inspections of company equipment are made regularly.

Rites Today For Veteran Of Gold Rush

NANAIMO—Funeral services were set for 1.30 p.m. today for John McGregor, 83, native son and member of a pioneer family here, who died at his home Thursday.

He taught school in Cedar District, and spent several years in the Yukon during the gold rush that started in 1898. He then worked as master mechanic and engineer for coal companies in the district, and operated his own service station.

During the Second World War he worked for Nanaimo Shipyards.

ON PARKS BOARD

In 1952 he served on the city parks board, and in 1931 founded and became the first commodore of Nanaimo Yacht Club. He was a member of the Native Sons of B.C., and of local pioneer groups.

Surviving are a son, Ald. W. C. McGregor, and a daughter, Mrs. Clarence Murphy, both of Nanaimo.

Cancer Groups Aids New Health Project

UCLUELET—Centennial committee here has received a cheque for $455 from Port Alberni branch of the B.C. Cancer Society to help defray the cost of the new Lyche Building here.

Erected as a permanent Centennial project for the communities of Ucluelet and Port Alberni, it houses municipal and health services. The building was opened last month.

Runoff Control Surveys Start

QUALICUM BEACH—Survey of means to control the runoff in the Big Qualicum River from Horne Lake is under way by an engineering crew from the federal department of fisheries.

The runoff affects the fish-spawning areas during the low-water season.

Two courses being considered are to improve the flow of water, thereby slightly lowering the level of Horne Lake, or to build a small dam to control the flow throughout the year.

The project has been advocated for some years by the Qualicum District Fish and Game Association, which has been concerned over the heavy mortality of fish during the low-water period.

Mother Saves Children From Fire

COURTENAY (CP)—A Courtenay mother rescued her two small children Thursday from a fire in an upstairs bedroom of their home.

The children, Terry Williams, 4, and his sister, Susie, 2, are believed to have been playing with matches when flames ignited curtains in the upstairs room.

Mrs. Nonie Williams was hanging out washing at the rear of the house when she turned and saw the fire.

"When I ran upstairs they were just standing there, looking at the flames," she said.

18,000 DEER KILLED BY HUNTERS IN B.C.

NANAIMO (CP)—An estimated 18,000 deer were shot this season by British Columbia hunters, regional game biologist Don Robinson said Thursday.

Mr. Robinson said the near-record bag was the result of a mild winter in 1957-58, plentiful food this spring and "enlightened game management practices."

The elk season, which closed in mid-October, resulted in a kill of nearly 60 animals for Island hunters, with an estimated 4,000 to 5,000 for the province.

'Ditch-Crawling' Trips Big Thrill

GANGES—A three and one-half month visit to Great Britain, where he saw the Queen's totem pole at Windsor Park, and just about everything else that could thrill a small boy, has just finished for Richard Wells, 11.

Only recently returned after the tour with his mother, he still considers the aerial view of London at night the most exciting spectacle of all.

"Coming to it at night the city looks like a huge fairyland, stretching as far as the eye can see, over one hill after another," he said on his return here.

He was impressed by Windsor Castle, London traffic, double-decked busses "that tipped 'way over on corners but never did fall," Nottingham Castle, the Edinburgh floral clock and a meeting of Cub Scouts at Walton on Thames, which was "just like home."

But best of all were the "ditch-crawling" trips. A maze of canals off the Trent River, near Derby, reminded Richard of the Gulf Islands, with boats a popular means of travel.

Small craft from the size of canoes upward travel the waterways and locks, and aqueducts enable them to travel on different levels. In some places, while cruising along by boat, one can look down at highway traffic passing underneath, Richard said.

He and his mother returned home by air.

The abacus, the first, and some still say the fastest of adding machines, is an early measure of progress—and thus a symbol.

The triangle is Grant's own symbol of mathematical, almost astronomical, growth.

Back in 1887, William Grant and his sons built their own distillery, with their own hands, in the Scottish Highlands. Now, the family firm owns and directs two of the largest malt distilleries in all Scotland.

Trade Winds Blow Best in St. Louis

WASHINGTON (AP)—St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Phillies, shuffling talent after disappointing seasons, were the busiest traders in the National League during the winter meetings.

With Frank Lane priming the pump, Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox set the pace in the American League.

Solly Hemus, starting a new career as a big-league manager with the Cards, came up with two right-handed hitting outfielders in Chuck Essegian and Gino Cimoli.

He gave up Wally Moon, a left-handed hitting outfielder, to Los Angeles Dodgers, and Ruben Amaro, a light-hitting (224) but fancy-fielding shortstop, to Philadelphia Phillies.

Phil Paine, right-handed relief pitcher already demoted to the Omaha farm, was ordered to Los Angeles Spokane farm club in the deal that sent Moon to the Dodgers for Cimoli, a 246 disappointment after a fine rookie year.

However, it was reported in Tokyo that Paine balked and agreed to play with Kintetsu Pearls of Japan's Pacific League next season. He and outfielder Don Voigt, a minor-leaguer with the Cardinals, made the deal with Pearls Thursday.

The Phils in addition to acquiring Amaro as insurance behind Chico Fernandez, got Valmy Thomas, a much-needed catcher. They picked up Ruben Gomez, an experienced pitcher, from San Francisco Giants in the swap that gave the Giants right-handed pitcher Jack Sanford, National League rookie of the year in 1957.

Lane, Cleveland general manager, latched on to a fine centre fielder in Jimmy Piersall, who hit only .237 at Boston. For him, Lane gave the Red Sox first baseman Vic Wertz and centre fielder Gary Geiger.

Lane also came up with Russ Heman, a right-handed pitcher from Baltimore's Vancouver farm club in the Pacific Coast League, where he had a 9-12 record. In return, Lane gave the Orioles second baseman Bobby Avila, 32.

The Red Sox also shifted Lou Berberet, left-handed hitting catcher, to Detroit for Herb Moford, a right-handed pitcher with a 4-9 record at Detroit last season.

Coast Soccer Scribe, Austin Delany Dies

VANCOUVER (CP)—Austin Delany, 56, well known in British Columbia as a sports writer, died of a heart attack late Thursday afternoon.

He collapsed while at work in the Vancouver Province and died within an hour.

Mr. Delany reported soccer and golf for the Province mainly, but he could turn his hand to any kind of sport when the occasion demanded.

He was born in Birkenhead, England, in 1902 and came to Vancouver in the early 1920s.

As a member of the New Westminster Royals he played on four Dominion championship soccer teams.

Province sports editor Alf Cottrell says in writing Delany's obituary: "Not for many years will they forget the great halfback line of New Westminster Royals, Rimmer, Russell and Delany."

"That was Les Rimmer, George Russell and Austin Delany—a line that worked as a unit yet a line in which each was a brilliant individual performer."

Delany joined the Province in 1936 and had worked for the newspaper most of the time since.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, Brud of The Victoria Daily Colonist, and Austin Jr. in England.

Sidney Scared By Brentwood

For a time Thursday night it looked as though the 31-game win-streak of Sidney senior "C" men's basketball team was due to end.

Brentwood held a 28-25 lead at half-time with 16 of their points scored on fouls against a ragged Sidney quintet in Saanich Suburban League action.

But, in the second half, the Sidney crew settled down.

With Bernie Johnsons hooping 15 of his total 21 points then, Sidney came from behind to score a 57-41 win, their 32nd straight.

Top marksmen for the losers was Paul Simpson, with 16.

Next senior "C" action will be Tuesday at North Saanich High when Sidney hosts Chinese Students, starting at 7:30 p.m.

CANADA'S YOUNGEST COACH

Robinson Accepts Lions' Offer

HAMILTON (CP)—Wayne Robinson, assistant coach of the Grey Cup champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers, said today he has accepted an offer to coach British Columbia Lions, of the Western Football Conference.

Robinson, in Hamilton as assistant coach of the West-all-star team, said he will go to Vancouver as soon as possible after Saturday's East-West Shrine game.

Robinson said he is "very happy" with his new job but a little sad to be leaving the Blue Bombers.

"My two years in Winnipeg were very happy indeed," he said. "I like Winnipeg, its people. I feel I can do as well out in Vancouver as there."

Robinson said he has "no plans yet" for the Lions. "I'll get out there first, look things over and start some place. Then I'll go to work."

Directors of the Lions voted Thursday night to accept an executive recommendation to go after Robinson.

Contract details were not disclosed. Robinson, however, will be given a free hand to select two assistants, but has not yet done so.

Robinson is the third coach in less than two years for the Lions, who finished in the league cellar this season with a 3-13 won-lost record.

Clem Crowe started out the 1958 season but was released after three games. Dan Edwards, former all-star end with Lions, replaced Crowe Sept. 2 and finished the season.

Robinson, an all-pro in the

National Football League with Philadelphia Eagles in 1954-55, joined the Bombers in 1957. At 28 he becomes the youngest coach in Canada of a senior professional team.

"It's a young man's game," he said.

His acceptance of the Vancouver job has been cleared by Winnipeg officials, who had given Lions permission to talk to him seven weeks ago. Lions officials telephoned Robinson Thursday night with the offer.

How does he feel about going from a Grey Cup winner to a team that lost a record 10 straight games this season and finished last?

"Well, there is plenty of room for expansion. There's only one way to go—and that's up."

Lions' president Harry Spring said Robinson, 28, will be given a free hand to select his own assistants. Jerry Burns, backfield coach at Iowa since 1954, who has worked with Bombers' backfield, the last two Winnipeg training camps, immediately was reckoned as a top choice to get one of the two assistants' jobs.

A list of 12 candidates, including Robinson, was reviewed before Lions decided on him.

Spring said "Robinson was selected because we feel he has the best qualifications for the job. It does not mean we thought Dan Edwards didn't do a good job. We all appreciate his work but sentiment can not interfere with our selection."

ARCHIE SAYS

Sniffles No Cause For Worry

MONTREAL (CP)—Archiebald Lee Moore, nursing a slight head cold, went through a light workout Thursday as he prepared to defend his world light-heavyweight boxing title against Canada's Yvon Durelle.

The old ring charmer dispensed with roadwork because of the cold, but went four rounds with sparring partner Junior Washington before 350 fans. Neither he nor his manager Jack (Doc) Kearns expressed any worry about the sniffles.

"Moore's in good shape," said Kearns. "We'll have no excuses. The champ's talking good and in good spirits."

However, Durelle kept up his rigorous training grind with three miles of roadwork and six rounds of boxing.

TICKETS GOING
Meanwhile, promoter Eddie Quinn said things were picking up in the box office for the scheduled 15-round fight in the Montreal Forum Dec. 10.

"It's been very strong the last three days. The fever's getting stronger."

He said he was looking for a 15,000 attendance and a gate of $100,000, plus the $75,000 television rights. So far about $43,000 worth of tickets have been sold, he said.

The fight is to be telecast via United States channels, but so far there was no arrangement to make it available to Canadian stations. There will be no radio coverage.

Student Ban Adopted By Alberta's Curlers

EDMONTON (CP)—The Alberta Curling Association has banned high school curlers from competition leading to the senior Dominion championship.

The approved resolution was worded to prevent a student from quitting school just before the men's playoffs and resuming studies later.

The Dominion Curling Association recommended to its provincial groups last March to bar students "below the university level" from play-offs leading to the senior title.

The Alberta Association agreed to ask that the Dominion high school championship final be played during Easter holidays to cut down loss of school time.

NAVY STREAK ON LINE; ACES ARGUE WITH VICS

Two streaks will be on the line in the second game of Saturday night's Commercial Hockey League doubleheader at Memorial Arena.

Army, beaten in three successive starts, will take on Navy, which is rolling along in first place with a record of three straight triumphs.

The Soldiers tackle the confident Tars at 9 p.m., following an important tussle between Shell Aces and Vics.

Vics and Aces, currently deadlocked for second place, will battle for sole possession of the runner-up spot.

Warriors Obtain Front-Line Help

Winnipeg Warriors obtained centre Jerry Wilson from the Toronto Maple Leafs, of the National League.

Wilson, a native of Winnipeg, has been working out with the Leafs for the last three weeks but will play with Winnipeg for the remainder of the season. A six-foot-three 210-pounder, he was drafted by the Leafs last spring for $15,000.

The deal was announced 48 hours after the Warriors said they had given the Leafs permission to negotiate with coach

SPORTSCRIPT

BY ERNIE FEDORUK

In case you missed seeing it in print the other day, one Roderick (Scotty) Munro has been suspended from coaching hockey teams for a period of one year.

Mr. Munro is the wandering nomad of western junior hockey, who has coached such young lads as Al Nicholson, Don Chiupka, Lionel Heinrich and others in such far-away places as Crow's Nest Pass, Humboldt and Lethbridge.

In his efforts to make an honest living, Mr. Munro looks after the interests of the Estevan Agricultural Society's new arena. He is Boston Bruins' chief scout in western Canada, and, also, publicity director, manager, owner and coach of Estevan Bruins. When he has time, he digs wells in Estevan's rich oil fields and operates a bowling alley.

He does all that, and still finds time to be good to his wife.

However, he wasn't particularly kind to a referee recently and the Saskatchewan Junior League saw fit to suspend Mr. Munro from coaching for bopping the official.

That insignificant little punch (to all but the referee and Roderick), has opened a brand-new field in sports. Starting with the punch one thing led to another and, eventually, resulted in Mrs. Munro being named as coach of the Estevan junior team.

Even Football Coaches Last Longer

As it turned out, Mrs. Munro's coaching career ended quickly. Munro's team was due to play a few hours after he issued an elaborate statement naming his wife as coach but the team's trainer took on the role, aided and abetted by Scotty's semaphore signalling from a press box across the ice. Mrs. M. remained a dutiful housewife, a Bruins' fan and in the stands.

But all that activity on the Prairies may have far-reaching effects. Lady coaches, for example.

Think, if you can, of the B.C. Lions and Vancouver newspaper writers. The mainland scribblers have been playing a guessing game for the past few weeks under an extreme handicap. They were able to use only names of males in their efforts to come up with a coach for the Western Football Conference team.

But now that ladies can enter the coaching field, you can imagine the joy and delight that Vancouver writers are experiencing. It is sheer ecstasy!

This season's game ended rather surprisingly Thursday evening when B.C. Lions' directors announced that the job has been taken by Wayne Robinson, aide to Winnipeg's Bud Grant during the past season.

It's probably a good thing the directors came up with the announcement as soon as they did, because the sports-writers were starting to run out of candidates.

Next year, however, no such problem will exist because of Mr. Munro's bid to organize a ladies' coaching union. If and when the boys in Vancouver start their guessing game next season, let us hope they campaign in earnest for Mrs. Robert Waterfield (or Jane Russell, if you haven't heard). With her measur... er, qualifications, the wife of the ex-Los Angeles Rams quarterback would be a lead-pipe cinch to become the first lady coach in pro football.

All sports writers, it would seem, owe Mr. Munro a vote of thanks for opening the door.

Silky His Old Self Down the Stretch

SAN BRUNO, Calif.—Silky Sullivan, the darling of the two-dollar bettors, returned to the races at Tanforan with a bang Thursday. He put on his celebrated come-from-behind finish to win the feature race, a six-furlong, $1,000 allowance race for three-year-olds.

Idle since last July 1, and undergoing treatment for sore legs and throat, the great Silky was greeted by a single chorus of boos and cheers when he came on the track. But when he finished his stretch run to win by a half length over Coup De Vent, a mighty roar went up from the grandstand.

A crowd of 8,000 — 2,000 more than normal for Tanforan—had come out to watch the comeback of the horse that had thrilled millions with his spectacular wins after trailing by as much as 40 lengths.

Howe Fires 399th NHL Marker; Rookie Helps Habs to 2-2 Draw

By The Canadian Press
Coach Sid Abel can relax again. Detroit Red Wings' Terry Sawchuk has re-discovered the formula for goaltending success.

Sawchuk, who let in 13 goals in two National Hockey League games last weekend, bounced back to form Thursday night with a 4-0 shutout of Boston Bruins, his third of the season.

In Montreal, Jacques Plante, Sawchuk's only serious rival for league netminding honors this season, allowed two second-period goals as his Canadiens hung on for a 2-2 tie with Toronto Maple Leafs.

The win moved Detroit into second place, three points back of Montreal, while Boston dropped into third.

At Detroit, Sawchuk made 9,277 fans regret the things they said about him Sunday night when Canadiens beat him 7-0. He blocked 26 shots, 12 of them in the second period, and looked like the man who helped Detroit up early in the season.

Abel paid tribute to his play recently by saying, "It frightens me a little. If he slips anything could happen."

The 28-year-old Winnipeg native now has allowed only 60 goals in 25 games—Plante has 59 in 24—and seems to have put completely behind him the 1956-57 season when he quit Boston a sick, embittered man.

Helping Sawchuk out was Detroit's other pillar of strength—Gordie Howe. The big right-winger scored his 399th NHL goal in regular season play. The other Red Wing goals came from Jack McIntyre and Billy McNeill.

Ralph Backstrom, rapidly emerging as the strongest candidate for rookie-of-the-year honors, scored both Canadiens goals as they drew with Toronto.

The 21-year-old left winger moved over to centre to replace injured Jean Beliveau and combined with Bernie Geoffrion, Ab McDonald and Maurice Richard for his sixth and seventh goals, both in the first period.

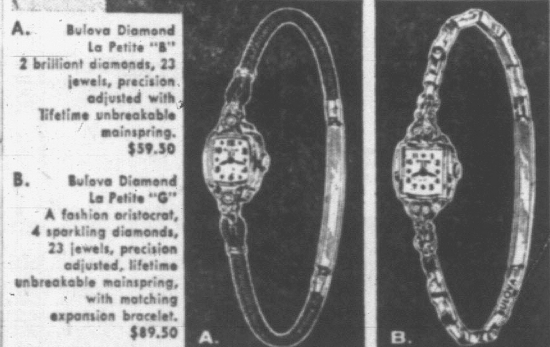

In the second Toronto roared back with unassisted goals by Tim Horton and Frank Mahovlich and that was all the scoring for the night.

The third period was scoreless but filled with action as four players mixed it up.

Bettors Lining Up In Champ's Corner

LOS ANGELES (AP)—World welterweight champion Virgil Akins, risking his title for the first time, is a solid favorite to keep it tonight against Don Jordan of Los Angeles.

The televised fight, scheduled for 15 rounds, will start at 7 p.m. PST. (Channels 2, 4 and 6 for Victoria fans).

Most experts figure the 30-year-old, hard-hitting champion from St. Louis will knock out Jordan, something that has not happened to the 24-year-old contender in 55 fights. Jordan, quietly confident, predicted he will outscore Akins and capture the crown in 15 rounds. Scoring will be on the 10-point must system, 10 to the winner, nine or less to the loser.

Akins has had 67 fights. He scored 28 knockouts, won 20 by decision, lost 18 and drew in one. Jordan has 29 wins, 15 by knockout.

Physically, the two are evenly matched but Akins has an advantage of three inches in reach. He favors a smashing right hand but is almost as dangerous with his left.

Akins has a guarantee for a rematch within 60 days at St. Louis if he loses. The champion gets 40 per cent of tonight's gate, Jordan 20.

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

One of the strangest myths people from the flatlands bring to these parts concerns the eating qualities of our ducks.

Usually I can smile with amusement when people ask innocently: "Do you really eat those ducks you shoot?"

But I'm inclined to get a bit riled when a newcomer to the west side of the Rockies states with the smug authority of an expert, "I used to hunt ducks back on the prairies, but I don't bother out here. All these ducks taste like fish."

Although I know I should merely encourage their beliefs because we already have more than enough shooting competition, I have to defend our mallards as the culinary equals of those grain-fed birds we hear so much about. Pintail, widgeon, teal and canvasbacks around here can also be good eating.

Our salt-water webfeet? Well, they are often birds of a different oven aroma. However, with prompt cleaning and proper cooking, some of them can also be tasty on the table.

Calm down, brother. I'm not saying all our mallards stack up in size to those buxom birds from the big wheat-fields. But some do and most of them look mighty fine coming out of an oven. It might also be mentioned that ducks filling up on too much grain develop a slightly oily taste. And I don't suppose all prairie quackers are above gulping down a shiner or two once in a while.

Anyway, I know that those ducks which have been trimming the butcher bill for the past couple of weeks are as good as any I have knocked down in Alberta.

Activity has slowed down in the past two days, but there was some terrific field shooting for a couple of weeks.

Big flights of northern ducks apparently rode down with story weather and until the birds had been shot at a few times, they were pitching into fields and places like Sidney Island, Cowichan Bay and Whitty's Lagoon with old-time abandon.

Stormy days were, of course, the best and Monday and Tuesday produced some of the fastest shooting we've seen around here in several years. Most of the birds coming into the fields are mallards and an occasional flock of pintails. Good numbers of widgeon are also dropping in on tidal flats and grass patches.

The birds are more wary now and gunners have generally had a quiet time during the past two calm evenings. But if you can get out on the next stormy day, take along a pocketful of shells.

Next Thursday, voters of Central Saanich go to polls and among other things, they'll decide whether or not they want the municipality closed to shooting.

As we have said before, the time is not too far away when most of the Central Saanich area will be closed. However, there is still a good portion of the municipality open enough to allow hunting. All that is needed is co-operation between landowners and hunters.

Voters who want things changed always turn out in better numbers than those who are satisfied with present conditions. Residents in favor of allowing shooting to continue should make a special effort to cast ballots.

Most of the larger landowners appear to have hunting. They are the ones who suffer the most from crop damage by game birds. Owners of smaller bits of land are the ones who are most anxious to ban shooting.

Under present regulations, all farmers in Central Saanich can post their lands. If it is considered necessary, all hunters obtaining permits to shoot in the municipality next year could be required to show proof of financial responsibility in case of damage to livestock or property.

The municipality has some problems connected with hunting, but, as yet, none are serious enough to require the end of all shooting.

This was a great season for deer hunters on Vancouver Island and the interior portions of the province. The deer kill on the Island was close to a new record and Victoria hunters also scored heavily on trips inland after mule deer.

Bob Wright arrived back last weekend with one of the biggest muleys of the season. One of a party of seven rifle men who collected six moose and 12 deer in the Cariboo country, Bob dropped a muley buck that dressed out at close to 300 pounds. The big fellow sported a high and heavy rack of antlers, which had a total of 15 points.

Incidentally, I forgot to mention earlier that Wright is the only angler I ever saw bitten by a fish after he was back on the dock.

Two turkey shoots are coming up this Sunday.

The South Vancouver Island Rangers will be hosting rifle men at their Luxton grounds. Starting at 10 a.m., the shoot will include events with the Rangers' running-deer targets.

Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association will stage its annual Christmas trap shoot at its layout at Goldstream Flats. Cartridges will start popping about the same time.

Don't expect to find any around these parts, but black brant and snow geese come into season Saturday.

Maroons Hit Skids--- Caps Take Over Lead

Dropping a 6-5 decision to Maroons at Memorial Arena, Thursday, Royals skidded out of first place in the bantam division of the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association.

Capitals took over the top spot as they got a brilliant, three-goal performance from Wayne Anderson and thumped Senators, 6-2.

Paul Bion was the sniping ace for Maroons, rapping three goals into the Maroons' net. Harvey Stevenson scored two goals and R. McLeod tallied once for the winners.

EUROPEAN HOCKEY 'SPARKLES'

It's Slight, But Canadians Still Have Edge on Reds

COMIC STAR with Harlem

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—Gordon Jukes, second vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, says that European hockey "sparkles" but Kelowna Packers came through in fine style during their recent overseas tour.

Jukes, publisher of the weekly Melville Advance, made the trip to Russia and Sweden with the Packers, who suffered only two losses in their eight-game tour.

"It is to the Packers' credit that they set up such a record while travelling some 18,000 air miles in a very short period of time, while having to adjust to some 11 hours difference in time, and while being honored and feted at every turn.

"They had to play different rules against teams who are accustomed to a different style of hockey, and they had to live on food which, despite the utmost consideration and hospitality of our hosts, was still different from their accustomed diet."

Jukes said that when the chips were down the Canadians showed they "still have just a little bit of an edge in ability, skill, drive and finish."

"But that edge is very small today, indeed, and observers, including myself, expect European teams to be tough in all future international competitions."

He said both the Swedes and Russians are prepared for hockey by playing "bandy", a game played with a curved stick and a hard ball with 11 players on each side wearing skates.

"From our conversation with Swedish and Russian officials we gathered that many who are now hockey stars started as youngsters with a bandy stick, a bandy ball and skates. It is no wonder that the young Swedish player is fast and slick when he starts to move a flat puck around with a longer and better stick."

Jukes said the Canadians liked the international rules and thought they had a lot to do with the "sparkle" in European hockey.

KEY TO PROGRESS

Lack of Iron Hurts Russia

By GUSTAV SVENSSON

MOSCOW (AP)—Iron is a key—and a formidable problem—in the Soviet master plan to out produce the United States.

Where it once was available, iron ore now is scarce.

While the shortage is speeding Russia's approach to the age of the plastics, iron ore still occupies a dominant role in the seven-year plan.

Laying down the terms of this plan for Soviet industrial expansion, Premier Nikita Khrushchev stressed to the Communist Party central committee that the iron industry—"especially its iron ore base"—ranked first among the tasks ahead.

The iron content in the ores of Krivoi Rog in the Ukraine and of the Urals, once the backbone of Soviet heavy industry, has been dwindling steadily. Articles in Soviet scientific journals have spoken of this as an iron brake on Soviet industrial expansion.

Mining Journal, a periodical for the industry, has pointed out that Soviet industry has been long suffering from a shortage of iron ore.

"The quality of Krivoi Rog ores poses an acute problem," the journal said, "since the iron content of commercial ore has dropped from 60.3 per cent in 1933 to 55.3 per cent in 1956."

SEEK SCRAP

The government has conducted wide campaigns for scrap iron collection on a scale unparalleled since the war.

The iron ore shortage may be temporary, but a mighty effort will be required to cope with what Soviet economists describe as a bottleneck for further industrial expansion.

Under the seven-year plan, new deposits will form the base for large industrial combines in an eastern Soviet industrial area. The plan earmarks 40 per cent of its total investment for development of these areas—in Siberia and Kazakhstan—where iron will play a leading role in the attempt to bring the plan to fruition.

Lutheran Budget $4.3 Millions; 70 New Churches

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The board of American missions of the United Lutheran Church has approved a record 1959 budget of $4,300,000 and set up plans to organize 70 new churches next year.

Half the budget, which is $1,000,000 above this year's, will go for support of 700 churches under board jurisdiction in the United States, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii, the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico.

The United Lutheran Church with 2,400,000 members in more than 4,700 congregations is the largest Lutheran body in North America.

Eight Killed In Oil Stove Explosion

DOVER, Del. (AP)—At least eight persons were burned to death Thursday night when fire destroyed a rural home about 15 miles from here.

Three others, a man, a woman, and a child, were burned. The child is in critical condition.

Firemen said that incoherent accounts of the tragedy from the survivors indicated a ninth body might be buried in the smoldering debris of the 1½-story frame house.

Chief George Knotts of the Clayton Fire Company said the fire apparently was started by an oil stove which exploded.

Bodies of 3 Boys Found in Mountains

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP)—The snow-covered bodies of three Boy Scouts, missing since November 15 in the rugged Santa Rita Mountains, were found Thursday. They were caught in a storm trying to scale Mount Baldy.

6-Day, 60-Hr. Work Week 'New Deal' in Hong Kong

HONG KONG (Reuters)—This British colony is to give its women and teen-age workers a new deal: A 60-hour, six-day week.

A bill embodying these conditions has been adopted in the legislative council, the government-appointed body of Europeans and Chinese. It will take effect Jan. 1.

The new regulations will replace a labor law passed in 1955 which forbade the employment of women and young people at night or for longer than 13 hours a day. But until now, it has been legal to employ in industry a woman or young person of 16 years of age or over for 13 hours a day on 365 days a year.

Actually, most of the 67,000 women in registered factories here work an average of 9½ hours a day, spread over 10½ hours when the meal breaks are included. But there are some small businesses such as backyard factories whose employees work half of the 24 hour most days of the year.

In this over-crowded, mountainous territory, the Chinese live for work, and work to keep alive. They cannot understand the pleas that Labor members of Parliament have made for them in the House of Commons. They would indignantly reject any well-meant attempt to limit them to a 40-hour, five-day week.

You can't BARGAIN with disaster!

Did you ever stop to think, there's often a good reason why one product costs a little more than another?

Take your property or liability insurance, for example. Suppose your policy is suddenly put to the test by a serious loss. A ruined house. An automobile accident involving serious injuries. A home broken into and robbed. It's too late then to find out you're not covered—or not adequately covered.

That is where your independent insurance agent comes in. His job is to see that you are protected with the broadest possible coverage at the lowest possible cost. He likes bargains, too—but only if they are in your best interest. Because he represents not one, but several companies, he can choose the policy that best meets your needs. And when serious trouble comes, he is there to protect your interests to the fullest.

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

Will the Big Dipper Ever Change?

The two pointer stars in the Big Dipper have shown the direction to Polaris, the North Pole Star, for thousands of years. We can depend on these pointer stars throughout our lives and for several thousand years to come. But suppose we could study our sky 100,000 years from now. The Big Dipper will not look like itself at all. The two pointer stars will be pointed towards some spot in the eastern part of the sky.

The Big Dipper is slowly changing. Each of the seven major stars is moving in a slightly different direction. The change is so slight that we will notice no change in 100 years. But, after 100,000 years our old Big Dipper will be pulled all out of shape.

'Close' Stars Far Apart

By this time most of the other constellations also will have changed. Actually, the stars we see from the earth are moving about at tremendous speeds. We do not notice their changing positions because they are such immense distances away. They also are separated from each other by vast oceans of space.

The stars in a constellation seem to us to be next door neighbors. But this is not so at all. One bright star may be 50 light years away from us. Beside it we see another bright star which looks like a twin. But this second star may be 300 light years beyond the first star. And the two of them may be travelling in different directions.

All the stars we see are part of a huge system called the Galaxy. The Galaxy is shaped like a cartwheel and, like a cartwheel, turns around and around. Stars near the centre correspond to the hub of a wheel. Stars near the edge correspond to the wheel's rim. As the big wheel turns the stars of the vast system must move at different speeds and in different directions. And so lower. The first three stars in the handle are gradually moving away from the bowl, one behind the other. So this part of the handle is slowly growing longer.

The fourth and last big star in the handle of our Big Dipper tips down to make a curve in the handle. This star is moving to make an even sharper curve. In 100,000 years it will be almost directly under the third big star in the handle.

The two pointer stars are moving in opposite directions and here the change will be most noticeable. The lip of the Big Dipper is gradually falling down. The Big Dipper of the future may still look like a dipper but it will be completely changed around. What is now the handle will be the bowl, what is now the bowl will serve as a handle. And, of course, the whole picture will be upside down.

the constellations we see from earth get twisted out of shape.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Mark Freed, age 12, of Los Angeles, Calif., for his question:

How Far Can You See on a Clear Day?

This, of course, depends upon the direction in which you are looking. It also depends upon how high you are standing and whether any object is blocking the view. If you are about four feet tall and look out to the ocean, you can see about two miles. A six-foot man can see about three miles. In other words, you can see about half a mile for every foot in height.

Looking towards the mountains you can see much farther because their peaks may poke above the horizon. Sometimes you can see the Rockies from 60 or 70 miles away.

At dawn or sunset you may dare to look at the sun. And this bright star is about 93 million miles away. There seems no limit to how far our eyes can see—if the object is big and bright enough

RELIC OF EXPLORER

Oldest Christmas Pudding Expected

LONDON (CP) — Fourteen days before Christmas, a tin containing what is confidently believed to be the oldest Christmas pudding in the world, will be opened before the cautious gaze of a select audience of senior naval officers.

The age of the tin is firmly established. It was part of the provisions taken along by Sir Edward Parry when he set off in search of the Northwest Passage in 1824.

But there is understandable uncertainty about its contents. It hasn't had a label for at least 130 years.

The tin was part of the supplies jettisoned by Parry when one of his ships, the Fury, was trapped in ice north of Hudson Bay and had to be abandoned. Another Arctic explorer, Sir John Ross, found them on a similar expedition five years later.

The tin has been in the possession of Joan McNeel, Caird of Edinburgh, a descendant of the Ross family, who turned it over to the British Food Manufacturing Industries Research Association, a government organization which has been investigating the state of preservation of ancient canned goods.

New Parole System Soon

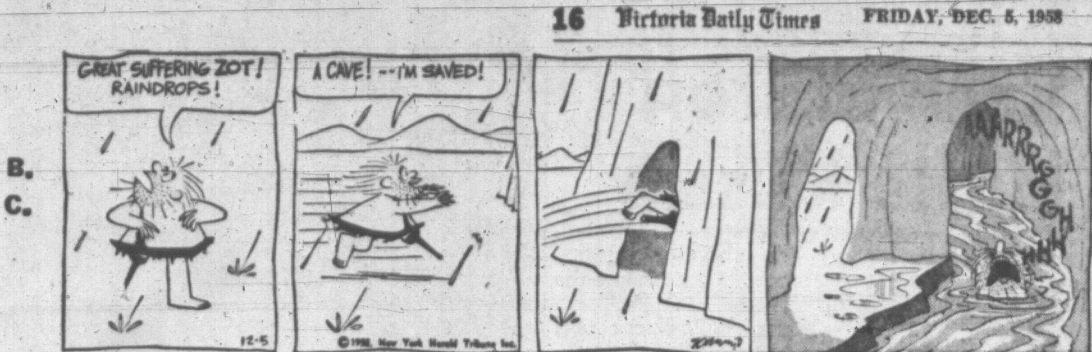

OTTAWA (CP) — A national parole board with all-embracing powers to supervise the release of prisoners from penitentiaries is expected to be appointed before the end of the year, it was learned Thursday.

The board, authorized under parliamentary legislation passed last August, will have five members who will make automatic periodic reviews of the cases of prisoners serving two or more years.

It will take over from the present remission service on the justice department which has over many months gradually established a system of automatic review, in preparation for the time when the board would come into being.

Fire Evacuees to Return

MALIBU, Calif. (UPI)—Santa Monica Mountains to the sea. Many evacuees were expected today to be able to return to their homes with the nearly complete control of the 20,000-acre fire that raged from the sea.

Complete control of the fire was in sight.

Greatly improved weather conditions helped firemen win their three-day battle against the huge fire.

But 700 men, including 500 soldiers, sailors and marines, stayed on the firelines to guard against the always present danger of a sudden flareup if wind conditions change.

More than 1,000 firefighters, some of whom had been combatting the blaze since it broke out Tuesday, were relieved Thursday.

Evanne Shines as Shrew To 'Carry' Priestley Play

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON
"Laborum Grove," by J. B. Priestley, is a play about the life of a man who was a shrew, and it is being put on at a disadvantage by his position on the stage but succeeded in creating a believable and amusing character and in keeping the audience in mind as a focus for his vocal and acting efforts.

Belle Davies gave the production pronounced eye-appeal and as an actress showed quite considerable talent and promise. Another quite effective performance was turned in by Don Hart.

Highlight of St. Luke's Players' production of this early Priestley opus is undoubtedly the acting of Evanne Murray as the shrewish, calculating wife and sister.

The play opened at St. Luke's Hall Thursday night.

To a far greater extent than anyone else in the cast Miss Murray displayed a sense of high comedy and an understanding of timing pace and projection.

At moments the technique she employed was suited to farce-melodrama rather than this gentle spoof on English middle-class respectability.

But her occasional exaggerations of gesture and expression had vitality and entertainment value in contrast to the low-level underplaying which was general in the cast.

SPIRIT, IMAGINATION
At any rate, one was grateful to Miss Murray for a genuine characterization undertaken with spirit and imagination, and in striking contrast to other recent roles she has played.

Of the balance of the cast, Charles Gibson's was by far the most complete and consistent performance, falling short only at the moment of climax, and early in the play in the matter of projection.

Alec Hutchins was often put at a disadvantage by his position on the stage but succeeded in creating a believable and amusing character and in keeping the audience in mind as a focus for his vocal and acting efforts.

Belle Davies gave the production pronounced eye-appeal and as an actress showed quite considerable talent and promise. Another quite effective performance was turned in by Don Hart.

Kettering died Nov. 25 after suffering a stroke.

The exact size of the estate will not be known until an inventory is taken. However, it is known that Kettering held approximately $165,000.00 worth of General Motors stock. Business associates placed the value of his other holdings, including many patents on inventions, at not less than $40,000.00.

Peter Pond is believed to have reached the Peace River, main tributary of the Mackenzie River, in 1780.

Auto Genius Left Over $200 Million

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The late Charles F. Kettering, automotive genius and former General Motors research head, left an estate conservatively estimated at a little more than $200,000,000.

Most of this huge fortune in the form of shares of C. F. Kettering, Inc., was divided between the Kettering Foundation and a separate philanthropic trust. Details of the division were not disclosed in the will filed Thursday in Montgomery county probate court.

Kettering died Nov. 25 after suffering a stroke.

The exact size of the estate will not be known until an inventory is taken. However, it is known that Kettering held approximately $165,000.00 worth of General Motors stock. Business associates placed the value of his other holdings, including many patents on inventions, at not less than $40,000.00.

Peter Pond is believed to have reached the Peace River, main tributary of the Mackenzie River, in 1780.

Soviet Book Brands Israel Exploited Land of Poverty

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—A Soviet book attacking Jewish nationalism and Israel has caused a stir here.

"It is the worst piece of anti-Semitism since the Protocols of Zion," said one prominent Israeli citizen. The book was written by Konstantin Ivanov and Zinoviy Sheinis under the title The State of Israel and Its Situation and Policy. Moscow printed 100,000 copies.

Israel's English-language newspaper, the Jerusalem Post, devoted a full page to a review of the work, quoting passages which stressed the anti-Israeli content.

The book depicts Israel as an outpost of British and American imperialism and as a nest of extreme poverty, deprivation and capitalist exploitation.

"Such is life in Israel," declared the authors, "a paradise for an insignificantly small group of bourgeois speculators and life full of deprivations for the masses of the people. The facts speak with conviction to indicate that tens and hundreds of thousands of people who in various years left their homelands are finding in Israel a miserable existence."

The book claims many immigrants to Israel from Communist countries such as Poland, Rumania and Hungary have tried to go back but can't get permission to leave Israel.

VANCOUVER 'THE CHICAGO OF CANADA'

VANCOUVER — Mayorality candidate Archie Proctor said Thursday night he would fire Police Chief George Archer if he won the civic election this month.

Proctor, an alderman, termed the west coast city "the Chicago of Canada." He said the crime rate had risen remarkably since Archer, a former RCMP officer, took over the department four years ago.

Proctor said he would appoint a new police chief from the force itself.

GALES, SNOW WHIP MARITIMES

Two Killed in Storm

HALIFAX (CP) — Gale-whipped rain and snow lashed the Maritimes Thursday night causing at least two deaths, flooding highways and disrupting communications.

A 10-year-old boy died in Liverpool on Nova Scotia's south shore when struck by a car. Police said the boy, wearing a dark raincoat, was hit as he crossed a street in a driving rain.

In Sydney, lunch counter operator Walter Torbiak, 40, was electrocuted when he came in contact with a fallen 2,300-volt power line.

NINE STRAIGHT

NEW YORK (AP) — Jose Torres, 159, of Puerto Rico, scored his ninth straight victory, the last five by knockouts, when he stopped Ike Jenkins, 154, of New York at 2:35 of the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round fight Thursday night.

At least nine persons were injured.

Two passenger liners were expected to dock here today after riding out the gale. Power failures threw many sections of Sydney and part of downtown Halifax into darkness. Power lines were snapped and strewn about Sydney streets.

Winds reached 76 miles an hour at nearby Shearwater Airport, 65 miles in Sydney. About two inches of precipitation fell on most of Nova Scotia.

LEAVE ESQUIMALT OUT OF MERGER SAYS REEVE

Reeve A. C. Wurtele today criticized Coun. Charles Nelles for bringing Esquimalt into an amalgamation debate at a Saanich Voters' Association sponsored meeting at Cadboro Bay Thursday.

Coun. Nelles said if Saanich did not amalgamate taxes would go up faster than other municipalities in the area "with the possible exception of Esquimalt."

"I take strong exception to Coun. Nelles bringing Esquimalt into the amalgamation debate," said Reeve Wurtele.

"I haven't been interfering with the amalgamation issue in Saanich. I ask him to respect Esquimalt in the same manner."

The reeve said as far as he was concerned "Esquimalt is staying right out of the amalgamation issue." "It's none of our business," he added.

20% Tax Boost Denied by Reeve

A claim that taxes in Saanich will go up between 20 and 25 per cent in 1959 was denied Thursday night by Reeve George Chatterton at an amalgamation forum held in St. George the Martyr Church Hall, Cadboro Bay.

The meeting was sponsored by the Saanich Voters' Association.

The claim was made by Coun. Charles Nelles during an amalgamation debate with Coun. Leslie Passmore, who is strongly opposing a Saanich-Victoria union.

"I will show you (if Saanich doesn't amalgamate) over the next 15 years our taxes will go steadily upwards... and faster than any other municipality in the area with the possible exception of Esquimalt," Coun. Nelles said.

He predicted next year a tax increase of five mills, basing his information partly on the provisional budget and rising school costs.

Temper flared for a moment. Coun. Passmore challenged Mr. Nelles' right of access to the provisional budget.

Reeve Chatterton, who was sitting in the audience, stood up to clarify the point.

While Coun. Nelles had the right to obtain a copy of the provisional budget, the reeve said it was "unfair to use the document for predicting a tax increase."

The document was "merely a proposal by the staff" without council's approval, the reeve said.

"I think the use of the document is unfair," he said. "It is misleading."

running short of arguments if he has to resort to this document to show that taxes will go up," he added.

The reeve said he was certain that taxes would not go up 20 to 25 per cent. There would be some increased school costs he said.

A member of the audience stood up and said it was quite unfair for Coun. Nelles to produce the provisional budget without also showing the anticipated tax increase in the city.

MAIL VOTE FOR PRESIDENT

Victoria branch of the B.C. Government Employees' Association has mailed more than 2,200 ballots to provincial civil servants for use in the election of a new president.

Candidates are the current president, David Lytle, of the lands and forests department, and Frank H. Carr of the postal department.

Returning officer is Thomas Affleck.

Gorge Park Improvements Given Cabinet Approval

The provincial cabinet has approved a Capital Improvement District Commission plan to spend $23,280 on improvements in Kinsmen Gorge Park.

The decision was made public Thursday after a meeting of the commission. The money will be spent on providing roadways and some lighting in the park. J. Everett Brown, commission chairman, said the cabinet has approved expenditure of another $3,500 on decorative illumination in Beacon Hill Park.

The commission spent $25,000 on the lighting earlier this year.

Mr. Brown said the commission has recommended a number of projects to the cabinet. He said no word has been received from the cabinet as yet concerning a city proposal that Horseshoe Bay on the Beacon Hill waterfront be turned into a heated open-air swimming pool.

Mayor Percy Scurrell and Ald. Arthur Dowell represented the city at the closed meeting.

Next meeting of the commission was set for Jan. 8.

MONTE ROBERTS

Have you ever heard of "degree days"? I hadn't, either, until I fell into conversation with a professional engineer from Vancouver.

This professional engineer from Vancouver is a member of the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C., and he is in Victoria, appropriately enough, to attend the annual convention of said association.

And do you know what the professional engineer said to me, right off, and immediately?

He said: "It's certainly a brisk morning. Much colder than in Vancouver."

Well, naturally, a remark of that nature made my Victorian gorge rise. In fact, my gorge rose so high it nearly swept away the Craigflower Bridge.

"What do you mean, it's colder here than it is in Vancouver?" I cried. "It is always milder in Victoria than in Vancouver."

"I do not wish to hurt your pride," said the professional engineer, "but I happen to know otherwise."

"In fact," he said, "in a recent study of degree days, I have found it is frequently colder in Victoria."

So I asked him about degree days, and to condense his explanation; degree days are days on which it is necessary to turn on the furnace or other heating plant.

Professional engineers figure out degree days, it appears, by ultra-scientific means and the use of slide rules, logarithms, and the like.

Thus I found it hard to argue with the professional engineer when he told me Victoria has more degree days in the summer than Vancouver does.

(He also admitted that Vancouver has more degree days in the winter, which saved my wounded pride a little.)

I was ready to admit defeat when I thought of a question.

"In your own home," I asked, "do you turn on the furnace after you have figured out, mathematically, whether or not it is a degree day?"

"Heavens no," said the professional engineer.

"I turn on the furnace when my wife tells me to."

I trust your fund of knowledge will benefit from this explanation of degree days.

REV. ROY MELVILLE... two-war veteran

Sidney Cleric Dies Suddenly

Rev. Roy Melville, 65, rector of Sidney and North Saanich Anglican churches for the past 12 years, died suddenly Thursday night at his home in Sidney.

Born in Toronto, he was a veteran of two wars, having served in the Second World War as a chaplain.

Surviving are the widow, Hilda, at home; two sons, Jerry at UBC in Vancouver, and Wallace, Kitimat; two grandchildren; and two brothers and a sister in Toronto.

Arrangements will be announced later by Sands' chapel at Sidney. It has been requested that no flowers be sent.

Snow Tonight

Snow flurries were predicted for tonight by weatherman William Mackie as a result of two weather systems closing on Victoria like jaws of a vise.

"The Arctic air mass covering most of North America has reached a line between Abbotsford and Bellingham," he said, "and we expect it to creep across the water today."

"To the west, though, we have a warm Pacific storm pressing on us from the ocean, and the high cloud we had today was connected with a warm front from this disturbance. It is reasonable to expect precipitation in a situation like this, and it most likely will be snow."

Temperatures will drop to 25 degrees in sheltered areas tonight, and the maximum Saturday will be 40 degrees. Winds will be northeasterly at 15 miles per hour.

Sidney Wharf To Go Ahead After All

Defence Minister George Peckham announced in Ottawa Thursday the federal government will call tenders shortly for construction of a new $300,000 ferry terminal at Sidney.

The terminal will be used on a lease arrangement by Washington State Ferries for the Sidney-Anacortes run.

General Peckham's announcement came only 24 hours after WSF general manager R. I. Burse expressed "great disappointment" that the Canadian government had decided not to proceed with the work "at this time."

C. E. Blaney, Victoria agent for WSF, said today the announcement from Ottawa was "certainly welcome."

BIGGER FERRIES

"We hope to be able to use larger ferries on the run this summer," he said. "Mr. Killick is being enlarged to handle 95 cars per trip, and we hope to put on a larger, 110-car ferry, as well."

He said the new terminal is needed to handle the larger-capacity ferries.

WSF is building a new terminal at the Anacortes end. It is hoped both will be ready for the peak of the tourist season.

Public works department is expected to award the Sidney contract within 10 days. The terminal will include a parking compound, wharf sections, transfer span, pedestrian waiting room and toll booth.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A. P. Hayward, of Victoria, was fined $10 in city police court Thursday on a charge of failing to pay an employee's wages semi-monthly. He was charged with being $94.50 in arrears which has since been paid, court was told.

Victor Ward, no fixed address, was sentenced in city police court Thursday to 90 days in jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy by begging on Johnson.

City Engineer James Garnett and City Manager C. C. Wyatt will address the Chamber of Commerce public affairs group on both city referendums the day before rate-payers cast ballots.

The meeting will be held at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday in the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Garnett will describe the downtown improvement plan to be launched if the $1,000,000 money-by-law is approved.

Mr. Wyatt, who assisted Dr. J. J. Deutsch, will discuss the amalgamation of Victoria and Saanich.

Secretary of the National YMCA Building and Furnishing service in San Francisco, John A. Van Dris, conferred Thursday with a joint Victoria YM-YWCA planning committee.

Purpose of the conference was to discuss preliminary plans for a joint building to be built of a decision to amalgamate the two associations is reached.

Mr. Dris has just completed a tour of Regina, Edmonton, and Eugene, Oregon, where "Y" building is taking place.

Some 60 per cent of approximately 75 purple-leaf flowering plums on Burdett are infected with heart-rot fungus and will have to be replaced as they become dangerous, parks administrator W. H. Warren said Thursday. Two were removed last year and the others may be taken down over a period of years.

The junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in the Monterey Restaurant parking lot for a hidden destination trip.

In case of bad weather the group will meet at 7 p.m. in the provincial museum.

Found guilty of impaired driving, Joseph Henry Rainey, 2310 Richmond, in city police court today had his driver's licence suspended for one year. He was fined $250 when he first appeared in court on Nov. 27.

City parks committee today re-submitted a recommendation to city council to authorize removal of about 120 boulevard trees scattered in a number of areas. It decided parks administrator W. H. Warren should make a verbal report on the reasons to council.

Night viewing sessions at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory will be terminated until March 31 next year an observatory spokesman said Thursday.

But the observatory will remain open to visitors Monday through Friday each week from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

SAANICH FORCE MAKING HAMPERS FOR NEEDY

Policemen to Turn Santa Claus

Saanich police soon will begin active collection of material to make up hampers for 35 needy Saanich families, Deputy Chief Jack Hamilton said today.

The project will be similar to the one conducted by the police last year, he said, but the number of recipients this year is larger.

"Already we have been given donations of cash toward the fund," he said, "and members of the force will soon be calling on merchants for assistance."

Police Chief Bert Pearson heads the campaign, and the deputy chief has direct charge.

"We got a wonderful response last year," Mr. Hamilton said.

Last year, he said, a clearing station was established in his basement, 1½ tons of potatoes proving too much of an obstacle.

"This year we are having a depot right at the Royal Oak police station," he said. "If anyone has anything to give, we will accept it there gladly."

Till 'Knocked Out' By Drink Says Lawyer

Defence of 16-year-old Johnny Till, charged with murder of his foster father Charles Mudge, is that the youth "was overcome by drink and had no recollection of what he was doing."

This was indicated today by defence counsel Joseph McKenna, Q.C., in his address to the Assize Court jury.

Scheduled for this afternoon was the jury address by Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie and the charge to the jury by Mr. Justice J. G. Rutan before the jury withdraws to consider its verdict.

He was picked up near Port Renfrew after spending the night in the home of an acquaintance Roy Mills, where he heard about the killings on the radio.

"Imagine the feelings of the boy," said Mr. McKenna. "I don't know what you would do, but I think I'd feel like cutting my throat."

The accused was subsequently hospitalized with cuts on his throat.

'It Was Natural'

"Is it not at all unusual that he tried to commit suicide? I submit that it was natural... reasonable... though terrible."

He said the Mudges had been "generous" regarding their foster-son, "but unfortunately, to put it as kindly as I can, lacking in judgment."

He likened the accused to "a volcano," and "even gasoline, ready to explode."

For years, he pointed out, the youth had had one home after another, and in his position with the Mudge family "like the family cat... that stays with the house."

For this reason the youth

'I Don't Remember'

On the stand Thursday after the case for the defence opened, Till said "I don't remember anything."

The culmination of drinking during the morning of Sept. 13 hit the accused about noon, Mr. McKenna said, in the heat of the 11 foot by 12½-foot kitchen while lunch was being prepared.

Evidence disclosed two drinks of rum were served in the kitchen before lunch. Four persons, said the defence counsel, were present, Till, Mr. Mudge, Mrs. Phyllis Mudge, 30, and her father, John Brand, 69, another slaying victim.

Till was warmly dressed, and had been consuming liquor while on a hunting trip with his foster-father most of the morning.

'Knocked Him Out'

"The second drink (in the kitchen) is apparently the one that knocked him out," Mr. McKenna told the jury. Till, he said, didn't know whether he had lunch or not.

Speaking quietly, Mr. McKenna said: "Till didn't know anything more until he was sitting in the truck, and saw blood on his arms."

"Even an adult," he said, "wouldn't know what to do in such a situation, and Till just kept on going."

He described Mrs. Mudge as a "voluptuous" woman that could not but have an effect on the young man.

"Even an innocent woman doesn't realize the fascination she has for the male sex. That is why in Moslem countries they keep them wrapped up," Mr. McKenna said.

He pointed out that when Mrs. Mudge appeared in court "even the court officials vied with each other" to escort her to the witness box.

Mr. and Mrs. Mudge "should never have had the boy," he claimed.

Evidence showed, he recalled, that magazines such as Esquire, Ace, Bachelor and Playboy were scattered around the house, which Mrs. Mudge must have realized Till would read.

"Perhaps she didn't realize..."

He claimed that the Mudges were living beyond their means in their $17,000 home at 3460 Metcoshin.

Mrs. Mudge received $500 a month as paymaster at Yarrows Ltd. and Mrs. Mudge re-

Amalgamation Forum

(The big issue to be decided at the Victoria and Saanich elections next week is that of amalgamation. In this column, as they are received, The Times will carry letters from readers pro and con.)

Saanich Needs Broader Tax Base

The reeve of Saanich has recently stated that the tax base in Saanich is not broad enough, mainly because of the residential character of the development, to shoulder the ever-increasing tax load.

The capital for vital services which will be required over the next decade will be very large and could conceivably be beyond the limits of the municipality's borrowing power. It may be that Saanich will find the rates of financing prohibitive and this in turn could develop into stagnation or into bankruptcy.

There are so many obvious benefits in the future for both sides, such as a broader tax base, etc., that we must vote this month for a continued study of amalgamation.

Taxes are going to continue to go up in Saanich, as elsewhere, and perhaps much higher in Saanich in proportion to other areas. Therefore, I urge Saanich residents to vote in favor of amalgamation so that our council may meet with the Victoria city council, ready to work out favorable terms for both parties for ultimate union and benefit.

JOHN W. ARMOUR.
1880 Cromwell Road.

Passmore Fighting for His Job

All Coun. Leslie Passmore is fighting for in his opposition to amalgamation is his job on Saanich council.

Why, neither he nor many Saanich residents, who expect the mill rate to increase if amalgamation comes about, don't know what taxes are. In Weyburn, Sask., it is 80 mills; in Moose Jaw, Sask., 90 mills. I own four houses in Weyburn and last year it took me six months rent from two of the houses to pay the taxes.

I want to see taxes, and maybe we'll get something for it. Without an increased mill rate Saanich isn't going to get anywhere.

I've owned waterfront property in Victoria—and at one time had 96 pieces of land in Manitoba, a ranch in B.C.'s interior and have considerable property elsewhere, so I know what I'm talking about, which is more than Mr. Passmore does.

In fact, I'll challenge him any place on any platform, and make a monkey out of him, on his opposition to amalgamation.

I'm 81 years of age and have lived here 15 years.

Ten life memberships were presented at the awards luncheon.

The memberships, represented by gold medallions to be affixed to the regular membership certificates, went to:

T. E. Clarke, Nanaimo, a member since 1921; T. H. Crosby, Victoria (chairman of the B.C. Power Commission), 1920; F. G. deWolf, Vernon, 1921; I. M. Ham, Silverton, 1921; C. I. Heishman, Toronto, 1928; H. J. MacLeod, Victoria, 1936; N. W. Morton, Burnaby, 1921; W. L. Nelson, Vancouver, 1938; J. I. Preissner, Toronto, 1920; and C. E. Scanlan, North Vancouver, 1921.

The veteran engineers also heard announcement of certificate presentation to 83 young engineers, who have been registered in the past year.

The convention is continuing this afternoon with panel discussions. Dr. Brock Chisholm will speak at the annual luncheon Saturday.

The association is responsible for administering the Engineering Profession Act of B.C. Its membership consists of more than 2,000 professional engineers, plus about 1,150 engineers in training.

Q. The same old question arises: Should married couples send out Christmas cards from Jeap and John Doe or from John and Jean Doe? H.R.M.

A—When cards are sent out by husband and wife, the one who writes the names, courteously, writes his or her own name last. But when cards are printed there is no rule about whether the husband's or the wife's name shall be first.

Q. What is Canada's suicide rate? M.P.

A—Last figures show death from self-inflicted injuries at 7.6 per 100,000 population.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

WIDOW WANTS SOCIAL ACTIVITY

I am a widow with a 10-year-old stepson whom I legally adopted. It has been almost two years now since my husband's death, and I feel more like meeting people and having more social activities. Should I continue to wear my wedding and engagement rings, and, if so, on which hand? How should my name be used: Mrs. Julia Scott Jones or Mrs. George H. Jones? How should the name be used for utility bills, mortgage payments, etc.

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS: It is a matter of personal preference as to the wearing of your engagement and wedding rings. Most widows do for reasons of sentiment and adornment, and, in your case, propriety, for you do have a son. Wearing the rings should not scare men away. Any interested person can easily find out by asking questions either of you or of friends. Your name is Mrs. George H. Jones, even though a widow. Your signature, which is something else, can be Julia Scott Jones, Julia S. Jones, or just Julia Jones. Check signing has little or nothing to do with social etiquette for the "transaction" is only between you and the bank, which has had a record ever since you opened your account. Should you re-marry, you would go to the bank and make arrangements for the recording of your new signature.

MORE ABOUT CHRISTMAS CARDS

May Christmas card envelopes be addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and family? LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS: "And Family" is a lazy way of addressing an envelope. It should be avoided on everything, but with Christmas cards I'm sure that no one in the family would criticize or think twice if it were written. If the sender knows the names of the children, how much nicer to include their names. It's a little more flattering.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT

Two attractive pre-clinical student nurses from the Royal Jubilee Hospital School of nursing, Miss Ann Burridge, left, and Miss Janet Markham, will be among members of the school's glee club to sing for parents and friends, next Tuesday evening. Mrs. J. Roberto Wood is choir leader. The concert will be held in the nurses' residence at 8 o'clock.

Seventeenth Century Sword Used to Cut Wedding Cake

At a recent wedding reception the newlyweds used a sword made in the 17th century to cut their three-tier cake.

Bride was the former Miss Norma Elaine Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Stewart, 4225 Cedar Hill Road. Raymond Frank Creed, groom, is son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Creed, 4288 Shelbourne.

Ceremony, conducted by Rev. Douglas B. Carr, took place in Centennial United Church. Decorations for the service were baskets of yellow and white Desboud chrysanthemums. Colonial bouquets of red roses with white ribbons marked pews.

Mr. Stanley Martin sang "Because" as solo. Mrs. M. Wilmshurst played the organ. The bride was lovely in a full-length traditional white gown. Skirt was of rose-patterned lace over satin. Bodice featured dropped waist dipping to points in front and back and scalloped neckline. Lace and pearl tiara held her fingertip veil. She carried a full cascade bouquet of red roses, ivy, stephanotis and heather. Her jewelry was a pearl drop and earrings. She entered the church on the arm of her father.

Bridesmaids chose identically styled gowns in princess lines of brocaded taffeta with matching head bands. Miss Helen Robson's gown was blue and her cascade bouquet was of contrasting yellow carnations. Miss Laureen Bennet chose pink with green carnations. Bride's sister, Miss Joan Stewart, wore yellow brocade with a blue bouquet. Gown of fourth attendant, Miss Pauline Carter, groom's cousin, was green and she carried pink carnations. Each wore a heart-shaped pendant of aqua borealis stones.

Bride's mother wore a gown of dusty rose lace, with feather hat and gloves to match. A corsage of white rosebuds completed the ensemble. Groom's mother chose blue lace with matching feather hat and gloves with a pink rosebud corsage.

Beside the groom stood Robert John Wray, best man. Gordon Deacon, David Street and Gordon Montague ushered. Reception was held in Old England Inn. C. P. V. Forrest proposed the toast to the bride. Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. A. Knight and Mr. and Mrs. W. Hitchman and family from Seattle.

"Going away" the bride chose a teal blue suit with brown accessories. Corsage of yellow roses and green ivy contrasted her winter white coat. Returning from a trip to Seattle and Portland the couple are making their new home at 4258 Shelbourne Street.

Let's Be Jolly, With Holiday Nap

Your plans for the holidays, should include one all-important item: plenty of rest.

It may sound impossible, what with everything there is to be done, but it is not. Naps can be sandwiched in between rounds of shopping, polishing silver, addressing cards, wrapping gifts and ironing the holiday linens.

They not only can, they must be worked in if you are to arrive at the big day feeling ready to enjoy it yourself. For Christmas is for you, too, as well as other members of the family. This is true even though the burden of the preparation is necessarily yours.

And, if you can, work in an extra 20 minutes for a scalp massage when you go to have your hair done. Wonderful for shining, healthy hair and very relaxing into the bargain.

Try to apportion your tasks in such a manner that you don't have most of them still to handle the week before Christmas.

STAYING POWER

The way in which you apply your make-up has a lot to do with its staying power. If you put it on in slapdash fashion, it will wear off quickly, leaving you looking pale and wan.

But powder which is fluffed on with a swansdown puff, rouge which is buffed down with a cleansing tissue to blend it and lipstick which is allowed to set for 20 minutes, then blotted, will stay and stay. It's a good idea to powder your eyebrows, too, after penciling them on, since it takes away that artificial look.

SHEER LUXURY

When you renew your make-up at noon or before dinner, do it just as carefully. Always remove the old lipstick and powder before you apply fresh. This is an absolute rule if you want clear, beautiful unblemished skin.

A hot bath, to which you add scented oil or a handful of bath salts, is a sure cure for kinked-up nerves at the end of a long, hard day.

Relax in it; don't just leap in, splash and leap out. Let the water work its wonders for you. And then off to bed and a deep, pleasant sleep.

A shower will get you clean quickly in the morning when you're pressed for time. But a bath is for a feeling of well-being and luxury.

Gowns Ready For a Magic Evening

It's here!
The night of the United Services Institute ball.

The 19 attractive young women have been waiting for with wide-eyed excitement.

The night in which they will formally be presented to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross as Victoria's 1958 debutantes.

Gowns are ready. White gloves are laid out. Colonial bouquets are reposing in florist boxes.

At 10 p.m. they will enter the Crystal ballroom at the Empress Hotel and walk slowly up a red-carpeted aisle to curtsy gracefully and then join their partners for the debutantes' waltz.

Here are the gowns they have chosen for the occasion:

Alexandra Ball
White brocade gown, floor-length, with scooped neckline and shawl cuff collar. The skirt is wide and bell-shaped and finished at the hemline with a wide bow of matching material. Miss Ball will wear rhinestones.

Bonnie Bradbury
A floor-length gown of corded silk brocade in ivory tone with wide, scalloped neckline touched with rhinestones. The waistline is sweetheart shaped and the skirt is wide and full.

Roxanna Brand
A full-length Italian lace gown. The bodice has shoe-string straps and is outlined with pleated lace ruffles that extend down the skirt. A baby blue satin ribbon outlines the high waistline. She will wear genuine pearls on a fine gold chain.

Jaqueline Fiddick
A nylon tulle gown with a rose-trimmed bodice. Roses also form a crown around the full skirt. Her jewels will be pearls.

Linda Gibson
A floor-length gown of nylon tulle appliqued with delicate French lace. Bodice in sabrina style with tiny sleeves and deep V neckline at back. The skirt has layers of tulle topped with a pannier of ruffled lace extending from the waist into a slight train. She will wear a tiara of pearls and sequins.

Gail Gooderham

Freda Greb
A floor-length white tulle over satin gown, with lace bodice styled with a scoop neckline and short sleeves. The skirt in appliqued with lace. Her jewelry will be pearls.

Diane Hamlet
Crystal charm taffeta gown, floor-length, with fitted bodice enhanced with a circular neckline trimmed with a chiffon pouf at the front and over the shoulders edged with satin ribbon. She will wear a jeweled headband.

Linda Johns
A floor-length white net and lace gown. The bodice is of net with fishu of net over the shoulders, with floating panels at the back. A large white silk flower is caught at centre of the bodice and the skirt flares in a net and lace tiered effect. She will wear rhinestones.

Judy McCormac
White nylon dotted organdy, full length, with a strapless bodice of soft organdy featuring a high waistline. The bouffant skirt has a pannier caught up to show tiny nose-gays of white posies.

Cynthia McDonald
A gown of white peau-de-sole. The bell-shaped skirt is caught up at front and extends at back into a slight train. The gown has a high cuffed Empire waistline and a bodice with scalloped top encrusted with tiny jewels. The back is finished with a wide bow. Her jewelry will be pearls.

Justine Richards
Bouffant chiffon gown in full-length. Simple bodice is fashioned with cross panels extending over the shoulders forming short sleeves. Skirt is tiered. Her jewelry is of pearls.

Pamela Roberts
A tiny bustle is the fashion point of this floor-length brocade taffeta gown. The dress has a high Empire waistline and a full skirt sweeping to a tiny train. Neckline is scooped and her only jewelry is an heirloom pearl pendant on a gold chain.

Jana Sayer
White embroidered satin forms the full-length gown which features a square cut bodice held by dainty rhinestone straps. Waistline is fitted and the wide skirt sweeps to the floor from a gathering below the hipline. Her coronet is of rhinestones.

Lola Sutherland

Home-Made Yule Logs For Fireside Color

To enjoy a real old-fashioned Christmas this year, make some Yule logs out of old newspapers. Chemicals are the secret of these brightly-burning logs. When newspapers are rolled tightly, tied and soaked in solutions of different chemicals, they burn slowly and produce a rainbow of colored flames. The logs take about a month to dry, so better start now if there are to be ready for Christmas. Put two pounds of coarse salt into a pail—preferably a polythene or wooden one, since the chemicals will corrode metal—two pounds of blue stone and two gallons of boiling water. Now add one ounce of any of the following chemicals, depending on the flame color desired: strontium nitrate which burns with a red flame; bismuth nitrate which burns crimson; antimony chloride which burns blue; barium chloride or borax, both of which give a green flame; or potassium chloride which burns purple. Put the rolled up newspapers into the solution and let them soak until the liquid is absorbed. Don't use slick paper magazines because they won't absorb liquid easily. Dry the logs on a rack till they are completely dry. When they are put on a holiday fire they will burn with an array of glowing colors.

FRIDAY, DEC. 5, 1958

DEAR ABBY: I am nuts about this guy who ushers at the local theatre. I can't wait until Friday because that's the night my cousin and I go to this theatre. I always sit in the aisle seat and I think he likes me because he fills up my row first and sometimes he flashes the flashlight at my face and grins. As an excuse to talk to him I go to the lobby and buy popcorn. I shouldn't eat three bags but I can't help it. I am 15 and he won't tell me how old he is or what his last name is. How can I get him interested enough in me to ask to see me sometime?

NUTS FOR HIM.
DEAR NUTS (and if you build up a crush without any encouragement, you are!): That usher has walked plenty of cute chicks down the aisle. Find out who he is, how old he is and WHOSE he is before you become a popcorn pauper.

DEAR ABBY: I want your opinion, please. My husband has a secretary who travels with him because his business demands it. Lately they have been flying together as "Mr. and Mrs." using the FAMILY PLAN because it is cheaper. (I believe a man's wife can fly for half-fare certain days of the week.) Perhaps there is no reason for my getting riled up, but I resent another woman traveling as "MRS." with my husband. Would you insist that this be stopped if you were I?

DEAR RILED: A married man who "flies high" should fly "solo." Get him down to earth if you have to clip his wings to do it.

DEAR ABBY: What would you do in a case like mine? My husband keeps nagging me for a little girl. I am 28 years old and we have nine boys. I think that there must be something about the combination of me and my husband that won't produce anything but boys. Is this possible or not? I wouldn't give up one of my boys for anything in the world but I sure don't want any more boys. If I could be sure I would have a little girl I would take a chance, but what if I lose?

NINE BOYS.
DEAR MOM: Nobody can guarantee you a little girl—but how can you lose, if when you "lose" you win a beautiful baby boy?

DEAR ABBY: Our son will be engaged at Christmas. I know we are supposed to ask the girl's parents for dinner. My problem is that we have a very plain house and I have no help and I am a very poor cook. I get nervous every time I think about entertaining these people. My husband says if it is going to make a nervous wreck out of me we should take them to a restaurant. I would like your opinion.

PLAIN PEOPLE.
DEAR PLAIN: You needn't be ashamed of a "plain" home. But if the thought of making a complete dinner upsets you—invite them to your home for cocktails (or fruit punch) and take them out for dinner. Or take them "out" for dinner and return to your home for coffee and dessert.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MAN OF THE HOUSE": A man may make the living—but it takes a woman to make the living worthwhile.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. "I am very thin. The lower part of my leg is all right but I look like I am bow-legged in my thighs. What can I do?"

A. A gain of weight will help. You also can exercise to build up the inner leg muscles. Do this one: Sit on the floor and lean on your hands. Drag the legs apart as far as possible and then drag them together. Continue. Do not lift the legs from the floor.

Q. "I would like your suggestion as to what exercises I need most. I am 5 feet 4 inches tall and weigh 130 pounds. My bust measures 34 inches, waist 29 and hips 39. I do not have time to do all the exercises and would like to do the ones most needed."

A. Your weight is just right for a medium frame. There is too much difference between your bust and your hips measurements. You can distribute your weight with exercise for more attractive measurements. I suggest you take exercises to increase the bust measurement and hip-slimming exercises.

If you (or any of my other readers) would like to have these, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 3, "Hip Exercises," and No. 7, "Don't Have Round Shoulders and Flat Bust—Reverse." Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Q. "Most of my friends tell me I am too thin, but my mother thinks I am just right. I am 5 feet 4 inches tall and weigh 106 pounds."

A. Of course build makes a difference, but I think you should gain five pounds anyway.

Q. "I am a junior in high school. My mother thinks that I should wear a girdle and I don't think I need one. My hips measure 38 inches. What do you say about this?"

A. You did not give me your height and weight but if you wear tight, slim skirts, I am sure you would look much better with a girdle. When wearing full skirts it probably doesn't matter. I know what your mother means. Why not use one of the light elastic ones, without any boning? These are most comfortable.

Q. "I am 5 feet 5 inches tall and weigh 156 pounds. I am 16 years old. Last year at this time I weighed 184 pounds. My friends say that I am just right but I disagree. I have a large

A. Your measurements are in perfect proportion. Congratulations on your loss in poundage. Even with a large frame I think you should lose a little more, from 10 to 15 pounds. Do this gradually in a sensible way, eating well balanced meals.

Evidence Recorded by Tape Submitted in Fraud Charge

A ruling to allow the introduction of tape recorder evidence in criminal cases is sought by the Crown in an attempted fraud case which opened in Saanich police court Thursday.

Three rolls of record-tape alleged to bear evidence of a conversation heard by police hiding in a basement were entered as Crown exhibits in a preliminary hearing of the charge against Reginald Simpson Everett, 29, of Winnipeg.

He is charged under his own name and the name Herbert Edwards in connection with a scheme to sell hot nut vending machines within a certain prescribed "exclusive" territory.

$19,000 INVOLVED

In a preliminary address to the court, prosecutor James Proudfoot said the Crown would try to prove that $8,000 had been paid out to Everett and that a total $19,000 is involved in the scheme.

The Crown claims it will show Everett sold or tried to sell vending machines in Greater Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo as a representative of Canadian Trading Co., Winnipeg.

This firm, ostensibly in business 25 years, actually has been in operation less than two months, Mr. Proudfoot said.

He said the Crown would show the $106.50 quoted price of the vending machine is not fair value and that the machine is worth no more than $18.50. Everett was aware of this, he said it would be proven, and was unwilling to show the machine to prospective clients although he had one in the back of his car.

Mr. Proudfoot said Everett had no locations for machines to be set up, as he claimed, and the Crown would show it was never the intention of the company to deliver the machines to buyers. None have been delivered to date, he said.

EXCLUSIVE RIGHTS

Further it would be shown the prospects were told they could have exclusive territorial rights to the vending machines within a 30-mile radius.

Everett, Mr. Proudfoot said, used various names, and with his company and various other employees "perpetrated a very clever fraud" in making long distance calls to the main office in Winnipeg.

Specifically, Everett is charged with attempting to defraud Gordon Cumming, 555 Whiteside, of $1,590 Nov. 5.

He also faces a second charge of defrauding Leonard Bieller, 3821 Ascot, of $1,590, on October 22.

In the attempted fraud case the Crown has a total of 27 witnesses, six of which were heard at the opening session. The hearing is expected to continue for two more Thursdays.

Cumming, a plywood mill engineer, told how he met Everett, whom he knew as Edwards, by answering a newspaper advertisement and subsequently inviting the salesman to his home to learn more about the vending machine deal.

GUARANTEED "TAKE"

The witness said Edwards guaranteed him $300 the first month, "regardless", and that he would make just under $300 a month on the machines thereafter. He would buy 20 machines for the purchase price of $1,590, Cumming said the accused told him.

During the course of their conversation a previously hidden microphone picked up their voices and recorded them on a tape machine set up in the basement by police who waited there listening.

They repeated their recording when Edwards retold his proposition to Mr. and Mrs. Cumming that evening, the microphone still hidden under the chesterfield in their living-room.

Det. Robin Stewart, who with Det. Sgt. Joseph Armstrong was among those in the Cumming basement, said he asked Edwards how many machines he intended to sell on Vancouver Island and was told it "depended upon the saturation point. Maybe ten, maybe three." One was already sold at that time, Det. Stewart said.

A number of documents, forms, letters, receipts and a leather attache case taken from Everett were entered as exhibits together with the sample machine from his car.

MACHINE TRIED OUT

Det. Stewart said at Mr. Proudfoot's request he put a nickel in the slot as instructions on the machine direct and received 18 assorted nuts.

Det. Armstrong said he went to Winnipeg with a search warrant and investigated Canadian Trading Co. offices at 416 Main Street. He said there were four rooms ranging from a hallway 5 by 15 feet to a room 10 by 15 feet.

In the first room was office furniture, a typewriter and telephone and another phone in a back room.

A young lady, he said, a Mrs. Bertha Czerwonski, was there, and an empty filing cabinet which was locked.

Indian Senator, 2 Whites Honored by B.C. Natives

PRINCE RUPERT — Two white men and a visiting Indian from Alberta were made honorary members of the Native Brotherhood of British Columbia Wednesday night at the 26th annual convention of the Brotherhood here.

The two whites honored: Dr. R. G. Large, alderman, chairman of Prince Rupert's centennial committee, and author of "Skeena, River of Destiny," one of the city's B.C. centennial projects, and James Sinclair of Vancouver, former fisheries minister and now president of the Fisheries Association of B.C.

The Indian honored was Canada's first native member of the federal parliament, Senator James Gladstone of Cardston, Alta.

Presenting the trio with Brotherhood pins were Rev. Peter Kelly of Nanaimo and Skidegate, chairman of the Brotherhood's legislative committee; Heber Clifton, sole surviving charter member of the Native Brotherhood, and James Sewid, district vice-president of the Brotherhood from Alert Bay.

VEHICLE BRANCH STAYS

There is no intention to move the licensing section of the Motor Vehicles Branch from Victoria to Vancouver, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

"We have never said there was any such intention," Mr. Bonner told The Times.

However, a brief asking that the section be moved to Vancouver has been presented to the provincial cabinet by the B.C. Automobile Association.

Evidence Recorded by Tape Submitted in Fraud Charge

A ruling to allow the introduction of tape recorder evidence in criminal cases is sought by the Crown in an attempted fraud case which opened in Saanich police court Thursday.

Three rolls of record-tape alleged to bear evidence of a conversation heard by police hiding in a basement were entered as Crown exhibits in a preliminary hearing of the charge against Reginald Simpson Everett, 29, of Winnipeg.

He is charged under his own name and the name Herbert Edwards in connection with a scheme to sell hot nut vending machines within a certain prescribed "exclusive" territory.

$19,000 INVOLVED

In a preliminary address to the court, prosecutor James Proudfoot said the Crown would try to prove that $8,000 had been paid out to Everett and that a total $19,000 is involved in the scheme.

The Crown claims it will show Everett sold or tried to sell vending machines in Greater Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo as a representative of Canadian Trading Co., Winnipeg.

This firm, ostensibly in business 25 years, actually has been in operation less than two months, Mr. Proudfoot said.

He said the Crown would show the $106.50 quoted price of the vending machine is not fair value and that the machine is worth no more than $18.50. Everett was aware of this, he said it would be proven, and was unwilling to show the machine to prospective clients although he had one in the back of his car.

Mr. Proudfoot said Everett had no locations for machines to be set up, as he claimed, and the Crown would show it was never the intention of the company to deliver the machines to buyers. None have been delivered to date, he said.

Further it would be shown the prospects were told they could have exclusive territorial rights to the vending machines within a 30-mile radius.

Everett, Mr. Proudfoot said, used various names, and with his company and various other employees "perpetrated a very clever fraud" in making long distance calls to the main office in Winnipeg.

Specifically, Everett is charged with attempting to defraud Gordon Cumming, 555 Whiteside, of $1,590 Nov. 5.

He also faces a second charge of defrauding Leonard Bieller, 3821 Ascot, of $1,590, on October 22.

In the attempted fraud case the Crown has a total of 27 witnesses, six of which were heard at the opening session. The hearing is expected to continue for two more Thursdays.

Cumming, a plywood mill engineer, told how he met Everett, whom he knew as Edwards, by answering a newspaper advertisement and subsequently inviting the salesman to his home to learn more about the vending machine deal.

The witness said Edwards guaranteed him $300 the first month, "regardless", and that he would make just under $300 a month on the machines thereafter. He would buy 20 machines for the purchase price of $1,590, Cumming said the accused told him.

During the course of their conversation a previously hidden microphone picked up their voices and recorded them on a tape machine set up in the basement by police who waited there listening.

They repeated their recording when Edwards retold his proposition to Mr. and Mrs. Cumming that evening, the microphone still hidden under the chesterfield in their living-room.

A number of documents, forms, letters, receipts and a leather attache case taken from Everett were entered as exhibits together with the sample machine from his car.

Warden Leads Charge To Free Jail Hostages

FLORENCE, Ariz. (AP)—A warden led 25 men storming into barricades at the Arizona State Prison, Thursday night, and rescued two guards held by rebellious convicts.

Despite warnings from the 46 insurgent prisoners that they would kill their hostages if attacked, the warden, Frank Eymann, decided to call their bluff—and won his gamble.

Moises Adams, 33, a prisoner convicted of statutory rape, was shot in the back during the assault. He is expected to live.

About 300 national guardsmen, deputies, police officers, guards and civilian volunteers ringed the walls with rifles and automatic weapons to guard against new outbreaks.

Guards Calvin Hunt, 33, and Scott Wright, 30, were held hostage for nearly an hour by prisoners wielding homemade knives.

Hunt, Wright and another guard went to the isolation ward to bring one of the convicts some medicine. As Hunt and Wright entered the ward, the prisoners seized them.

Eymann fired several shots and launched an assault. After a few minutes the lawmen recaptured the hospital and the office and rescued the guards. The other 1400 prisoners remained in their cells throughout the disorders.

The convicts staged an abortive sitdown strike earlier this week to protest what they termed poor food, inadequate clothing and crowded conditions.

Ex-Convict Suicides After Siege

PRINEVILLE, Ore. (AP)—An ex-convict brushed aside pleas to surrender himself today after a 10-hour siege that began when he briefly held six persons captive.

Stanley Robinson, 27, shot himself in the head as police crunched across the frozen lawn minutes after midnight to pump tear gas into his house.

It was the only shot fired in the siege that began when state policeman Vern Boyer went to the house to serve a warrant on Robinson, released from the state prison Oct. 31 after serving a one-year sentence on a bad cheque conviction.

Boyer was kept prisoner 30 minutes, with Robinson's former wife and their four children, whose ages range from five years to 11 months.

Then state police Sgt. Lowell Hertzler persuaded Robinson to let his captives go unharmed. Robinson held out alone. Police evacuated every nearby house and began their long vigil.

MARRIED!

A beautiful wedding was recently solemnized when Hi-Fidelity changed views with Loeve Optics.

They have adopted a son, "Stereo," and are going to live in Victoria.

They have moved into a smart, hand-rubbed cabinet of dark, shiny walnut, which is beautifully trimmed in ivory.

Mr. Loeve Optics is permanently situated with Kent's Ltd., and both he and Hi-Fidelity, as well as their son, look forward to new life here where they feel they can do their best in community activity.

A reception is being held every day in Kent's Hi-Fi room at 742 Fort Street. Special dress or invitations are not required. All are welcome and the new couple will be glad to offer a gift suggestion.

EXCITED

We're excited about all the lovely things we have for Christmas gifts.

They are excited about new designs in chairs, new ideas in hassocks, new and smart motions in lamps.

We're excited about how the new year is shaping up for the whole furniture industry. We think a lot more people are buying gifts for the home this year than ever before.

Yes, it's always so much more exciting to do things better, and we come to see what we are offering this year - things that are so much more exciting.

NEW KILLER SMOG THREAT IN BRITAIN

LONDON (UPI)—A British scientist warned today that the pea-soup fog that has blanketed Britain for 25 days is turning into a killer smog. The scientist was Dr. B. T. Cummings of the London's Bartholomew's Hospital, which treated hundreds of victims in 1952 when a killer smog took the lives of 4,000 persons. The disastrous smog followed the same pattern. London and the surrounding counties were blanketed for weeks by a crippling fog until coal and other fumes turned it into a death blanket. Today the heavy blanket covered an area of 28,000 square miles. London area enjoyed a break today as the fog eased.

SCANT MENTION OF SOMMERS

Local Issues Dominating By-Election

By PETE LOUDON, Times Political Reporter
TRAIL—A bridge, an underpass and a stretch of railway seem to eclipse the Sommers scandal and the Briggs charges in the Rossland-Trail Dec. 15 by-election campaign.

Social Credit has promised a spring start on the bridge, tenders were to be called today for construction of the underpass and there is an indication something will be done about the railway issue.

The people of B.C. may be looking on the by-election as a stern test of the embattled Social Credit administration, but judging from political meetings here, his riding is mainly concerned with local issues. Conservative candidate Alex Brokenshire Thursday night announced: "On Dec. 23, Christmas is coming to Warfield, in the form of a new underpass."

Tenders for the underpass must be filed by Dec. 23. The underpass, on the highway between Trail and Rossland, has been a political vote-getter for years.

'WE OUTPAVE FREE WORLD'

TRAIL (CP) — Highways Minister Gagliardi says the amount of roads built in B.C. under Social Credit is a free-world record.

"During the 1956-57 fiscal year," he told a press conference Thursday, "we spent $71 per capita on highways. That is greater than any other state or province in the entire free world."

So has the promise of a new bridge across the Columbia, between downtown Trail and East Trail.

So has the removal of a mile-long section of CPR freight track which cuts through a residential section known as the Gulch.

Gagliardi Revives Bridge Issue

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi revived the bridge issue in a press conference here Thursday.

He said the plan had been announced last August and added, "in the spring of the year I'll start definite soundings for foundations. They should be poured in the fall of the year."

He estimated the cost very roughly between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000.

He made reference also to rerouting of a road which now parallels the railway track, at an early date.

Police charged Harris Monroe, administrative officer of the Washington Newspaper Guild, with simple assault after he scuffled with Star photographer Eugene Tanner.

... BUT NO FREE SAMPLES

CUSTER, Wash. (AP)—A tractor-trailer carrying $50,000 worth of whiskey from Canada collided with another truck near here late Thursday, spilling $5,000 worth of the liquor over U.S. Highway 99. U.S. customs officers stood by so "no one would get any free samples."

Careless Driving Charges Suspended, Law Reviewed

B.C. Electric To Spend $95 Million City Earmarked For $5 Million

British Columbia Electric Co. announced today it will spend $95,800,000 on expansion in 1959, more than 80 per cent of it for new electrical facilities.

More than $5,000,000 of this sum will be spent by the company in the Victoria area.

Bulk of the local expenditure will be on the Horsey substation in the Topaz district, destined to replace the veteran Bay Street substation as the heart of the Greater Victoria system.

This station, with transmission and distribution lines, will cost $3,200,000.

MORE BUSES

Additional sums will be spent on both electricity and gas service extensions, and on the purchase of a number of additional buses.

One of the major transmission projects will be a new power line running parallel to the present line from Stratford near Duncan to Victoria, to carry increased power made available by the expanded submarine cable system crossing Georgia Strait.

AT BRIDGE RIVER

A. E. Grauer, company president, said the biggest single development next year will be $22,400,000 for further work on second-stage development of the company's Bridge River hydro-electric project.

This will benefit Vancouver Island directly through the submarine cable link. By 1961 $56,500,000 will have been spent, and 345,000 additional horsepower will be made available to southern Vancouver Island and the lower mainland.

Another $18,100,000 will go towards an 800,000-horsepower steam plant at nearby Ioco, on Burrard Inlet, scheduled for completion before 1965.

Plans call for completion next year of the world's largest gas turbine electric generating plant at suburban Port Mann — a 134,000-horsepower project on which $2,100,000 will be spent in 1959.

New mainland transmission lines will cost $11,700,000, another $5,000,000 will go for mainland substations and $5,700,000 for local distribution lines.

Full Liquor Rights Asked By Indians

'MILK FOR HUNGRY CHILDREN'

$10-a-Month to Keep Family of 5

The spectre of hungry children is still haunting the conscience of the world's more fortunate peoples.

In Korea, for example, a family earns from $5 to $10 a month, and the average family numbers five.

The south is hard-put to feed its own population, without taking care of the innumerable thousands who have streamed down from the north to avoid communism.

PRINCESS IN A HUFF

Exit Cinderella With Bruised Toe

NEW YORK (AP)—Princess Grace of Monaco gave high society a surprise sample of royal displeasure Thursday night—with abrupt flight from the dance floor.

Caught in a milling crush of spectators, guards and photographers at a ball in her honor, the former movie star made her sudden exit with lips set, chin high, and trailing a slightly bewildered escort, her husband, Prince Rainier III of Monaco.

A spokesman at the royal box explained that the princess had found the throng just too much when someone stepped on her white satin slipper. The royal wrath subsided swiftly, however, and the girl from Philadelphia remained for the midnight "beauty and the beasts" tableaux, and presided at the drawing of grand prizes for lucky ticket-holders.

DIGGER DIES AFTER 4 HOURS IN WELL TRAP

MAYFIELD, Ky. (AP) — A well digger buried at the bottom of a 70-foot well nearly four hours apparently died today before being reached.

James Bruce, a farmer who uncovered the head and arm of the victim, Bobby Lampley, 25, said he could find no pulse. The digger had been trapped when sides of the well gave way.

Reds Step Up West Berlin Air Threats

BERLIN (AP)—The threat of Communist interference mounted today against American, British and French airliners shuttling in and out of isolated West Berlin.

One of East Germany's leading Communists, politburo member Hermann Matern, told a West Berlin election rally Thursday night that the airlines — Pan American, Air France and British European Airways — have no legal right to fly over East German territory.

"This situation must be brought in order," he said. He did not say what action the Communists have in mind.

BERLIN (AP) — East German police have taken into custody a U.S. Army pilot whose plane made a forced landing, an East German official disclosed today.

The pilot presumably is Lieut. Richard Mackin of Washington, D.C., who disappeared Wednesday while flying a courier plane near the border between East and West Germany.

Bonner Orders Full Overhaul

British Columbia police forces today were advised against laying careless driving charges against motorists under section 131 of the B.C. Motor Vehicles Act.

But they may still be charged under the Criminal Code of Canada with driving offences.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner today advised police not to lay charges under the provincial act and asked prosecutors not to proceed with charges already laid under the act.

Five careless driving cases were accordingly remanded by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court until Dec. 12.

Mr. Bonner said he had taken this step pending clarification of a constitutional issue raised by the decision of the Supreme Court of Ontario affecting the careless driving section of that province's highway traffic act.

Mr. Bonner said it may have application in British Columbia.

VALIDITY QUESTIONED

The action was prompted by an Ontario Supreme Court ruling that has cast doubt on the validity of the careless driving law.

The Ontario court decision said the careless driving section of the Ontario highway traffic act infringed on the federal parliament's sole right to legislate on criminal matters.

B.C.'s careless driving section uses almost identical wording as the Ontario section.

Mr. Bonner decided on the careless driving charge "suspension" after long-distance telephone consultation with his deputy, Gilbert Kennedy, who is in Ottawa at the present time.

"We are obtaining a copy of the Ontario judgment," Mr. Bonner said, "and we will give the matter complete study."

Meanwhile, it was reported by Canadian Press that Ontario intends to fight in the courts to restore the "good name" of its careless driving law.

A City Mourns Its Children

CHICAGO (UPI)—This was the funeral day.

Today Chicago, itself grown on the ashes of the great fire of 1871, attended to the solemn last rites for most of 87 children who died Monday with three nun-teachers in the pyre which once was Our Lady of the Angels School.

There were scores of funerals—the processions of mourners criss-crossing areas from Holy Name Cathedral on the north side to suburban Melrose Park on the west.

The main sorrow lay over the Northwest Armory, where Archbishop Albert G. Meyer intoned the Roman Catholic requiem mass for 27 of the victims.

Services for the other 60 children were to be held separately. The three nuns were buried Thursday.

The hearse glided up in front of the armory one by one, two or three limousines with mourners behind each hearse and a priest with each family.

Six national guardmen wearing white gloves and white caps, stepped up to the rear of each hearse, set portable wheels in place and wheeled the casket through

Super-Shot Wound Up For Moon

NEW YORK (AP)—A huge U.S. moon rocket — short on brains but long on brawn — may blast into space this weekend on a trip that could take just 34 hours, but might last millions of years.

It is the U.S. Army's first shot at the moon—and the army hasn't spared the horses. This is perhaps the greatest difference between the planned army probe and the last three shots by the U.S. Air Force, one of which reached 79,000 miles.

The air force satellite weighed about 85 pounds. It was aimed at an orbit or at least a single trip around the moon. In its final stage it carried the electronic brains and manoeuvring rocket to do the job.

MAY APPROACH SUN

The 30-pound army shot also is aimed at the moon but if all works well it may be destined for greater glory. The army has packed its rocket with enough power and speed to overcome the pull of the earth's gravity and escape into the gravity domain of the sun.

Dr. Werner von Braun, chief architect of the army shot, says it has a one-in-two chance of building up escape velocity—and so blasting away from the earth into a possible orbit around the sun.

Such an orbit might last some millions of years—perhaps even longer.

This assumes first that all of the moon rocket's engines will fire and that it will shoot past the moon.

'Progress' On Columbia Agreement

OTTAWA (UPI) — Acting Prime Minister Howard Green said today that steps were being taken to sign an agreement with the United States for the co-operative development of the Columbia River.

Green said the basis of the agreement would be the stipulation that Canada retain control and ownership of projects on the Canadian portion of the river.

Preliminary discussions along this line have already been held by the commission and progress has been made toward reaching a solution to this problem," he said.

But at 6:20 p.m., the time of the crash the year before, the station staff found a small posy of purple forget-me-nots on the bare wood table of the deserted waiting room.

A black-bordered card said simply:

"Dear Daddy, I miss you very much. Love, Wendy."

Seems now an' then t' be some careless law-makin' along with th' 'careless drivin'.

Rossland, fer some candidates, could become a wasteland—politically, that is.

M' Uncle Zeke sez th' 'cost o' livin' is killin' him, but th' 'cost o' leavin' is keepin' him here.

OCEAN BALLOON FLIGHT CREW INCLUDES WOMAN

SANTA CRUZE de TENERIFE, Canary Islands (AP)—Four intrepid Britons, one of them a woman, hope to set off from the Canary Islands Saturday night on a flight across the Atlantic in a balloon.

The four hope to gather information on weather conditions and wind currents during a 3,000-mile attempt to reach Barbados, in the British West Indies. The voyage is under the patronage of Prince Philip.

The balloonists are Arnold Beaupre Elloart, 51-year-old businessman, and the expedition leader; his son, Timothy, 21, a chemical engineering student at Cambridge University; Colin Mudie, 32, a Scottish marine engineer, and his wife, Rosemary, 30.

Christ Church Funeral Saturday For Well-Known Art Restorer

Funeral service for well-known Victorian and internationally-known picture restorer Walter P. Jeune will be held Saturday at Christ Church Cathedral.

Mr. Jeune, a former school trustee, businessman, and war veteran, died Thursday in St. Joseph's Hospital after a short illness. He was 74.

Rev. Thomas Bailey, of St. Barnabas Church, will officiate at the 3 p.m. funeral service. Burial will follow in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Mr. Jeune served as a school trustee for 19 years including a period as board chairman. He represented Saanich on Greater Victoria school board for 10 years, retiring last December. Previously, he served nine years on the old Saanich school board.

Born in Swansea, South Wales, he served a seven-year apprenticeship in the art of restoring old paintings before emigrating to Victoria in 1907. He joined Victoria Steam Laundry on Yates became a route superintendent in four and a half years and eventually rose to assistant manager before joining the Canadian Army in the First World War.

He served as a sergeant-major during the Second World War and was given a life membership in the Canadian Legion.

Mr. Jeune worked 22 years with another laundry, the Pantorium, including 11 years as manager of the firm.

In 1950 he became the only carver, gilder and picture restorer in Victoria. In his workshop above the Treasure House on Fort, he renovated pictures which sold as high as $150,000.

In 1953 he restored a 200-year-old painting of Bonnie Prince Charlie and the following year a collection of 23 portraits, some of which dated back to 1540.

His work was known internationally and he received commissions from various parts of the world.

George, Not Charlie, In Plea for Ramsay

George Banfield, not ex-alderman Charles Banfield, recommended Victoria Labor Council support for Ald. Hugh Ramsay as reported in The Times Thursday.

VLC, which has sponsored its own secretary-treasurer A. W. Toone as an aldermanic candidate for city council Dec. 11, rejected the proposal.

Three Found Dead In Murder-Suicide

TORONTO (CP)—Three persons were found shot to death in a west-end Toronto home early today and police said it was a case of a double slaying and suicide.

The victims were Howard Hutchinson, 42, his daughter, Mrs. Ann Manning, 21, and Ronald Haslett, 26.

Officers gave this version of the deaths: Haslett went to the home of Mrs. Manning, a former girl friend, and Mr. Hutchinson, her father, refused to let him in, saying his daughter did not want to see him. Haslett fired a rifle through the door, killing Hutchinson, and then went inside and shot Mrs. Manning.

Haslett then telephoned his mother what he had done and shot himself, police said.

Package Freight Rates Trimmed

OTTAWA (CP)—A minor reduction of 1 per cent has been ordered by the board of transport commissioners, for some rates on package freight carried on rail-and-water routes between eastern and western Canada.

But the board, in findings made public today, rejected a claim by the Winnipeg Chamber of Commerce that the just discrimination against rate structure contains undue city and Manitoba province and is unduly preferential in favor of points farther west.

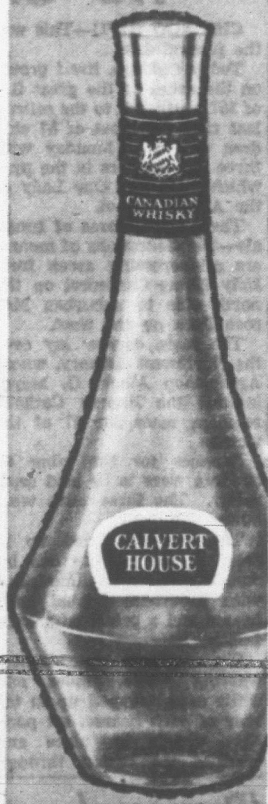

"bulk" shipments are not involved in the case. Package freight refers to packaged goods which readily can be handled by the water lines.

UN at Dead End In Cyprus Hassle

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—United Nations efforts to bring about a settlement in the embattled British Mediterranean island of Cyprus came to a dead end Thursday night after more than a week of debate and compromise attempts in the General Assembly's political committee.

A proposal for a three-power conference of the principals in the dispute—Britain, Greece and Turkey—won formal approval in the committee at the end of a long night session, but the narrow margin indicated that the General Assembly itself would have to turn down the proposal because of the two-thirds majority rule prevailing there.

The political committee vote on the three-power conference was 31 to 22, with 28 countries abstaining. If all 81 members vote in a General Assembly ballot, a motion needs 54 votes for passage.

Britain rather reluctantly went along with the three-power conference idea. London's contention has been that a long-term plan being worked out by Britain would best suit the interests of the Greek majority and Turkish minority and at the same time preserve Cyprus as a British and NATO defence post.

The United States, which had hung off during most of the debate, went along with Britain in voting for the proposal put forward by a neutralist group led by Iran. Canada did not participate in the debate.

Bridge, Underpass Big Issues in By-Election

talking because of the election."

These issues, and the calling of tenders last week for roadwork on the nearby Salmo-Creston highway, and promise of early attention to the Blueberry-Paulson road, are platform issues.

Politicians are making few references to the recent conviction of former Rossland-Trail MLA Robert Sommers on bribery charges.

Off the record, various speakers opposing the government say nobody wants to be first. If they make it appear the rest of B.C. is critical of this riding for three times electing Mr. Sommers, they feel the local voters may take the attitude they are kicking a man who is down. As an act of defiance, they might unite behind Social Credit again.

On the Briggs charges that the government is undermining the B.C. Power Commission, that power agency does not serve this area and neither does the B.C. Electric, so it isn't a big issue.

Dr. Desmond F. Kidd, speaking on a Conservative platform at Rossland Thursday, supported Mr. Briggs in his stop-Wenner-Gren drive, and so did Mr. Laing, but nowhere else has he been much mentioned. His allegations of debt juggling haven't been mentioned at all.

CCF Leader Robert Strachan, who has been voluble on both questions in Victoria, may change the pace when he arrives Tuesday for a four-party forum.

Mr. Laing, only party leader

to speak here Thursday, made vague reference to the Sommers case: "I'm not going to disinter anyone or heap abuse on anyone that's gone ..."

Then he said newspaper editorials written in Montreal, Windsor, Toronto and Ottawa all had mentioned Rossland-Trail recently.

"The eyes of all Canada are upon this by-election. It will have the greatest effect on how they regard us in B.C."

TENTH OF B.C.

He then went into the background of forest management licensing by which "the people's timber is granted in perpetuity." He criticized the diversion to Wenner-Gren interests of "one-tenth of the province."

"One day Mr. Bennett says this means hundreds of millions in investment and new jobs and the next day Mr. Williston (Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston) says that's silly, they haven't even got a water licence yet."

Addressing himself to the trade unionists in his audience, Mr. Laing noted there have been criticisms of some labor leaders for making demands which force up export prices.

But he credited trade unions with maintaining the purchasing power of the province.

"It's what keeps us all going."

On the question of debt, Mr. Laing said the province is in "indifferent financial health."

He said school districts' money is not getting through to them and the government is advising the municipalities to engage in short-term bor-

Four School Trustees Named by Acclamation

R. H. REEVE

Four Greater Victoria school trustees were re-elected for two-year terms by acclamation when nominations closed this week.

Thursday, Victoria representatives on the board Mrs. E. M. Maunsell and Walter Thomson were declared trustees for their fourth and second terms respectively.

R. H. Reeve was returned for his fifth term as Esquimalt representative Monday, along with W. R. Freethy who won his first full term as Oak Bay representative, after serving one year to fill out an unexpired term.

APPOINTMENT

A fifth seat, vacated by board chairman Mrs. W. W. McGill, of Saanich, will be filled by a department of education appointment because no one was nominated.

Unlike the school board election, contests have shaped up for all council seats at stake Dec. 11 in Greater Victoria.

Campaigning for four aldermanic seats on city council are: Ald. A. I. Curtis, Ald. Arthur Dowell, Ald. Hugh Ramsay, Ald. Elmer McEwen, Victoria Labor Council official A. W. Toone, housewife Mrs. Sally Rogers and commercial fisherman Elgin Neish.

Swimmer Goes 27 Miles But the Ice Made It Bumpy

(From CP Dispatches)

PRINCE GEORGE — Louis Lormais, 38-year-old French immigrant, staggered from the Fraser River at Stone Creek, Thursday, after swimming 27 miles southward from Prince George. It was 8 degrees above zero.

Lormais, accompanied by a friend, Len Van Egmond, in a small boat, had covered the 27 miles in four hours.

He hopes to swim the entire 400-mile distance from Prince George to the sea. Today he proposes to make it to Quesnel, 50 miles south of Stone Creek.

He is attempting the swim to the sea "just to show it can be done". He swims in a suit of foam rubber.

When he reached Stone Creek he had a badly swollen lip. "I kept hitting my head on ice floes," he said.

LIFE "HELD ON"

VANCOUVER — An unidentified man saved a wounded man's life by holding his punctured jugular vein together during a taxi ride to hospital.

A doctor at Vancouver General Hospital said that without the second man's help, Mikolas Redei "would undoubtedly have died". Redei's assailant was charged.

TRAINS CHANGED

VANCOUVER — Canadian National Railways officials announced Thursday the following changes in passenger train schedules, effective Sunday, Dec. 7.

The west-bound Super Continental will arrive here at 11.30 a.m., instead of 11.50 a.m., and the eastbound Super Continental will leave Vancouver at 4.10 p.m., as at present.

The west-bound Continental will arrive here at 7.30 a.m., instead of 7 a.m., and the east-bound Continental will leave Vancouver at 8 p.m., instead of 7.30 p.m., as under the present schedule.

FAMILIES FLEE FIRE

KEREMEOS — Five families fled their homes when fire roared through a nearby service station and cafe here on Thursday.

The families were kept from their homes for four hours until firemen brought the blaze under control. Damage to the building was set at $15,000.

BODY FOUND

SQUAMISH — The body of

Gary Price, 17, of Squamish, was recovered from Howe Sound Thursday by divers.

The youth was one of two drowned when a car crashed off the government wharf here Monday. The body of John McDonald, 23, of Bralorne, was recovered Tuesday. Vernon Tanner, 22, of Nanaimo, escaped.

IWA SEEKS HELP

VANCOUVER — The International Woodworkers of America are seeking the services of the provincial department of labor in an effort to settle their dispute with the northern interior lumber industry.

The move follows the recent IWA strike vote in which union members voted 59 per cent in favor of a walkout. The employers claimed a victory, however, because the union got a strike majority in only 15 plants. Unionists in 17 others voted against a walk-out.

'CASE CLOSED' ON CONFESSOR

MIAMI (UPI) — Miami Det. Milton Chesser said Thursday a Mohawk Indian who "confessed" to two murders in Gaspe for which Wilbert Coffin was hanged, was definitely not telling the truth.

Chesser said the "case was closed" on the man, Francis Thompson, as far as the Canadian deaths were concerned.

CAMPAIGN SIDELIGHTS

TRAIL — There is a battle under way for the sizeable Italian vote in the Rossland-Trail riding.

Highways Minister Gagliardi was accompanied by Pentiction winery owner P. Capozzi when he arrived Thursday. Mr. Gagliardi spoke in the predominantly Italian section.

CCF candidate Buddy DeVito is counting on his Italian lineage to assist him, and there is an Italian-speaking doctor in town who is popular with the group and is closely associated with Liberal candidate Dr. M. E. Krause.

Full-time Conservative public relations man here is Robert Anderson who recently gave up managership of a life insurance agency in Victoria to take the post.

The CCF is looking for an anti-government, pro-CCF vote from the growing ranks of the unemployed.

Mr. DeVito's office reports "there are 500 less on the Hill now than a year ago."

On the Hill is the Trail expression for working at the Cominco plant.

Since last Tuesday there have been an additional 30 to 40 layoffs and the Mine-Mill Union reports the company has said 225 more jobs will be reduced over the winter. The plant is down to 3,000 workers for the first time in years.

All four parties are represented by poster campaigns in Rossland-Trail, but only the Social Credit candidate, Don Brothers, is supported by repeated one-minute TV announcements.

Reception from Spokane is excellent.
A Conservative said the price is $100 a minute.

A platform quote from Mr. Laing: "The Toll Authority—in charge of that is a man named Gunderson. And strangely, the company which supplied the sand and gravel for Deas Island Tunnel has a director by the name of Gunderson—and he is the same man."

Progressive Conservative candidate Alex Brokenshire: "There's a more important issue than the former member's delinquencies. Now we are voting over an attitude of government. And it is this attitude of government that has deprived this riding of representation completely for the past two years and has given us very little representation in the four before that."

U.S. Fears Iraq May Quit Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has evidence that the revolutionary government of Iraq intends to pull that country out of the anti-Communist Baghdad Pact.

State department authorities are deeply concerned over the possibility that Iraq, formerly a keystone of anti-Communist defences in the Middle East, may be made into a virtual Moscow satellite.

The Vital Witness

ON MARCH 26, 1954, JAMES O. W. Blyth was appointed a member of the B.C. Power Commission. Some five weeks later, Mr. Blyth resigned. Why should an eminent accountant and economist leave an important position in the east and then almost immediately quit his new post?

Mr. Blyth's public statement at the time is a most interesting document in the light of recent events in the Power Commission. He said:

"I am all for public power. All I can say about my resignation is that I could not accept the job under the conditions which exist. I quit because of my serious concern for the future of public power in British Columbia."

In that statement Mr. Blyth obviously did not feel able to explain his views on the affairs of the Power Commission. No doubt his reticence does him honor. But subsequent developments, culminating in the dismissal of Mr. Briggs, indicate that Mr. Blyth did not resign because of some passing whim or because he could earn more money elsewhere.

He resigned, as he says, "because of my serious concern for the future of public power." There must have been good reason for that concern in the case of Mr. Blyth, as in that of Mr. Briggs.

What had happened in the Power Commission as early as the spring of 1954, what conditions had Mr. Blyth found there, what prospects had he foreseen for public power and how far do his views agree with those of Mr. Briggs? When and why did the present collapse of the Power Commission begin?

The royal commission headed by Professor Shrum should certainly seek an answer to those questions and can get it promptly by inviting Mr. Blyth to testify. While he is believed to be in the East, his testimony before the royal commission could easily be arranged. He is a vital witness in this inquiry. The questions raised but not answered by his resignation should be fully investigated.

The Struggle Continues

WHILE WORLD ATTENTION shifts from one major trouble spot to another, from Suez to Formosa, from Formosa to Berlin, it should be remembered that many less noticeable struggles are taking place in less advertised theatres of the cold war.

Such a struggle is now posing problems for Finland, where a parliamentary crisis has forced the Prime Minister to resign. Mr. August Fagerholm had left Communist representatives out of his government and hence earned the opposition of Moscow.

The Russians applied economic pressure to Finland in an effort to aid the left wing group, which has assumed large proportions in Finnish politics. The pressure was easily applied by Finland's huge neighbor.

Much of the northern nation's industry had been converted to supply Russian needs so that the huge war reparations could be paid.

This has left Finnish industry poorly adapted to cater to Western markets—a lack which in the present situation is severely felt. The Soviets have reduced their imports from Finland in an effort to enforce Moscow's wishes. The immediate result has been to create a serious unemployment problem in the smaller country.

Such tactics are less spectacular than the posturings at Berlin, but they are directed towards the same goal of Soviet domination and they should meet with the same opposition from the West. Finland, ever since the war in which it amazed the world by bravely whipping the first Russian forces sent against it, has shown what a small non-Communist country can do to preserve its integrity and freedom even though menaced by the Soviet giant.

Such an example should not be overlooked by the West, nor left to languish if the democracies can extend encouragement and aid.

The Public Needs Protection

THE CANADIAN COUNCIL OF the Blind is seeking legislation to prevent unauthorized appeals to the public in campaigns to assist the blind and to prevent blindness.

The reason for the request is easily understood. Certain appeals are being made which have no justification, says the council. In consequence the legitimate campaigns lose strength and the possibility exists that some of the approaches to the public may be made by unscrupulous people more intent on lining their own pockets than in providing funds for worthwhile work.

The Canadian Council of the Blind is taking action primarily on behalf of those who are sightless. The principle involved in seeking legislation to control appeals is not, however, applicable only to those who suffer from this affliction. It could apply equally as well to other collections.

The council has suggested that British Columbia follow the lead of Alberta, where "An Act to Provide for the Regulation of Organizations that Raise Funds for Health Services by Voluntary Public Contribution" is law.

Under this act very careful control is exercised over fund-raising appeals. Responsibility is fixed and an accounting is required on funds collected and their disbursement. In these days, when so many appeals are being made that it is almost impossible for the average citizen to familiarize himself with the bona fides of the campaign, similar control seems desirable in British Columbia.

There are, of course, occasions when spontaneous appeals are made and for which the detailed organization of more formal campaigns is unnecessary—when, in fact, organization would take so long that the purpose of the spot appeal would be defeated.

The Alberta act takes note of such a possibility, giving the Lieutenant-Governor in Council authority to grant exemptions at its discretion.

The proposals of the Canadian Council of the Blind deserve serious consideration—and possible extension to other fund-raising campaigns to which the public is subjected and in which it should be guaranteed some protection.

Coming Soon—City Centenary

THIS WEEK THE GOVERNMENT paid its tribute to the general British Columbia centennial committee, thanking the various sub-committee chairmen for the excellent job they had done.

In turn the committee members extended the tribute to countless British Columbians whose co-operation had made the year's 100th birthday celebrations an outstanding success.

Given the opportunity, British Columbians in general would doubtless have voiced thanks to all concerned.

In this atmosphere, the year of our special festivities is drawing to a close, although the final centennial report may not be completed before February.

It seems appropriate, at this time, to draw attention to another centennial not far distant. On August 2, 1962, the City of Victoria will celebrate the 100th anniversary of incorporation. It is not too early to start planning for that occasion.

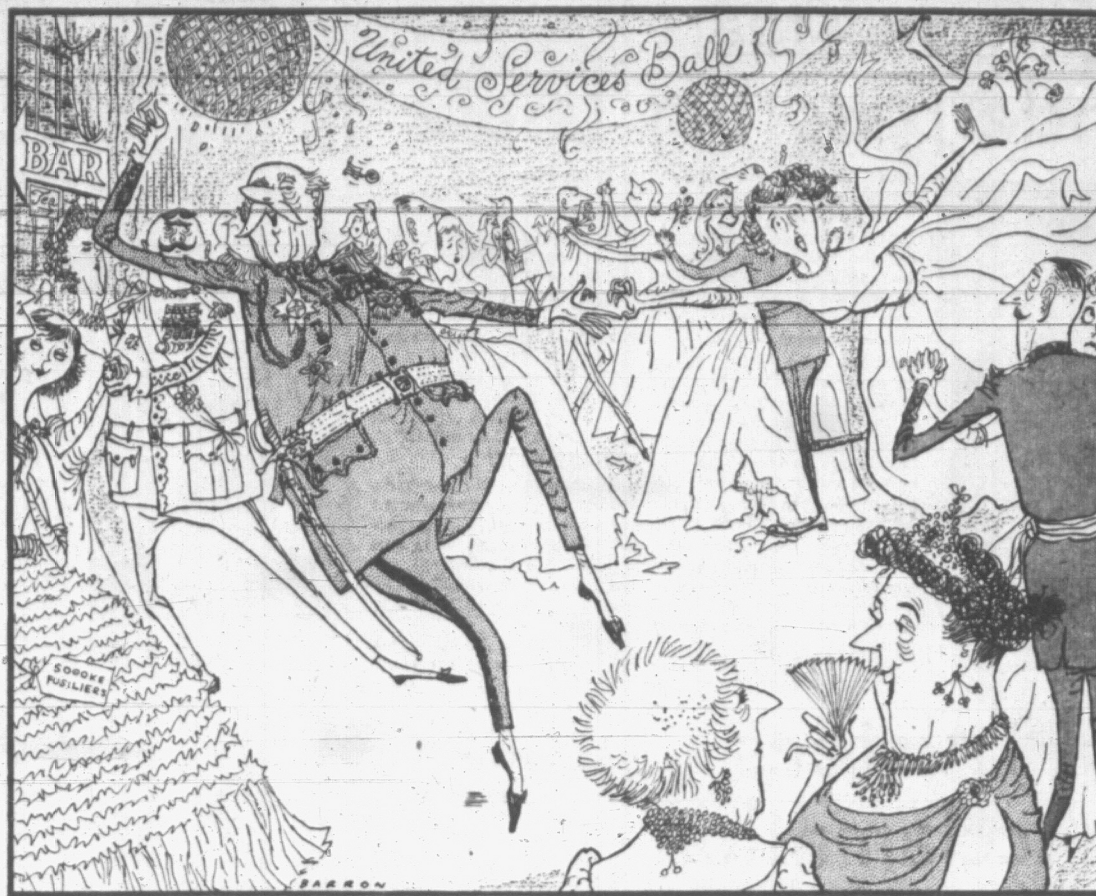

And in the planning, Victoria could profit greatly from the experience of the provincial committee. Should the city set up a preliminary centennial committee in the new year, its members could meet at least local members of the British Columbia celebration group for discussions. From those discussions could come advice on difficulties to be avoided and features on which organizers might concentrate.

Victoria, focal point of the earliest white settlement in this part of what is now Canada, was the second city incorporated in the region. As the capital it is expected to produce a program of fitting proportions for its centenary. The celebration of the 75th anniversary was good. That of the 100th should be better.

Whatever assistance it can secure in making arrangements for its big party should be welcomed, and the B.C. Centennial organization is the one group which could provide unmatched counsel for the occasion. The events of 1958 are fresh in the minds of members. Their experience is invaluable.

As one of them noted, there is no reason why Victoria should not profit from the blood, sweat and tears which went into the staging of B.C.'s birthday events.

"Wellington does look forward to it so ... he really digs that crazy jive ..."

ALAS FOR OUR PRESTIGE

By B. A. TOBIN

JUST when I thought we were making some progress in getting Americans to be more aware of us Canadians, just when we were getting them to look up to fellows like Mike Pearson and Wayne and Schuster and recognize them when they saw their pictures in the paper, along comes this dash of cold water. Our own Canadian Government tourist representative in New York comes home to tell us that down there, even among the stenographic set, we don't rate very high.

Tobin

It's important, he says, to have a name that carries some prestige. When the girls get together at lunch to tell of their plans to spend next summer's vacation in Bermuda, Acapulco or Palm Springs, they bring out these destinations with pride and a full consciousness of their effect on the listeners. It's called "name dropping" and it's quite an important part of the whole business of going on a vacation. You drop a name that has prestige, something with class, and then bask in the envy and admiration of your friends who won't be going there.

Advance Planning

"I'm planning to go to the Caribbean," says somebody's young secretary. "Ooh, aah," gush her friends. But "I'm going up to Toronto," says another, and the response is just "Uh-huh." Or if she tells a Canadian, it may be just a simple "Ugh."

Going to Canada? So what, honey, everybody goes to Canada. But everybody.

Somewhere along the line we've lost out somehow. We have no class, no oomph, no glamor as far as our American cousins are concerned. We aren't the sturdy nation of Mounties, trappers, French woodcarvers, warriors, frost-endurers and woodsmen that we thought we were. We're just another bunch of people, like crossing over into New Jersey, and who cares?

It's like boasting about your shack at Whiffen Spit when the fellow you're talking to has a split-level ranch house at Qualicum. It's a weekend at Nanosue compared with a week at Sun Valley.

Now all this is pretty damaging to our morale as Canadians. It isn't very flattering to be classed with Hoboken or Kansas City when glamor is being discussed. As our tourist expert puts it, "Canada" is somewhat less than de luxe as a vacation label.

He says it can be remedied by advertising in the proper magazines, getting our message across in the posh publications that are bought by the wealthy and influential, and read in the local library reading room by the rest of the citizenry. That way, apparently, we'll be associated with the classier joints and win back a place in the sun.

Domestic Problem

So much for the job outside. But how about us, right here at home? How are we going to get back our confidence? For don't forget that the place the American stenographers are turning up their noses at as a vacationland is our place. This second-class, mediocre, unfashionable, back-street country is our home. We're here all the time, and have to endure it.

Some of us, of course, haven't heard how lacklustre the country is, so we can still enjoy it. But the rest of us need help. We are looking about us with new eyes and a new realization of our situation.

I've felt it pretty keenly myself. I check the view off Dallas Road, the oaks around Uplands, the white-ringed islands sparkling in the blue waterways off Sidney, the rose gardens in Beacon Hill Park, the bordered lawns at Butchart's, the vista from the Malahat, the sunset over the Sooke Hills and all the other local scenes and I think,

"How dull, how shoddy, what would those New York secretaries think!"

I recall in memory Hollyburn Ridge and the Lions on a sparkling morning, the Fraser boiling through its gorge, the Rockies' peaks, the sweep of the Cariboo plateau, the infinity of the prairie wheat fields, the thunder of Niagara, the snowy roofs of Montreal from Mount Royal, the lights of Quebec, the bobbing boats in Peggy's Cove—poor, poor, poor!

No prestige, no standing at all, fit only for American share-croppers to come and see, fit only for Canadian peasants to live, among.

Classified Class

What we've got to do, not only for our prospective visitors but for ourselves, is to sharpen all this up. We've got to add a veneer of class to the whole thing and then try to live up to it.

We've got to polish it until an American visitor can go back to Omaha and boast, "Guess where I was! MOOSE JAW! Yes sir, right in Moose Jaw!"

We've got to achieve a national level where a New York secretary can gush, "Guess where I'm going next summer, girls! WEYBURN! I mean I really am! Right up in Canada!"

We've got to attain a standing that will inspire the tired lady with the 19-room suite on Fifth Avenue to breathe, "Yas, we'd thought of Monte Carlo or Juan les Pins for next year. But we felt that we owed it to ourselves to go to Lethbridge. The Van Bilkingtons were there last year, you know—stayed for the whole season."

We must build ourselves up so that names like Maple Bay, Bowser, Otter Point, Royston fall familiarly from the lips of magnates lounging in their Manhattan clubs, ladies having their hair done in Fifth Avenue beauty salons, tycoons meeting in Wall Street mahogany board rooms. Only then will we have arrived, and only then will the word filter down to the secretarial circles where it really counts.

As Our Readers See It

'Say, Can You See ...'

We who listen to the local radio stations are being constantly reminded that they are always trying to give us the type of broadcast we want. If this be true, why don't they follow our requests?

For example, I, and I am sure many others, have written them urging them to cease commencing every other announcement with "Say ..." (Very corny and unimaginative.)

Equally unimpressive is the insistence of a certain announcer to explain that we have just heard Mr. or Miss so-and-so. Surely our ears can tell us that Perry Come is male.

This supposedly cultural medium also throbbles with abominable pronunciations and grammatical errors, e.g., "demilitarize."

If they are sincere in their desire to give us what we want why don't they, then we won't turn in increasing numbers.

WILLIAM WOOD.

Deserve Better Government

It is lucky for Mr. Bennett that he got off with only a "show of bad manners" at the Victoria College.

I do not propose to offer in this letter my opinion on what is proper treatment of political leaders when they get into hot water. I do propose to explain how we could eliminate many of our current provincial and national troubles such as the one which now stares us in the face and the one which recently ended in an expensive legal battle.

The answer is the recall vote. The sooner it comes the better, and it will come. The reason why we do not have it now is because few of the people in this country know about it and that it is an important part in the democratic system of government.

Good roads and hospital insurance are good things but there are many others which need efficient, honest handling before I'll accept the one we have now.

A few years back a famous political leader said, "the people get the type of government they deserve." In this case he is wrong. We deserve a better kind of government than we are getting. Why don't we go after it?

The Stevenson Series

The Times is to be congratulated for printing in full Adlai Stevenson's report on Russia.

Some phrases in this report should shock Canadian citizens into action. Mr. Stevenson says: "I came away from the Soviet Union more convinced than ever that the battle of the future is economic and political." Yet Canadians are taxing themselves ever more fiercely to build huge, outmoded armaments.

Our number one problem, Mr. Stevenson asserts, is China. What kind of insane follow-the-leader policy prevents Canada from recognizing this great nation?

Are we a satellite country, that we so slavishly follow the feeble and bankrupt policies of the present American government in defiance of all common sense?

Where to Spend Pensions

I have noted with considerable interest the daily press reference to the proposed introduction of legislation into the Federal House relative to the releasing of the present "strings" attached to the administration of the Old Age Pension Act, in regard to the area in which the pension may be spent. I sincerely trust that our good members (McPhillips and Peakes) will enjoy the utmost in support when this matter comes before the House.

CANADIAN BRITISHER.

Berlin Manoeuvres

By WALTER LIPPMANN
From Washington

THE most likely explanation of what the Soviet government is up to in Berlin is, it seems to me, to make the West Germans more willing to deal with the East Germans. The fact of the matter is, of course, that the two sets of Germans are already negotiating at what is called the technical level, as the trade agreement recently announced reminds us. The Soviet government's policy calls for a broadening of these negotiations with a view, eventually, to a political agreement for a limited reunification of the two German states.

Lippmann

When I was in Moscow in October I had a talk with the Foreign Minister, Mr. Gromyko, and when we got to the German question, I asked him what was the Soviet view of how the Germans could be reunited. Without hesitation he replied that this could be done only by a "confederation"—he was speaking English—in which each of the two German states could retain its own social institutions.

Like Mr. Khrushchev, whom I had seen the day before, Mr. Gromyko maintained that German reunification by confederation would have to be brought about by negotiation between the two Germans.

The advocacy in Moscow of a German confederation seemed to me very significant in view of the fact that last March, when I was in Bonn, I had heard the same thing in so many and in such high quarters.

Official Formula

The U.S. State Department, to be sure, continues to repeat the old official formula that Germany should be reunited by free elections in which, of course, the Communist regime would be demolished and East Germany would be absorbed into the West German state. But I doubt whether there are many responsible men in West Germany who would want Germany to be reunited in this way.

For the two Germans have developed very differently and the attempt to integrate them would now be enormously difficult. It would be a heavy burden for the West Germans and very probably there would be considerable resistance to it in East Germany.

There are other reasons why few responsible West Germans wish to have integration in a unified state. For integration would change radically the balance of religious forces and of the political parties.

Seen realistically, and not through the fumes of the official formula, the alternatives are, on the one hand, the formation of some kind of dual state and, on the other hand, the continuing partition of the German nation.

I read the news of the Berlin manoeuvres against this background. Mr. Khrushchev, who is nobody's fool, is certainly aware that there is a strong and growing sentiment in West Germany in favor of expanded negotiations with East Germany. There is already a lot more talk among the two sets of Germans than the official policy of non-recognition contemplates, and there is no doubt at all that there would be still more talking, were it not for the respect and the fear in which Dr. Adenauer is held.

Soviet Idea

So, the Soviet idea of negotiations leading to confederation is one to which the West Germans are by no means unresponsive. When Dr. Adenauer leaves the scene, the idea has an excellent chance to become a live issue. Mr. Khrushchev is one who likes to ride the waves of the future.

There is, of course, no way of telling what will be the immediate course of the manoeuvre in Berlin. But it would be surprising indeed if the Soviet government, though it withdrew its own forces, did not keep the East German government under strict control.

For it is committed to defend the East German government if it is attacked, and that makes it reasonably certain that Moscow will restrain the East Germans from doing things which might provoke an attack. There is no reason at all to suppose that Moscow thinks that on the German question the United States is a "paper tiger."

Wine Trial

LONDON—Champagne, said a witness at the Old Bailey the other day, is a wine for a grand occasion. Whatever the rival claims of the robust burgundies and Rhone wines, connoisseurs of wine (and the law) would probably agree that if a Spanish champagne is to be put on trial there can be no grander or more awesome place for its ordeal than the famous No. 1 Court.

For five days the full solemnity and grandeur of British justice had been brought to bear on the grapes of Spain and the Champagne district of France, and on Monday a firm was acquitted of applying a false trade description by calling its wine Spanish champagne.

It had been contended that champagne could only be made in France. Grey-wigged counsel with flapping gowns have explored forensic viticulture, lovingly savored every subtle terminological distinction of the wine list, and have even tried to capture the precise meaning of "Canadian Cheddar cheese."

The red-robed judge has looked down on the table of neatly ticketed exhibits—gleaming green shapes, topped with golden tinfoil and blazoned with ornate labels. On the floor stood a jeroboom and beside it three cardboard grocery boxes of smaller bottles.

On Friday the public gallery was almost as full as when Christie or Dr. Adams was on trial. Perhaps the people had come hoping that glasses would be produced by the clerk and a magnum ceremoniously uncorked by an usher. If so, they were disappointed.

The judge ruled that the jury should not be allowed to taste the exhibits. He thought they should decide the case "on the evidence they hear." The public had to be content with listening to the recipe for a champagne cocktail.

SIU Man Fined $250 For Ferry Assault

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Seafarers' International Union patrolman was fined $250 on Thursday for assaulting a CPR policeman in a waterfront dispute more than two months ago.

Roderick Heinekey, 27, was found guilty by Magistrate Gordon Scott of assaulting Sgt. Harold J. Ives.

Magistrate Scott said he felt a fine would be sufficient because it was Heinekey's first offence and "there was considerable excitement at the time."

The magistrate said he found that Heinekey went aboard the ferry Princess Patricia and talked to some off-duty seamen who were joined by some who should have been on duty.

He said Heinekey, whether he intended to or not, interfered with the sailing of the ship and was asked to leave. He left and many of the crewmen walked off after him.

Magistrate Scott said a company official revoked Heinekey's pass and asked him to leave company property—the sidewalk in front of the waiting room, where he was holding a meeting with the men.

He said the CPR policeman did everything required of them in asking Heinekey to leave, before arresting him when he refused to leave.

The magistrate said he did not know if Heinekey struck Ives deliberately or threw out his hands to throw off the restraint of the policemen who went to take his arms.

"But it was an assault," he said. "He wasn't doing it for exercise."

Evidence was given that Sgt. Ives required four stitches to close a cut on his face and that he suffered other face and rib injuries.

We Flunked On Red China Says Prof

TORONTO (CP)—Recognition of Red China "is one issue on which our foreign policy makers have really flunked," Robert T. McKenzie of the London School of Economics said Thursday night.

Mr. McKenzie, on loan to Harvard University at Cambridge, Mass., was guest speaker at a University of Toronto debate on whether Canadian foreign policy should favor admission of Red China to the United Nations. The affirmative won by a vote of 53 to 20.

"I'm satisfied leaders of our major parties favor recognition privately, but outside pressure is too great," Mr. McKenzie said.

'Open and Integrate' Order Sent to Little Rock Schools

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—A mandate to the Little Rock school board to "take such affirmative steps as the court may hereafter direct to facilitate and accomplish integration" has arrived from the U.S. Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis.

The long-awaited mandate, mistakenly sent to the U.S. district court clerk in Texarkana, Ark., arrived at the federal district clerk's office here Thursday.

The order now will go to federal Judge John E. Miller at Fort Smith, Ark., for action. Judge Miller said he would hold hearings in Little Rock "before the Christmas holidays" on the order to open and integrate the city's high schools, but withheld further comment until he receives the or persons for carrying on segregated schools.

The mandate confirms an order of the court issued Nov. 10, prohibiting the Little Rock school board from leasing property to any organization Gov. Orval Faubus kept the city's four high schools closed this fall rather than let them be integrated, in accordance with the court order.

MONTÉ ROBERTS

Have you ever heard of "degree days"? I hadn't, either, until I fell into conversation with a professional engineer from Vancouver.

This professional engineer from Vancouver is a member of the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C., and he is in Victoria, appropriately enough, to attend the annual convention of said association.

And you know what the professional engineer said to me, right off, and immediately?

He said: "It's certainly a brisk morning. Much colder than in Vancouver."

Well, naturally, a remark of that nature made my Victorian gorge rise. In fact, my gorge rose so high it nearly swept away the Craigflower Bridge.

"What do you mean, it's colder here than it is in Vancouver?" I cried. "It is always milder in Victoria than in Vancouver."

"I do not wish to hurt your pride," said the professional engineer, "but I happen to know otherwise."

"In fact," he said, "in a recent study of degree days, I have found it is frequently colder in Victoria."

So I asked him about degree days, and to condense his explanation: degree days are days on which it is necessary to turn on the furnace or other heating plant.

Professional engineers figure out degree days, it appears, by ultra-scientific means and the use of slide rules, logarithms, and the like.

Thus I found it hard to argue with the professional engineer when he told me Victoria has more degree days in the summer than Vancouver does.

(He also admitted that Vancouver has more degree days in the winter, which saved my wounded pride a little.)

I was ready to admit defeat when I thought of a question.

"In your own home," I asked, "do you turn on the furnace after you have figured out, mathematically, whether or not it is a degree day?"

"Heavens no," said the professional engineer.

"I turn on the furnace when my wife tells me to."

I trust your fund of knowledge will benefit from this explanation of degree days.

Sidney Cleric Dies Suddenly

Rev. Roy Melville, 65, rector of Sidney and North Saanich Anglican churches for the past 12 years, died suddenly Thursday night at his home in Sidney.

Born in Toronto, he was a veteran of two wars, having served in the Second World War as a chaplain.

Surviving are the widow, Hilda, at home; two sons, Terry at UBC in Vancouver, and Wallace, Kitimat; two grandchildren; and two brothers and a sister in Toronto.

Arrangements will be announced later by Sands' chapel at Sidney. It has been requested that no flowers be sent.

Snow Tonight

Snow flurries were predicted for tonight by weatherman William Mackie as a result of two weather systems closing on Victoria like jaws of a vise.

"The Arctic air mass covering most of North America has reached a line between Abbotsford and Bellingham," he said, "and we expect it to creep across the water today."

"To the west, though, we have a warm Pacific storm pressing on us from the ocean, and the high cloud we had today was connected with a warm front from this disturbance. It is reasonable to expect precipitation in a situation like this, and it most likely will be snow."

Temperatures will drop to 25 degrees in sheltered areas tonight, and the maximum Saturday will be 40 degrees. Winds will be northeasterly at 15 miles per hour.

Sidney Wharf To Go Ahead After All

Defence Minister George Peakes announced in Ottawa Thursday the federal government will call tenders shortly for construction of a new $300,000 ferry terminal at Sidney.

The terminal will be used on a lease arrangement by Washington State Ferries for the Sidney-Anacortes run.

General Peakes' announcement came only 24 hours after WSF general manager R. I. Burse expressed "great disappointment" that the Canadian government had decided not to proceed with the work "at this time."

C. E. Blaney, Victoria agent for WSF, said today the announcement from Ottawa was "certainly welcome."

BIGGER FERRIES

"We hope to be able to use larger ferries on the run this summer," he said. "Mr. Klitkat is being enlarged to handle 95 cars per trip, and we hope to put on a larger, 110-car ferry, as well."

He said the new terminal is needed to handle the larger capacity ferries.

WSF is building a new terminal at the Anacortes end. It is hoped both will be ready for the peak of the tourist season.

Public works department is expected to award the Sidney contract within 10 days. The terminal will include a parking compound, wharf sections, transfer span, pedestrian waiting room and toll booth.

Two boxes of fishing tackle and two yachting caps valued at $60 were reported stolen Thursday by John Irwin, 1580 Despard.

SAANICH FORCE MAKING HAMPERS FOR NEEDY

Policemen to Turn Santa Claus

Saanich police soon will begin active collection of material to make up hampers for 35 needy Saanich families, Deputy Chief Jack Hamilton said today.

The project will be similar to the one conducted by the police last year, he said, but the number of recipients this year is larger.

"Already we have been given donations of cash toward the fund," he said, "and members of the force will soon be calling on merchants for assistance."

Police Chief Bert Pearson heads the campaign, and the deputy chief has direct charge.

"We got a wonderful response last year," Mr. Hamilton said.

Last year, he said, a clearing station was established in his basement, 1½ tons of potatoes proving too much of an obstacle.

"This year we are having a depot right at the Royal Oak police station," he said. "If anyone has anything to give, we will accept it there gladly."

Till 'Knocked Out' By Drink Says Lawyer

Defence of 16-year-old Johnny Till, charged with murder of his foster father Charles Mudge, is that the youth was overcome by drink and had no recollection of what he was doing.

This was indicated today by defence counsel Joseph McKenna, QC, in his address to the Assize Court jury.

Scheduled for this afternoon was the jury address by Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie and the charge to the jury by Mr. Justice J. G. Rutan before the jury withdraws to consider its verdict.

'I Don't Remember'

On the stand Thursday after the case for the defence opened, Till said "I don't remember anything."

The culmination of drinking during the morning of Sept. 13 hit the accused about noon, Mr. McKenna said, in the heat of the 11 foot by 12½-foot kitchen while lunch was being prepared.

Evidence disclosed two drinks of rum were served in the kitchen before lunch. Four persons, said the defence counsel, were present, Till, Mr. Mudge, Mrs. Phyllis Mudge, 30, and her father, John Brand, 69, another slaying victim.

Till was warmly dressed, and had been consuming liquor while on a hunting trip with his foster-father most of the morning.

'Knocked Him Out'

"The second drink (in the kitchen) is apparently the one that knocked him out," Mr. McKenna told the jury. Till, he said, didn't know whether he had lunch or not.

Speaking quietly, Mr. McKenna said: "Till didn't know anything more until he was sitting in the truck, and saw blood on his arms."

"Even an adult," he said, "wouldn't know what to do in such a situation, and Till just kept on going."

He was picked up near Port Renfrew after spending the night in the home of an acquaintance Roy Mills, where he heard about the killings on the radio.

"Imagine the feelings of the boy," said Mr. McKenna. "I don't know what you would do, but I think I'd feel like cutting my throat."

The accused was subsequently hospitalized with cuts on his throat.

'It Was Natural'

"Is it not at all unusual that he tried to commit suicide? I submit that it was natural... reasonable... though terrible."

He said the Mudges had been "generous" regarding their foster-son, "but unfortunately, to put it as kindly as I can, lacking in judgment."

He likened the accused to "a volcano," and "even gasoline, ready to explode."

For years, he pointed out, the youth had had one home after another, and in his position with the Mudies was "like the family cat... that stays with the house."

For this reason the youth

needed affection strongly to re-establish his stability, he claimed.

He described Mrs. Mudge as a "voluptuous" woman that could not but have an effect on the young man.

"Even an innocent woman doesn't realize the fascination she has for the male sex. That is why in Moslem countries they keep them wrapped up," Mr. McKenna said.

He pointed out that when Mrs. Mudge appeared in court "even the court officials vied with each other" to escort her to the witness box.

Mr. and Mrs. Mudge "should never have had the boy," he claimed.

Evidence showed, he recalled, that magazines such as Esquire, Ace, Bachelor and Playboy were scattered around the house, which Mrs. Mudge must have realized Till would read.

"Perhaps she didn't realize..."

He claimed that the Mudies were living beyond their means in their $17,000 home at 3460 Metcoshin.

Mr. Mudge received $500 a month as paymaster at Yarrows Ltd. and Mrs. Mudge re-

Amalgamation Forum

(The big issue to be decided at the Victoria and Saanich elections next week is that of amalgamation. In this column, as they are received, The Times will carry letters from readers pro and con.)

Saanich Needs Broader Tax Base

The reeve of Saanich has recently stated that the tax base in Saanich is not broad enough, mainly because of the residential character of the development, to shoulder the ever-increasing tax load.

The capital for vital services which will be required over the next decade will be very large and could conceivably be beyond the limits of the municipality's borrowing power. It may be that Saanich will find the rates of financing prohibitive and this in turn could develop into stagnation or into bankruptcy.

There are so many obvious benefits in the future for both sides such as a broader tax base, etc., that we must vote this month for a continued study of amalgamation.

Taxes are going to continue to go up in Saanich, as elsewhere, and perhaps much higher in Saanich in proportion to other areas. Therefore, I urge Saanich residents to vote in favor of amalgamation so that our council may meet with the Victoria city council, ready to work out favorable terms for both parties for ultimate union and benefit.

JOHN W. ARMOUR.

1980 Cromwell Road.

Passmore Fighting for His Job

All Coun. Leslie Passmore is fighting for in his opposition to amalgamation is his job on Saanich council.

Why, neither he nor many Saanich residents, who expect the mill rate to increase if amalgamation comes about, don't know what taxes are. In Weyburn, Sask., it is 80 mills; in Moose Jaw, Sask., 90 mills. I own four houses in Weyburn and last year it took me six months rent from two of the houses to pay the taxes.

I've owned waterfront property in Victoria—and at one time had 96 pieces of land in Manitoba, a ranch in B.C.'s interior and have considerable property elsewhere, so I know what I'm talking about, which is more than Mr. Passmore does.

In fact, I'll challenge him any place on any platform, and make a monkey out of him, on his opposition to amalgamation.

I'm 81 years of age and have lived here 15 years.

On Etiquette

WIDOW WANTS SOCIAL ACTIVITY

I am a widow with a 10-year-old stepson whom I legally adopted. It has been almost two years now since my husband's death, and I feel more like meeting people and having more social activities. Should I continue to wear my wedding and engagement rings, Louise, and if so, on which hand? How should my name be used? Mrs. Julia Scott Jones or Mrs. George H. Jones? How should the name be used for utility bills, mortgage payments, etc.

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS

It is a matter of personal preference as to the wearing of your engagement and wedding rings. Most widows do for reasons of sentiment and adornment, and, in your case, propriety, for you do have a son. Wearing the rings should not scare men away. Any interested person can easily find out by asking questions either of you or of friends. Your name is Mrs. George H. Jones, even though a widow. Your signature, which is something else, can be Julia Scott Jones, Julia S. Jones, or just Julia Jones. Check signing has little or nothing to do with social etiquette for the "transaction" is only between you and the bank, which has had a record ever since you opened your account. Should you re-marry, you would go to the bank and make arrangements for the recording of your new signature.

MORE ABOUT CHRISTMAS CARDS

May Christmas card envelopes be addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and family?

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS

"And Family" is a lazy way of addressing an envelope. It should be avoided on everything, but with Christmas cards I'm sure that no one in the family would criticize or think twice if it were written. If the sender knows the names of the children, how much nicer to include their names. It's a little more flattering.

Seventeenth Century Sword Used to Cut Wedding Cake

At a recent wedding reception the newlyweds used a sword made in the 17th century to cut their three-tier cake.

Bride was the former Miss Norma Elaine Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Stewart, 4225 Cedar Hill Road. Raymond Frank Creed, groom, is son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Creed, 4288 Shelbourne.

Ceremony, conducted by Rev. Douglas B. Carr, took place in Centennial United Church. Decorations for the service were baskets of yellow and white Desbud chrysanthemums. Colonial bouquets of red roses with white ribbons marked pews.

Mr. Stanley Martin sang "Because" as solo. Mrs. M. Wilmschurst played the organ.

The bride was lovely in a full-length traditional white gown. Skirt was of rose-patterned lace over satin. Bodice featured dropped waist dipping to points in front and back and scalloped neckline. Lace and pearl tiara held her finger-tips veil. She carried a full cascade bouquet of red roses, ivy, stephanotis and heather. Her jewelry was a pearl drop and earrings. She entered the church on the arm of her father.

Let's Be Jolly, With Holiday Nap

Your plans for the holidays should include one all-important item: plenty of rest.

It may sound impossible, what with everything there is to be done, but it is not. Naps can be sandwiched in between rounds of shopping, polishing silver, addressing cards, wrapping gifts and ironing the holiday linens.

They not only can, they must be worked in if you are to arrive at the big day feeling ready to enjoy it yourself. For Christmas is for you, too, as well as other members of the family. This is true even though the burden of the preparation is necessarily yours.

And, if you can, work in an extra 20 minutes for a scalp massage when you go to have your hair done. Wonderful for shining, healthy hair and very relaxing into the bargain.

Try to apportion your tasks in such a manner that you don't have most of them still to handle the week before Christmas.

STAYING POWER

The way in which you apply your make-up has a lot to do with its staying power. If you put it on in slapdash fashion, it will wear off quickly, leaving you looking pale and wan.

But powder which is fluffed on with a swansdown puff, rouge which is buffed down with a cleansing tissue to blend it and lipstick which is allowed to set for 20 minutes, then blotted, will stay and stay. It's a good idea to powder your eyebrows, too, after penciling them on, since it takes away that artificial look.

SHEER LUXURY

When you renew your make-up at noon or before dinner, do it just as carefully. Always remove the old lipstick and powder before you apply fresh. This is an absolute rule if you want clear, beautiful unblemished skin.

A hot bath, to which you add scented oil or a handful of bath salts, is a sure cure for kinked-up nerves at the end of a long, hard day.

Relax in it; don't just leap in, splash and leap out. Let the water work its wonders for you. And then off to bed and a deep, pleasant sleep.

A shower will get you clean quickly in the morning when you're pressed for time. But a bath is for a feeling of well-being and luxury.

Gowns Ready For a Magic Evening

It's here!
The night of the United Services Institute ball.

The night 19 attractive, young women have been waiting for with wide-eyed excitement.

The night in which they will formally be presented to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross as Victoria's 1958 debutantes.

Gowns are ready. White gloves are laid out. Colonial bouquets are reposing in florist boxes.

At 10 p.m. they will enter the Crystal ballroom at the Empress Hotel and walk slowly up a red-carpeted aisle, to curtsy gracefully and then join their partners for the debutantes' waltz.

Here are the gowns they have chosen for the occasion:

Alexandra Ball
White brocade gown, floor length, with scooped neckline and shawl cuff collar. The skirt is wide and bell-shaped and finished at the hemline with a wide bow of matching material. Miss Ball will wear rhinestones.

Bonnie Bradbury
A floor-length gown of corded silk brocade in ivory tone with wide, scalloped neckline touched with rhinestones. The waistline is sweetheart shaped and the skirt is wide and full.

Roxanna Brand
A full-length Italian lace gown. The bodice has shoe-string straps and is outlined with pleated lace ruffles that extend down the skirt. A baby blue satin ribbon outlines the high waistline. She will wear genuine pearls on a fine gold chain.

Jacqueline Fiddick
A nylon tulle gown with a rose-trimmed bodice. Roses also form a crown around the full skirt. Her jewels will be pearls.

Linda Gibson
A floor-length gown of nylon tulle appliqued with delicate French lace. Bodice in sabrina style with tiny sleeves and deep V neckline at back. The skirt has layers of tulle topped with a panner of ruffled lace extending from the waist into a slight train. She will wear a tiara of pearls and sequins.

Gail Gooderham

Freda Greb
A floor-length white tulle over satin gown, with lace bodice styled with a scoop neckline and short sleeves. The skirt is appliqued with lace. Her jewelry will be pearls.

Diane Hamlet
Crystal charm taffeta gown, floor-length, with fitted bodice enhanced with a circular neckline trimmed with a chiffon pouf at the front and over the shoulders edged with satin ribbon. She will wear a jeweled headband.

Linda Johns

Judy MacCormac
White nylon dotted organdy, full length, with a strapless bodice of soft organdy featuring a high waistline. The bouffant skirt has a panner caught up to show tiny nose-gays of white posies.

Cynthia McDonald
A gown of white peau-de-soie. The bell-shaped skirt is caught up at front and extends at back into a slight train. The gown has a high cuffed Empire waistline and a bodice with scalloped top encrusted with tiny jewels. The back is finished with a wide bow. Her jewelry will be pearls.

Justine Richards
Bouffant, chiffon gown in full-length. Simple bodice is fashioned with cross panels extending over the shoulder forming short sleeves. Skirt is tiered. Her jewelry is of pearls.

Pamela Roberts
A tiny bustle is the fashion point of this floor-length brocade taffeta gown. The dress has a high Empire waistline and a full skirt sweeping to a tiny train. Neckline is scooped and her only jewelry is an heirloom pearl pendant on a gold chain.

Jana Sayer
White embroidered satin forms the full-length gown which features a square cut bodice held by dainty rhinestone straps. Waistline is fitted and the wide skirt sweeps to the floor from a gathering below the hipline. Her coronet is of rhinestones.

Lois Sutherland

DEAR ABBY . . .

Start Curbing Your Appetite!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am nuts about this guy who ushers at the local theatre. I can't wait until Friday because that's the night my cousin and I go to this theatre. I always sit in the aisle seat and I think he likes me because he fills up my row first and sometimes he flashes the flashlight in my face and grins. As an excuse to talk to him I go to the lobby and buy popcorn. I shouldn't eat three bags but I can't help it. I am 15 and he won't tell me how old he is or what his last name is. How can I get him interested enough in me to ask to see me sometime?

NUTS FOR HIM.
DEAR NUTS (and if you build up a crush without any encouragement, you are!): That usher has walked plenty of cute chicks down the aisle. Find out who he is, how old he is and WHOSE he is before you become a popcorn pauper.

DEAR ABBY: I want your opinion, please. My husband has a secretary who travels with him because his business demands it. Lately they have been flying together as "Mr. and Mrs." using the FAMILY PLAN because it is cheaper. (I believe a man's wife can fly for half-fare certain days of the week.) Perhaps there is no reason for my getting riled up, but I resent another woman traveling as "MRS." with my husband. Would you insist that this be stopped if you were RILED.

DEAR RILED: A married man who "flies high" should fly "solo." Get him down to earth if you have to clip his wings to do it.

DEAR ABBY: What would you do in a case like mine? My husband keeps nagging me for a little girl. I am 28 years old and we have nine boys. I think that there must be something about the combination of me and my husband that won't produce anything but boys. Is this possible or not? I wouldn't give up one of my boys for anything in the world but I sure don't want any more boys. If I could be sure I would have a little girl I would take a chance, but what if I lose?

NINE BOYS.
DEAR MOM: Nobody can guarantee you a little girl—but how can you lose, if when you "lose" you win a beautiful baby boy?

DEAR ABBY: Our son will be engaged at Christmas. I know we are supposed to ask the girl's parents for dinner. My problem is that we have a very plain house and I have no help and I am a very poor cook. I get nervous every time I think about entertaining these people. My husband says if it is going to make a nervous wreck out of me we should take them to a restaurant. I would like your opinion.

PLAIN PEOPLE.
DEAR PLAIN: You needn't be ashamed of a "plain" home. But if the thought of making a complete dinner upsets you—invite them to your home for cocktails (or fruit punch) and take them out for dinner. Or take them "out" for dinner and return to your home for coffee and dessert.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MAN OF THE HOUSE": A man may make the living—but it takes a woman to make the living worthwhile.

Home-Made Yule Logs For Fireside Color

To enjoy a real old-fashioned Christmas this year, make some Yule logs out of old newspapers. Chemicals are the secret of these brightly-burning logs. When newspapers are rolled tightly, tied and soaked in solutions of different chemicals, they burn slowly and produce a rainbow of colored flames. The logs take about a month to dry, so better start now if there are to be ready for Christmas.

Put two pounds of coarse salt into a pail—preferably a polythene or wooden one, since the chemicals will corrode metal—two pounds of blue stone and two gallons of boiling water. Now add one ounce of any of the following chemicals, depending on the flame color desired: strontium nitrate which burns with a red flame; bismuth nitrate which burns crimson; antimony chloride which burns blue; barium chloride or borax, both of which give a green flame; or potassium chloride which burns purple.

Put the rolled up newspapers into the solution and let them soak until the liquid is absorbed. Don't use slick paper magazines because they won't absorb liquid easily.

Dry the logs on a rack till they are completely dry. When they are put on a holiday fire they will burn with an array of glowing colors.

$100,000 Suit in Girl's Zoo Death

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $100,000 suit was filed against the U.S. government today in connection with the death of a Chilliwack, B.C., girl in the lions' cage at the national zoo here last May 16.

Julie Ann Voght, 2½, was fatally injured when a lion pulled her through the fence at the zoo. The suit was brought by Margaret Rhinehart Hood of Washington, D.C., a great aunt of the victim, as administratrix of the child's estate.

SCANT MENTION OF SOMMERS

Local Issues
Dominating
By-Election

By PETE LOUDON, Times Political Reporter

TRAIL—A bridge, an underpass and a stretch of railway seem to eclipse the Sommers scandal and the Briggs charges in the Rossland-Trail Dec. 15 by-election campaign.

Social Credit has promised a spring start on the bridge, tenders were to be called today for construction of the underpass and there is an indication something will be done about the railway issue.

The people of B.C. may be looking on the by-election as a stern test of the embattled Social Credit administration, but judging from political meetings here, his riding is mainly concerned with local issues.

Conservative candidate Alex Brokenshire Thursday night announced: "On Dec. 23, Christmas is coming to Warfield, in the form of a new underpass."

Tenders for the underpass must be filed by Dec. 23.

The underpass, off the highway between Trail and Rossland, has been a political vote-getter for years.

'WE OUTPAVE
FREE WORLD'

TRAIL (CP)—Highways Minister Robert Gagliardi says the amount of roads built in B.C. under Social Credit is a free-world record.

"During the 1956-57 fiscal year," he told a press conference Thursday, "we spent $71 per capita on highways. That is greater than any other state or province in the entire free world."

So has the promise of a new bridge across the Columbia, between downtown Trail and East Trail.

So has the removal of a mile-long section of CPR freight track which cuts through a residential section known as the Gulch.

Gagliardi Revives Bridge Issue

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi revived the bridge issue in a press conference here Thursday.

He said the plan had been announced last August and added, "in the spring of the year I'll start definite soundings for foundations. They should be poured in the fall of the year."

He estimated the cost very roughly between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000.

He made reference also to rerouting of a road which now parallels the railway track, at an early date.

A City Mourns
Its Children

CHICAGO (UPI)—This was the funeral day.

Today Chicago, itself grown on the ashes of the great fire of 1871, attended to the solemn last rites for most of 87 children who died Monday with three nun-teachers in the pyre which once was Our Lady of the Angels School.

There were scores of funerals—the processions of mourners criss-crossing areas from Holy Name Cathedral on the north side to suburban Melrose Park on the west.

The main sorrow lay over the Northwest Armory, where Archbishop Albert G. Meyer intoned the Roman Catholic requiem mass for 27 of the victims.

Services for the other 60 children were to be held separately. The three nuns were buried Thursday.

A large fire department ambulance stood in front of the armory ready for possible emergencies. Behind the building, at least 60 auto loads of flowers waited.

There were no flowers, only a few green palms, inside the armory.

$5 MILLIONS HERE

BCE Will Spend
$95 Millions

British Columbia Electric Co. announced today it will spend $95,800,000 on expansion in 1959, more than 80 per cent of it for new electrical facilities.

More than $5,000,000 of this sum will be spent by the company in the Victoria area. Bulk of the local expenditure will be on the Horsey substation in the Topaz district, destined to replace the veteran Bay Street substation as the heart of the Greater Victoria system.

This station, with transmission and distribution lines, will cost $3,200,000.

MORE BUSES

Additional sums will be spent on both electricity and gas service extensions, and on the purchase of a number of additional buses.

One of the major transmission projects will be a new power line running parallel to the present line from Stratford near Duncan to Victoria, to carry increased power made available by the expanded submarine cable system crossing Georgia Strait.

AT BRIDGE RIVER

A. E. Grauer, company president, said the biggest single development next year will be $22,400,000 for further work on second-stage development of the company's Bridge River hydro-electric project.

This will benefit Vancouver Island directly through the submarine cable link. By 1961, $56,500,000 will have been spent, and 345,000 additional horsepower will be made available to southern Vancouver Island and the lower mainland.

Another $18,100,000 will go towards an 800,000-horsepower steam plant at nearby Ioco, on Burrard Inlet, scheduled for completion before 1965.

Plans call for completion next year of the world's largest gas turbine electric generating plant at suburban Port Majeur—a 134,000-horsepower project on which $2,100,000 will be spent in 1959.

A POSY IN SUBWAY

'Dear Daddy I Miss You Very Much'

LONDON (AP)—A little girl walked out of the swirling fog on the station at suburban Lewisham Thursday. She strolled along the platform which one year ago was a mess of tangled wreckage when three crowded trains piled up in dense fog.

The little girl wandered in to the cold, deserted waiting room. A year before that room had been used as a morgue for some of the 90 people killed in the crash.

The tiny figure stood there for a few moments in silence. Then she turned, walked out of the station and disappeared into the fog. The ticket collector said he never saw her before.

But at 6:20 p.m., the time of the crash the year before, the station staff found a small posy of purple forget-me-nots on the bare wood table of the deserted waiting room.

A black-bordered card said simply: "Dear Daddy, I miss you very much. Love, Wendy."

Super-Shot
Wound Up
For Moon

NEW YORK (AP)—A huge U.S. moon-rocket—short on brains but long on brawn—may blast into space this weekend on a trip that could take just 34 hours, but might last millions of years.

It is the U.S. Army's first shot at the moon—and the army hasn't spared the horses.

This is perhaps the greatest difference between the planned army probe and the last three shots by the U.S. Air Force, one of which reached 79,000 miles.

The air force satellite weighed about 85 pounds. It was aimed at an orbit or at least a single trip around the moon. In its final stage it carried the electronic brains and manoeuvring rocket to do the job.

MAY APPROACH SUN

The 30-pound army shot also is aimed at the moon but if all works well it may be destined for greater glory. The army has packed its rocket with enough power and speed to overcome the pull of the earth's gravity and escape into the gravity domain of the sun.

Dr. Werner von Braun, chief architect of the army shot, says it has a one-in-two chance of building up escape velocity—and so blasting away from the earth into a possible orbit around the sun.

Such an orbit might last some millions of years—perhaps even longer.

This assumes first that all of the moon rocket's engines will fire and that it will shoot past the moon.

'Progress'
On Columbia
Agreement

OTTAWA (UPI)—Acting Prime Minister Howard Green said today that steps were being taken to sign an agreement with the United States for the co-operative development of the Columbia River.

Green said the basis of the agreement would be the stipulation that Canada retain control and ownership of projects on the Canadian portion of the river.

"Preliminary discussions along this line have already been held by the commission and progress has been made toward reaching a solution to this problem," he said.

Job Offered Briggs
'Working for People'

(See Also Page 5)
The man who went to the people on the public-private power controversy Thursday night was asked, if he would consider "working for the people" against the proposed Wenner-Gren Peace River power development scheme.

A private citizen made the proposal to H. Lee Briggs following his public address at Victoria High School auditorium. The meeting was sponsored by a citizens' committee.

The citizen, hearing Mr. Briggs' remarks that he was no longer general manager of the B.C. Power Commission but a consulting engineer-looking for work, approached him on the auditorium stage.

The citizen identified himself as the writer of a note to the meeting chairman which read: "A great many people feel there is a debt owed to a public servant like Mr. Briggs. How can we take steps to pay such a debt?"

"Would you consider," the citizen asked Mr. Briggs, "representing, on a salaried basis, citizens' committees such as the one which sponsored the meeting tonight, in fighting the Wenner-Gren deal and other power matters which may arise?"

The citizen said Mr. Briggs was taken back at first, then replied he "would like to sleep on the offer."

B.C. Law Faces
Complete Review

British Columbia police forces today were advised against laying careless driving charges against motorists under section 131 of the B.C. Motor Vehicles Act.

But they may still be charged under the Criminal Code of Canada with driving offences.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner today advised police not to lay charges under the provincial act and asked prosecutors not to proceed with charges already laid under the act.

Five careless driving cases were accordingly remanded by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court until Dec. 12.

Mr. Bonner said he had taken this step pending clarification of a constitutional issue raised by the decision of the Supreme Court of Ontario affecting the careless driving section of that province's highway traffic act.

Mr. Bonner said it may have application in British Columbia.

VALIDITY QUESTIONED

The action was prompted by an Ontario Supreme Court ruling that has cast doubt on the validity of the careless driving law.

The Ontario court decision said the careless driving section of the Ontario highway traffic act infringed on the federal parliament's sole right to legislate on criminal matters.

B.C.'s careless driving section uses almost identical wording as the Ontario section.

Mr. Bonner decided on the careless driving charge "suspension" after long-distance telephone consultation with his deputy, Gilbert Kennedy, who is in Ottawa at the present time.

"We are obtaining a copy of the Ontario judgment," Mr. Bonner said, "and we will give the matter complete study."

Meanwhile, it was reported by Canadian Press that Ontario intends to fight in the courts to restore the "good name" of its careless driving law.

NEW KILLER SMOG
THREAT IN BRITAIN

LONDON (UPI)—A British scientist warned today that the pea-soup fog that has blanketed Britain for 25 days is turning into a killer smog.

The scientist was Dr. B. T. Cummings of the London's Bartholomew's Hospital, which treated hundreds of victims in 1952 when a killer smog took the lives of 4,000 persons.

The disastrous smog followed the same pattern. London and the surrounding counties were blanketed for weeks by a crippling fog until coal and other fumes turned it into a death blanket.

Today the heavy blanket covered an area of 28,000 square miles. London area enjoyed a break today as the fog eased.

PRINCESS IN A HUFF

Exit Cinderella
With Bruised Toe

NEW YORK (AP)—Princess Grace of Monaco gave high society a surprise sample of royal displeasure Thursday night—with abrupt flight from the dance floor.

Caught in a milling crush of spectators, guards and photographers at a ball in her honor, the former movie star made her sudden exit with lips set, chin high, and trailing a slightly bewildered escort, her husband, Prince Rainier III of Monaco.

A spokesman at the royal box explained that the princess had found the throng just too much when someone stepped on her white satin slipper.

The royal wrath subsided swiftly, however, and the girl from Philadelphia remained for the midnight "beauty and the beasts" tableaux, and presided at the drawing of grand prizes for lucky ticket-holders.

But although she smiled, she danced no more.

OCEAN BALLOON FLIGHT CREW INCLUDES WOMAN

SANTA CRUZE de TENERIFE, Canary Islands (AP)—Four intrepid Britons, one of them a woman, hope to set off from the Canary Islands Saturday night on a flight across the Atlantic in a balloon.

The four hope to gather information on weather conditions and wind currents during a 3,000-mile attempt to reach Barbados, in the British West Indies. The voyage is under the patronage of Prince Philip.

The balloonists are Arnold Beaupre Eiloart, 51-year-old businessman, and the expedition leader; his son, Timothy, 21, a chemical engineering student at Cambridge University; Colin Mudie, 32, a Scottish marine engineer, and his wife, Rosemary, 30.

Christ Church Funeral Saturday For Well-Known Art Restorer

Funeral service for well-known Victorian and internationally-known picture restorer Walter P. Jeune will be held Saturday at Christ Church Cathedral.

Mr. Jeune, a former school trustee, businessman, and war veteran, died Thursday in St. Joseph's Hospital after a short illness. He was 74.

Rev. Thomas Bailey, of St. Barnabas Church, will officiate at the 3 p.m. funeral service. Burial will follow in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Mr. Jeune served as a school trustee for 19 years including a period as board chairman. He represented Saanich on Greater Victoria school board for 10 years, retiring last December. Previously, he served nine years on the old Saanich school board.

Born in Swansea, South Wales, he served a seven-year apprenticeship in the art of restoring old paintings before emigrating to Victoria in 1907. He joined Victoria Steam Laundry on Yates became a route superintendent in four and a half years and eventually rose to assistant manager before joining the Canadian Army in the First World War.

He served as a sergeant-major during the Second World War and was given a life membership in the Canadian Legion.

Mr. Jeune worked 22 years with another laundry, the Pantorium, including 11 years as manager of the firm.

In 1950 he became the only carver, gilder and picture restorer in Victoria. In his workshop above the Treasure House on Fort, he renovated pictures which sold as high as $150,000.

In 1953 he restored a 200-year-old painting of Bonnie Prince Charlie and the following year a collection of 23 portraits, some of which dated back to 1540.

His work was known internationally and he received commissions from various parts of the world.

UN at Dead End In Cyprus Hassle

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—United Nations efforts to bring about a settlement in the embattled British Mediterranean island of Cyprus came to a dead end Thursday night after more than a week of debate and compromise attempts in the General Assembly's political committee.

A proposal for a three-power conference of the principals in the dispute—Britain, Greece and Turkey—won formal approval in the committee at the end of a long night session, but the narrow margin indicated that the General Assembly itself would have to turn down the proposal because of the two-thirds majority rule prevailing there.

The political committee vote on the three-power conference was 31 to 22, with 28 countries abstaining. If all 81 members vote in a General Assembly ballot, a motion needs 54 votes for passage.

Britain rather reluctantly went along with the three-power conference idea. London's contention has been that a long-term plan being worked out by Britain would best suit the interests of the Greek majority and Turkish minority and at the same time preserve Cyprus as a British and NATO defence post.

The United States, which had hung off during most of the debate, went along with Britain in voting for the proposal put forward by a neutralist group led by Iran. Canada did not participate in the debate.

Three Found Dead In Murder-Suicide

TORONTO (CP)—Three persons were found shot to death in a west-end Toronto home early today and police said it was a case of a double slaying and suicide.

The victims were Howard Hutchinson, 42, his daughter, Mrs. Ann Manning, 21, and Ronald Haslett, 26.

Officers gave this version of the deaths: Haslett went to the home of Mrs. Manning, a former girl friend, and Mr. Hutchinson, her father, refused to let him in, saying his daughter did not want to see him. Haslett fired a rifle through the door, killing Hutchinson, and then went inside and shot Mrs. Manning.

Haslett then telephoned his mother what he had done and shot himself, police said.

Package Freight Rates Trimmed

OTTAWA (CP)—A minor reduction of 1 per cent has been ordered by the board of transport commissioners for some rates on package freight carried on rail-and-water routes between eastern and western Canada.

But the board, in findings made public today, rejected a claim by the Winnipeg Chamber of Commerce that the just discrimination against rate structure contains undue city and Manitoba province and is unduly preferential in favor of points farther west.

Wheat, flour and other "bulk" shipments are not involved in the case. Package freight refers to packaged goods which readily can be handled by the water lines.

GANGES—A three and one-half month visit to Great Britain, where he saw the Queen's totem pole at Windsor Park, and just about everything else that could thrill a small boy, has just finished for Richard Wells, 11.

Only recently returned after the tour with his mother, he still considers the aerial view of London at night the most exciting spectacle of all.

"Coming to it at night the city looks like a huge fairyland, stretching as far as the eye can see, over one hill after another," he said on his return here.

He was impressed by Windsor Castle, London traffic, double-decked busses "that

$10-a-Month to Keep Family of 5

The spectre of hungry children is still haunting the conscience of the world's more fortunate peoples.

In Korea, for example, a family earns from $5 to $10 a month, and the average family numbers five.

The south is hard-put to feed its own population, without taking care of the innumerable thousands who have streamed down from the north to avoid communism.

CHILDREN SUFFER

As always, it is the children who suffer the most from the upheaval of war.

Dr. Lofa Hirschmanova, director of the Unitarian Service Committee, is being assisted by the Times to help these needy children.

It is nourishment that's needed. The USC is endeavoring to raise $200,000 in Canada before Christmas to ship powdered milk to the suffering young ones, not only in Korea but in India and Hong Kong as well.

"I'm not concerned with people who have preconceived ideas, or reasons for not helping," said the diminutive USC director. "Our object is to help those who need it—with all other aspects brushed aside. First things first."

The USC international aid campaign has been endorsed by both Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the United Nations. In recent years, the UN has packed up many of its earlier help programs, and voluntary agencies such as the USC are the substitutes.

Donations to the "Milk for Hungry Children" fund may be sent to either the Times office at 2631 Douglas or to the Broad Street office. All offerings are deeply appreciated—and are income tax deductible.

Mother Saves Children From Fire

COURTENAY (CP) — A Courtenay mother rescued her two small children Thursday from a fire in an upstairs bedroom of their home.

The children, Terry Williams, 4, and his sister, Susie, 2, are believed to have been playing with matches when flames ignited curtains in the upstairs room.

Mrs. Nonie Williams was hanging out washing at the rear of the house when she turned and saw the fire.

"When I ran upstairs they were just standing there, looking at the flames," she said.

The top of the house was heavily damaged.

Trade Winds Blow Best in St. Louis

WASHINGTON (AP)—St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Phillies, shuffling talent after disappointing seasons, were the busiest traders in the National League during the winter meetings.

With Frank Lane priming the pump, Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox set the pace in the American League.

Solly Hemus, starting a new career as a big-league manager with the Cards, came up with two righthanded hitting outfielders in Chuck Essegian and Gino Cimoli.

He gave up Wally Moon, a lefthanded hitting outfielder, to Los Angeles Dodgers, and Ruben Amaro, a light-hitting (224) but fancy-fielding shortstop, to Philadelphia Phillies.

Phil Paine, righthanded reliever pitcher already demoted to the Omaha farm, was ordered to Los Angeles' Spokane farm club in the deal that sent Moon to the Dodgers for Cimoli, a 246 disappointment after a fine rookie year.

However, it was reported in Tokyo that Paine balked and agreed to play with Kintetsu Pearls of Japan's Pacific League next season. He and outfielder Don Voigt, a minor-leaguer with the Cardinals, made the deal with Pearls Thursday.

The Phils in addition to acquiring Amaro as insurance behind Chico Fernandez, got Valmy Thomas, a much-needed catcher. They picked up Ruben Gomez, an experienced pitcher, from San Francisco Giants in the swap that gave the Giants righthanded pitcher Jack Sanford, National League rookie of the year in 1957.

Lane, Cleveland general manager, latched on to a fine centre fielder in Jimmy Piersall, who hit only 237 at Boston. For him Lane gave the Red Sox first baseman Vic Wertz and centre fielder Gary Geiger.

Lane also came up with Russ Heman, a righthanded pitcher from Baltimore's Vancouver farm club in the Pacific Coast League, where he had a 9-12 record. In return, Lane gave the Orioles second baseman Bobby Avila, 32.

The Red Sox also shifted Lou Berberet, lefthanded hitting catcher, to Detroit for Herb Moford, a righthanded pitcher with a 4-9 record at Detroit last season.

Coast Soccer Scribe, Austin Delany Dies

VANCOUVER (CP)—Austin Delany, 56, well known in British Columbia as a sports writer, died of a heart attack late Thursday afternoon.

He collapsed while at work in the Vancouver Province and died within an hour.

Mr. Delany reported soccer and golf for the Province mainly, but he could turn his hand to any kind of sport when the occasion demanded.

He was born in Birkenhead, England, in 1902 and came to Vancouver in the early 1920s.

As a member of the New Westminster Royals he played on four Dominion championship soccer teams.

Province sports editor Alf Cottrell says in writing Delany's obituary: "Not for many years will they forget the great halfback line of New Westminster Royals, Rimmer, Russell and Delany."

"That was Les Rimmer, George Russell and Austin Delany—a line that worked as a unit yet a line in which each was a brilliant individual performer."

Delany joined the Province in 1936 and had worked for the newspaper most of the time since.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, Brud of The Victoria Daily Colonist, and Austin Jr. in England.

CANADA'S YOUNGEST COACH

Robinson Accepts Lions' Offer

HAMILTON (CP)—Wayne Robinson, assistant coach of the Grey Cup champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers, said today he has accepted an offer to coach British Columbia Lions, of the Western Football Conference.

Robinson, in Hamilton as assistant coach of the West all-star team, said he will go to Vancouver as soon as possible after Saturday's East-West Shrine game.

Robinson said he is "very happy" with his new job but a little sad to be leaving the Blue Bombers.

"My two years in Winnipeg were very happy indeed," he said. "I like Winnipeg, its people. I feel I can do as well out in Vancouver as there."

Robinson said he has "no plans yet" for the Lions. "I'll get out there first, look things over and start some place. Then I'll go to work."

Directors of the Lions voted Thursday night to accept an executive recommendation to go after Robinson.

Contract details were not disclosed. Robinson, however, will be given a free hand to select two assistants, but has not yet done so.

Robinson is the third coach in less than two years for the Lions, who finished in the league cellar this season with a 3-13 won-lost record.

Clem Crowe started out the 1958 season but was released after three games. Dan Edwards, former all-star end with Lions, replaced Crowe. Sept. 2 and finished the season.

WAYNE ROBINSON

National Football League with Philadelphia Eagles in 1954-55-56, joined the Bombers in 1957.

At 28 he becomes the youngest coach in Canada of a senior professional team.

"It's a young man's game," he said.

"His acceptance of the Vancouver job has been cleared by Winnipeg officials, who had given Lions permission to talk to him seven weeks ago. Lions officials telephoned Robinson Thursday night with the offer."

How does he feel about going from a Grey Cup winner to a team that lost a record 10 straight games this season and finished last?

"Well, there is plenty of room for expansion. There's only one way to go—and that's up."

Lions' president Harry Spring said Robinson, 28, will be given a free hand to select his own assistants. Jerry Burns, backfield coach at Iowa since 1954, who has worked with Bombers' backfield the last two Winnipeg training camps, immediately was reckoned as a top choice to get one of the two assistants' jobs.

A list of 12 candidates, including Robinson, was reviewed before Lions decided on him.

Spring said "Robinson was selected because we feel he has the best qualifications for the job. It does not mean we thought Dan Edwards didn't do a good job. We all appreciate his work but sentiment can not interfere with our selection."

ARCHIE SAYS

Sniffles No Cause For Worry

MONTREAL (CP)—Archibald Lee Moore, nursing a slight head cold, went through a light workout Thursday as he prepared to defend his world light-heavyweight boxing title against Canada's Yvon

Whether it's banking, tight-rope walking or hockey, you're heading for trouble unless you have balance.

Pat Egan may not have an outstanding scoring star but the Victoria coach has his club chugging along in a second-place deadlock in the Western Hockey League's Coast Division because he has balance in the Cougars' forward line.

George Ford, Stan Balluk, Enio Sclicizzi and Doug Macauley have all taken turns with scoring streaks that salvaged games for the Cats.

Ford, who collected five goals in his first four games and then failed to hit the net for the next 15 games, continued his recent scoring spree at Winnipeg Thursday night, rapping in two goals, including the winning tally, as the Cats tripped the Warriors, 4-3.

Improving rookie Don Blackburn fired the first two Victoria goals and goalie Marcel Pelletier came up with another sharp performance to help the Cougars to their first win in six games in the league's Prairie Division arenas.

Ray Brunel counted twice, Dick Lamoureux tallied once for Warriors.

DEFLECTED SHOT

Blackburn twice brought the Cougars from behind to tie the score and Ford put the club ahead for the first time at 15:45 of the second period.

Lamoureux knotted the count again early in the final period.

Victoria's Murray Wilkie picked up the only penalty of the period seconds later, but the Cats weathered the Warrior power play and grabbed the decision when Ford took a neat pass from Gordie Haworth with less than three minutes remaining and drilled a deflected shot past goalie Ray Mikulan.

NAVY STREAK ON LINE; ACES ARGUE WITH VICS

Two streaks will be on the line in the second game of Saturday night's Commercial Hockey League doubleheader at Memorial Arena.

Army, beaten in three successive starts, will take on Navy, which is rolling along in first place with a record of three straight triumphs.

The Soldiers tackle the confident Tafs at 9 p.m., following an important tussle between Shell Aces and Vics.

Warriors Obtain Front-Line Help

Players shuffled in, out and around the Western Hockey League, Thursday.

Winnipeg Warriors obtained centre Jerry Wilson from the Toronto Maple Leafs, of the National League.

Wilson, a native of Winnipeg, has been working out with the Leafs for the last three weeks but will play with Winnipeg for the remainder of the season.

A six-foot-three 210-pounder, he was drafted by the Leafs last spring for $15,000.

The deal was announced 48 hours after the Warriors said they had given the Leafs permission to negotiate with coach

Alf Pike about taking over as coach of the NHL club.

Warriors also picked up rookie rightwinger Warren Hynes from Edmonton Flyers.

Bud Poile, general manager of the Flyers, said Hynes, a native of Montreal, will have a chance to see more action by playing for Winnipeg.

In Calgary the Stampede announced acquisition of forward Howie Glover from the Chicago Black Hawks. The Stampede gave up Johnny McKenzie, who leaves for a tryout with the Hawks. Glover scored 38 goals last year with Winnipeg.

Colwood Golf Winners

Mrs. L. A. Bradley scored 101-17-84 to capture silver division honors in the Colwood Golf Club ladies' monthly medal round Thursday. Bronze winner was Mrs. H. E. Vaino.
